PREFACE.

A FEW remarks from its Compiler, may perhaps be admissable on issuing the EIGHTEENTH ANNUAL VOLUME OF THE REGISTRY FOR THE CATHOLIC WORLD.

If, with the illustrious Montalembert, we contrast the state of Catholicity at this hour with its condition fifty years ago, we have great reason to glorify God for the distinctive evidence He has given in favour of His Church—and in proof of the solemn declaration, that “no weapon that is formed against her shall prosper and every tongue that resisteth her in judgment she shall condemn. This is the inheritance of the servants of the Lord and their justice with me, saith the Lord.”

Beginning with our “own dear City of the Soul”—in January, 1800, there was no Pope at Rome! The venerable Pius VI., who had been imprisoned like Peter, had ceased to exist. Scarcely had his illustrious successor, Pius VII., ascended the Chair of Christian unity than he, too, had to become a confessor for the Faith of Christ, and was doomed to suffer persecution, imprisonment, and exile. But both conquered the power of darkness, and the “authority in high places!” Although for a time Rome was pillaged, her Churches assailed, her Pontiff banished, her Bishops scattered, and the holy treasury confiscated—yet they were soon replenished and renewed. Although the Sacred Consistory was impeded, and the rights of the Holy See abused, the Chair of Peter remained fixed in the Eternal City. He who conquered the greatest conqueror of the earth had the glory to see religion triumphant over the ruins of empires and the crush of worlds; as his illustrious namesake and successor, Pius IX., although subjected to the very same process of persecution, has had the delight to witness the restoration of all power, principle, and privilege connected with his Primacy. And how gloriously has not the influence of the centre of Catholicity contributed to promote religion in every land—and thus sought out new worlds to conquer for Jesus Christ?

The United States, that in 1800 had but one bishop and only a few priests, have now a glorious hierarchy of thirty-six bishops and above 1500 priests, preaching and promoting Catholicity in every State.

Australia, which then had not even one bishop, and only two priests (countrymen of our own), has now an archbishop, fourteen bishops and several hundred pastors, all united to the See of Peter.

The British American Colonies, which in many parts had neither church nor pastor, have now prelates and pastors, and regular hierarchies of archbishops and bishops; as in Trinidad, Halifax, &c., where Irishmen have been honoured with the special privilege of the Holy See, and are leading their clergy and their flocks to the fountains of eternal life.

In Asia, including all India, up to China, the faith progresses with miraculous rapidity, as may be seen in the present work.

On Africa's barren sands, it is producing fruit a hundred fold, under the fostering influence of the Association for the Propagation of the Faith.

In Europe, the contrast seems equally astonishing! where, whilst the spirit of heresy and schism had produced its deadening and diabolical effect, the satanic influence of a wild and infidel philosophy had, in many places, turned men into demons and the sanctuary of religion into receptacles of the grossest infamy that ever cursed a nation! whilst now, the Lord seems in all parts to have "replenished the face of the earth."

France, once the first of religion's kingdoms,—seemed to have forgotten that there was a God and became an idolater of mere human reason—has gloriously risen from her sleep of death, and soars on eagles' wings to the only haven of repose. Singular change! the army of that once diseased nation, which drove from his home and from his throne the Father of the faithful, now in the plenitude of its strength and wisdom, brings him back in triumph to the Vatican, and acts as a body guard, to "protect him from the hands of his enemies!" That country which at one time, inhaling the pestiferous doctrines of the Voltaires, the Diderots, the D'Alemberts, the Rousseaus, and the other champions of impiety, deluged Europe with its errors and its crimes, now enlightens Europe by the brilliancy of its virtues and the power of its talents.

Belgium, ever true and Catholic, although for a time, like Ireland, trampled on by misrule and convulsed by foreign foes, is now rising to happiness and peace, with her illustrious bishops and learned priests forming her Universities of Louvaine and Fulda, and presenting glorious examples to Catholic Europe. Lucerne, Geneva, and other parts of Switzerland, once seats of Calvinism and Zuinglianism, are throwing off the incubus of their blighting heresies, and are embracing the Faith and adopting the spirit of the glorious St. Francis de Sales, who converted so many thousands by his sanctity, and his miracles.

Proud and vacillating Germany, which, from Luther to Ronge, followed during three centuries every strange doctrine from the insane ravings of the impious monk to the infidel philosophy of what is misnamed "Rationalism." This Germany, under a noble band of Catholic missionaries, is once more raising the banner of the Cross on the ruins of Protestantism, and bringing thousands of souls to the one fold.

Prussia, which, under the evil influence of Frederick and his associates, had formed a league against the illustrious Jesuits, to de-Catholicize that country, and to plant the standard of doubt, latitudinarianism, and infidelity, by mixed education, mixed marriages, and godless Colleges under state control—is fast emerging from the thralldom which had almost destroyed her, and raising herself in the march of truth. Whilst we write, we rejoice to hear, that owing to the firmness of the Catholic bishops, and the good conduct of the Catholic laity, the cabinet of Berlin and its king are conceding measures which will greatly extend the kingdom of Jesus Christ. Need we refer to the restoration, in our own days, of the illustrious Society of Jesus, which, although assailed by Pombal and his vile associates, has arisen glorious and immortal?

Austria, which then was "sleeping" under the administrative despotism of Joseph and his successor Leopold, is now marching under the banner of the Holy See, towards the Eternal City.

Even Holland, where persecution against Catholics had been for half a century so active, is once more regaining her ancient sway over the empire of error and impiety.

Spain and Portugal, which for so many centuries had diffused the light of truth among their own people and over distant regions, having by the acts of infidels, revolutionists, and anarchists, during a large portion of the last half century, suffered so much in the suppression of churches, interruption of bishops, and want of pastors, are again vieing with the most Catholic countries in the work of promoting religion at home and abroad. During the last few years, as may be seen by our list, nearly all vacant bishoprics have been filled up, and both clergy and laity are sustaining the glorious cause of sacred faith and morals, in union with the Holy See.

Poland, too, although persecuted by tyrants and despots, under the pretext of "keeping law and order," is advancing in her march to virtue, freedom, and happiness, and her proud and imperial "Sister" Russia, in the midst of her schism, is making rapid concession to the successor of St. Peter.

If we turn our eyes to England, what a mighty change within the last fifty years! Then, with four humble Vicars-Apostolic, and a few hundred priests; now, with a Cardinal, twelve Bishops, and twelve hundred clergymen, seculars and regulars of every order, from the mitred Lord Abbot down to the Fathers of the Oratory. But this is not all—notwithstanding the blasphemies of infidels, the rant of sectaries, and the revilings of State-Church slaves, about 400 fellows, professors, or members of England's boasted Universities, and of her gorgeous church, have submitted themselves to the yoke of Christ, and become obedient children of their reviled but most affectionate mother, the Catholic Church!

In Scotland, so late as 1778, we are told, that with the exception of two small chapels at Edinburgh and Glasgow—burned by the rioters in the same year—there was no other place of Catholic worship between the Tweed and Solway Frith, and the Friths of Forth and Clyde—whilst there are now about thirty churches in one district alone, or about 150 churches and stations in all. The number of priests in all Scotland in 1780, appears not to have exceeded twenty; they are now about 130.

And need it be told—faithful, Catholic Ireland, although immersed in the lowest depths of poverty—through neglect and misrule—ranks next after Rome the Holy, in the support of the missions and the advancement of the glory of the Church of Christ? Although for three hundred years, suffering all that the Christians of the first three centuries had endured under the bloody code and ruffian violence of monsters of iniquity, she lives in the fulness of the faith; and having thrown off the shackles of conscience-torturing thralldom, she is like Rome—her mother and mistress—sending forth her sons to proclaim amongst all nations the Gospel of Salvation, and the conquests of her Divine Master.

The REGISTRY for this year presents a body of Returns gratifying to us, and satisfactory, to every Christian who glories in “the Faith once delivered to the Saints.”

To our valued Continental Correspondents, we tender our utmost thanks—future favours will be most gratefully received, and shall have the utmost attention paid them.

Full Indexes of all the parishes and Clergy in Ireland, England, and Scotland, as also in America, have been compiled with much labor, and will, it is hoped, render this work most useful for reference.

Civil Calendar.

JANUARY—FIRST MONTH—31 Days.

The name of this Month is derived from the Latin Januarius, a name given to the month by the Romans, from Janus, one of their divinities, to whom they attributed two faces, because on the one side, the first of January looked towards the new year, and on the other towards the old one. The word Januarius may also be derived from janua, "gate," in regard to this month being the first, which is, as it were, the gate of the year. It was introduced into the year by Numa Pompilius; Romulus's year beginning in the month of March.

The name of this Month has given rise to long etymological contests; but it was probably derived from Februa, a name of Juno, who was presumed to preside over the diseases of females. Numa placed it under the patronage of Neptune, the supposed adviser of carrying off the Sabine women.

This month was dedicated by Romulus to Mars, from whom it was called March. In Saxon it was called Rethē, or Rough monat; and Lenet or Length monat, from the lengthening of the days. Thence the name of Lent. In France, March was reckoned the first month until 1564, when the commencement of the year was changed to January by Charles the Ninth. In Scotland it was the first month till 1599; and in England partially till the last century.

This Month was under the auspices of Venus, among the Romans; hence it was frequently named Mensis Veneris; but its popular name was Aprilis. By the Anglo Saxons it was entitled Oster-monat, or "Easter month," probably from the frequency of the eastern winds. The word is derived from aperio, "to open;" because the earth this month begins to open her bosom for the production of vegetation.

This Month was called Maius by Romulus, in respect to the Senators and nobles of his city, who were named maiores: though some suppose it to have been derived from Maia, the mother of Mercury, the daughter of Atlas, and one of the Pleiades; to whom the Romans offered sacrifice on the first day. The Saxons called it Trimilchi, from the rude but pastoral observations of the increase of milk from the springing grass. The ancient Gauls made this month the season of great military adventures.

CITY CORONERS.

John E. Hyndman, Esq., 2, College-green, and James Kirwan, Esq., M.D., 26, Marlborough-street.

LAW TERMS FOR YEAR ENSUING, 1853.

Hilary Term—begins Tuesday, Jan. 11; ends Monday, Jan. 31.

Easter Term—begins Friday, April 15; ends Monday, May 9.

Michaelmas Term—begins Wednesday, Nov. 2; ends Friday, Nov. 25.

This Month was probably named from Juno, though it was under the auspices of Mercury. The usual conjecture that it was given in honour of the junior branches of the Roman Legislature is unfounded, from the fact that this name belonged to the Alban (or Latin) Calendar, before the existence of Rome. Junius Brutus commenced his consulship in this Month, probably from the omen of the name. The Saxons called June Sere-monat, or "Dry month."

The Romans called this month Julius, in honour of Julius Caesar, who was born on the twelfth day of it. It was previously called Quintilis, on account of its being the fifth month of the Romulean year. The Romans considered it as under the protection of Jupiter; and on the first day the leases of their houses generally expired, and were renewed. The Saxons called July Hew-monat, from the hay harvest.

This month was named in honour of Augustus Cæsar, because in this month he was created Consul, thrice triumpher in Rome, subdued Egypt to the Roman empire, and made an end to civil wars. Previous to the time of Cæsar it was called Sextilis, being the sixth from March. The Romans placed this month under the protection of Ceres, the protector of corn and harvests.

September received its present name in the time of Numa Pompilius, when it was the seventh month of the year, from septem, "seven," and imber, "shower," this being the beginning of the wet season. It afterwards received various names from the Emperors and Senators of Rome. The senate wished to have given it the name of Tiberius, in honour of that Emperor; but he declined it. Domitian named it Germanicus, in honour of his having subdued the Germans.

This month, like the preceding, bore successive titles in the Roman Calendar. The Senate gave it the name of Faustinas, in compliment to Faustina, the wife of the Emperor Antoninus Pius; Domitian called it Domitianus; and Commodus named it Invictus, from the skill he displayed in the public games. Previous to these changes, however, it was called October, which name it still retains, from the word octo, "eight," and imber, as it was the eighth month in the Alban Calendar. It became the tenth in the time of Numa.

This month is derived from novem, "nine," and imber. The Emperor Commodus attempted, but unsuccessfully, to change the name of this month. The Senate had once proposed to give it the name of the Emperor Tiberius, who was born in it; but he declined this servility, observing, with a jest, "what might be their embarrassment should there be thirteen Cæsars?" The Saxons termed November the Wint, "wind," monat; or Blot, "blood," from the custom of slaughtering the winter's provision at this season.

The name of this month is derived from Decem, "ten," and imber. Romulus assigned it thirty days. Numa reduced it to twenty-nine, and Julius Caesar increased it to thirty-one. In the reign of Commodus this month was called, by way of flattery, Amazonius, in honour of a courtesan whom the prince passionately loved, and had got painted like an Amazon; but this name died with that tyrant. It was called by the Saxons Ærra Geola, or Guili, as expressive of the sun's retiring course.

REGULATION OF MARRIAGES.

Marriage cannot be contracted by persons within the fourth degree of kindred without a dispensation, and, if attempted, is invalid. Spiritual kindred, contracted by Baptism or Confirmation, is an impediment.

Clandestine marriage is that which is not performed by the pastor of one of the party, with a certificate, or by another priest, with his license, and in the presence of two or three witnesses.

Clandestine marriages are unlawful, and forbidden by the Church; and are null or invalid in all dioceses in Ireland, as the Decree of the Council of Trent, which annuls clandestine marriage, has been duly received in them all from 2nd Dec. 1827, and was in force thirty days after, or from 1st of January, 1828.

It is prohibited to solemnize marriages from Ash Wednesday to Easter Sunday, and from the first Sunday in Advent, until after Twelfth Day, or 6th of January.

FEASTS OF OBLIGATION IN ENGLAND, SCOTLAND, AND AMERICA.

* The feasts of obligation are the same as in Ireland, except St. Patrick and the Assumption. They are similar in England and Scotland, except that in Scotland St. Andrew's, 30th November, is of obligation; and in England, St. George's, 23rd April is of devotion. The Annunciation, 25th March, is there but of devotion; and in America, Easter and Whit-Mondays were, until the last ten years, of obligation. The feast of SS. Peter and Paul is now celebrated in America on the Sunday following the 29th June.

METHOD OF FINDING EASTER BY AN ALGEBRAICAL PROCESS.

From 40 (when 6 added to the epact is less than 30), or from 70 (when 6 added to the epact is either equal to, or greater than 30), subtract the sum of the epact and the number of the Dominical letter; find what number next above that is exactly divisible by 7; to this multiple of 7 add 5, and the number of the Dominical letter; the sum will be the number of days from March 1st to Easter Sunday, both included.

A Novena (as in page 27) is a devotion of nine days, in honor of some mystery of our redemption, to obtain a particular request, or in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary, or some of the other saints, to beg their intercession in obtaining a favour from God. ## SEPTUAGESIMA SUNDAY.

The third Sunday before Lent is thus designated by the Church; It is the seventh Sunday before Passion Sunday (or ninth before Easter), when, as the term imports, we begin the commencement of the mysteries of our Saviour's passion and death, previously to the joyful celebration of his glorious resurrection. The Sunday which follows is called Sexagesima, or sixth Sunday before Passion Sunday; and the one after, Quinquagesima, or fifth Sunday before Passion Sunday; and then the next, Quadragesima, which is the first Sunday of Lent. Bergier, in his "Theological Dictionary," says, that the reason why these Sundays were so designated in early times, is that there was a variety as to the day of commencing the Lenten observance, or the great fast, although all understood that the fast should be of forty complete days. As they did not fast on Sundays, they were accustomed to fast at what we term Quinquagesima Sunday, and not on the following Wednesday, which, by reason of the ceremony of the Ashes, we call Ask-Wednesday. But some did not fast on Thursday, and therefore, commenced the fast a week sooner, or at Sexagesima Sunday; others again did not fast on Thursdays and Saturdays, and of course, that they might have a fast of forty days complete, began another week sooner, or at Septuagesima Sunday.

EXPLANATION OF THE WORDS AND SIGNS USED IN THE DIRECTORY.

1. In the margin, the number shows the day of the month; the letters, the color of the vestments at mass, viz.: W. White, R. Red, G. Green, V. Violet, B. Black. The same letters, not capitals, denote the colors to be used at Vespers.

2. Sundays and Holidays of obligation are capitals.

3. The sign (†) placed sometimes at Vespers and Matins, signifies that the third versicle of the hymn Iste confessor, is changed thus: Meruit supremos, &c.

4. The small type shows the Mass and Vespers of the diocesses, different from the general order of the office in Ireland.

5. In 2 Vesp. com. of, &c., signifies that the vespers are of the occurring festival, or feast of the present day, with the commemoration, &c. In 2 Vesp. from chap. of foll. com. &c., denotes that the Anthems and Psalms are of this day's feast; but the little chapter, hymn, &c., are of the feast of the following day, with the commemoration of the feast of to-day, &c.

6. Gl. or Gloria, means the angelical hymn, Glory be to God on high, generally said at mass throughout the year, except on Sundays from Septuagesima till Easter, from the first Sunday of Advent to Christmas, and at Mass on Vigils and Ferial days out of Paschal time.

7. Cr. or Creed, when the Nicene Creed, I believe in one God, is to be recited. It is said on all Sundays, on the feasts of our Lord, of B. Virgin Mary, of Angels, Apostles, Doctors, Patron Saints, and during the octaves, &c.

8. Suffr. Ss., or Suffrages of Saints, signify that the commemorations or common suffrages of Saints, at the end of Vespers for Saturday, are added to the Vespers of the day, where the office is ferial, simple, or semidouble; they are not said on semidoubles within Octaves.

9. Com. of the Cross, shows that in Ferial Offices the Commemoration of the Cross is recited before the suffrages of Saints. In Paschal times the Com. of the Cross is made instead of the Common Suffrages.

10. In Lent, Advent, and on Vigils, when the office is Ferial, Versicles are said before the prayers, found in the Ferial Office for Monday.

11. When for the convenience of the Laity, the first word of the Introit of the Mass of the day is given in Latin in the Ordo; for instance, "Statuit," it means the Mass is for a Bishop and Martyr, &c.

DIRECTIONS FOR UNDERSTANDING THE DIRECTORY.

The Prayers and portions of the Holy Scriptures, of which the Mass is composed are, in part, unalterably the same, and partly different every day. Those that are fixed and invariable are contained in what is called the Ordinary of the Mass, to be found at the beginning of the Missal. The parts that are changeable or proper—the Introits, Collects, Gradual, Tracts, Epistles, Gospels, Offertories, Secrets, Communions, and Post-communions—form the subsequent contents of the book. As the Prefaces are not so frequently subject to change, they follow each other in regular succession in the Ordinary of the Mass.

If a double should fall on a Sunday, then the Mass of the double is said instead of that of the Sunday, unless it be a privileged Sunday, such as the first Sunday of Advent, or Lent, Passion, Palm, Easter, Pentecost, and Trinity Sundays, which are never superseded; or a Sunday of the second class, which cannot be superseded, except by doubles of the first class, as the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th of Advent, Septuagesima, Sexagesima, and Quinquagesima; as also the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th, of

Lent It must, however, be remarked, that the Gospels for Sundays, thus superseded by doubles, are never omitted, but are recited at the end of the Mass, instead of St. John's Gospel; and also, that a commemoration of the Sunday by its proper collect, secret, and post-communion, is always made immediately after the collect, &c., of the festival.

But as it sometimes happens that a double is transferred to some future vacant day, on account of some festival of higher rank intervening, then the difficulty of finding out the day on which such transferred festival is celebrated, as well as all other difficulties, regarding the service, may be easily removed by consulting the following DIRECTORY, published annually, as a guide to the morning, as well as to the evening service of the church.

1. The Office of every day is either Double, Semidouble, Simple, or of the Feria.

Of doubles (so-called because the Anthems are repeated entire, both before and after the Psalms at vespers), some are of the first class, marked thus in the calendar, doub. 1st cl.; others of the second class, and are marked thus, doub. 2 cl.; others are greater doubles, marked, gr. doub.; others common doubles, marked, doub.

2. Doubles are always kept on the day marked in the calendar, unless they fall on some Sunday of the first or second class, some privileged feria, or within certain octaves, which take place of the festivals; in which case they are transferred to the first day not marked either as a double or a semidouble.

Doub. 1st cl., denotes a great solemnity; doub. 2cl., a lesser solemnity; greater doub. marks the feast to be of higher rite than a common double; doub. is the common and most general rank of saints; semid. is less than a double; simpl. shows the feast to be of the lowest rite; fer. or feria day, is a week day, having no feast; great fer. are week days in Lent, Advent, &c.; Vig. or vigil, is the eve of a great solemnity.

The Sundays of the 1st class, which take place of all doubles are:

The first Sunday of Advent, the first Sunday of Lent, Passion Sunday, Palm Sunday, Easter Sunday, Low Sunday, Whit Sunday, Trinity Sunday.

The Sundays of the second class, which take place, also, of all doubles, except those of the first class, and of which, in that case, a commemoration is made at mass and in both vespers, are, the second, third, and fourth of Advent; Septuagesima, Sexagesima, and Quinquagesima, the second, third, and fourth of Lent.

The Ferias, which enjoy the same privileges as Sundays of the first class, are Ash Wednesday, All Holy Week, Whitsun-eve, the whole octaves of Easter and Whitsuntide.

In like manner, within the octave of the Epiphany, no feast less than a first class can be kept.

On all other Sundays of the year, if a double occur, it is kept with a commemoration of the Sunday at mass, and at vespers also, except the following day be a feast of the first class.

3. A semidouble (so called because only a part of the Anthem is said before each psalm at vespers) is marked in the calendar thus semid., and occurring on any Sunday whatsoever, is put off to the first vacant day; that is, the first day on which there is neither double nor semidouble marked in the calendar. The same is to be observed of all semidoubles occurring within the octave of Corpus Christi.

4. Simples have no mark in the calendar, and are never transferred, but if they fall on Sunday, or on any other day, when the office cannot be said of them, a commemoration is made of the first vespers, and at mass; unless it be a feast of the first class (on which no notice is taken of simples) or of the second class, in which case a commemoration of them is made in the Laude, and at a low, private mass only.

5. The following ferias called greater ferias, take place of all simples, of which there is only a commemoration made at mass; viz., the ferias of Advent and of Lent, the ember days, and Tuesday in rogation week. A commemoration is also made of the ferias of Advent and of Lent at vespers and at mass, whatever feast happens; but, of the ember days and Tuesday in rogation week, only at mass.

6. If a vigil happen within the octave, the mass is of the vigil, with a commemoration of the octave, unless there be a double or semidouble feast that day, in which case, the mass is of the feast, with a commemoration of the octave and of the vigil. But if a vigil occur on a feast of the first class, there is no commemoration made of it.

If a festival, that has a vigil, fall on a Monday, the mass of the vigil is said on the foregoing Saturday, except the vigil of Christmas and of the Epiphany.

If a vigil happen in Advent, the mass is of the vigil, with a commemoration of the feria, except the vigil of Christmas.

If a vigil happen in Lent, or an ember day, the mass is of the feria, with a commemoration of the vigil.

In the paschal time there is no office of vigil, except that of Ascension-eve, which, however, is no fast.

7. When a double of the first or second class, which is a holiday of obligation, (printed in the Directory in capitals) falling on any day, is to be transferred, the obligation of the holiday is seldom transferred, but the faithful are generally obliged to serve at mass on the day marked in the calendar.

8. When several festivals have been translated from their proper days, they are afterwards to be kept in this order : first, those that are doubles, and then those that are semidoubles ; and among the doubles or semidoubles, those whose proper days first occurred, are to be kept first ; there are, however, some exceptions to this rule.

9. Coll. or Collect, signifies the oration or prayer. Upon all doubles one collect, secret or post-communion, only is said ; except they fall on a Sunday, or within some octave, or upon some vigil, or in the time of Lent or Advent, or except it occurs with some simple ; in all which cases, two collects, &c., are said ; one of the double, the other of the Sunday, octave, &c.

10. Upon Sundays and all semidoubles, are said three collects, secrets, and post-communions ; excepting Sundays, which occur within an octave, on which are said two collects, &c. ; one of the Sunday, the other of the octave.

11. The second and third collects, secrets, and post-communions to be said on Sundays and semidoubles in the different seasons of the year, are specified in their proper places.

12. Upon semidoubles occurring within octaves, or on vigils, &c., the second collect, secret, and post-communion are a commemoration of the octave or vigil ; and the 3rd of the B. V. M., but within the octaves of the blessed Virgin, the third is of the Holy Ghost.

13. On semidoubles in Advent, the second collect, secret, and post communion, are the collect, &c., of the foregoing Sunday ; the third, of the blessed Virgin Mary.

14. Upon simples and ferias, three collects, &c., are said ; but, if the priest please he may say five or seven, to be taken out of the divers prayers in the common.

15. Upon week days, which have no proper office, nor any saint's day occurring thereon, the mass is of the foregoing Sunday ; excepting Saturday's out of Lent, when the mass is of our Lady on Saturday taken out of the votive masses, according to the season of the year ; and our Lady on Saturday takes place of a simple, of which only a commemoration is made.

16. Upon days within octaves, when no proper mass is assigned, the mass is said as on the feast, with three collects, &c.—N. B. The days within octaves are kept as semidoubles only.

17. The collect of the B. V. M. within octaves on vigils and on semidoubles within paschal time, Grant, O Lord, &c. is found in the votive mass of the blessed Virgin Mary : from Advent to Christmas the collect of B. V. M. is, O God, who hast pleased, read in the mass of the first Sunday of Advent : from Christmas to Candlemas the collect of the blessed Virgin, O God, who by the fruitful, as in the mass of the Circumcision.

18. The collect of gen. suffr., or general suffrage, is the prayer of the suffrages of the saints, which begins thus : Preserve us, O Lord, found in the ordinary of the mass.

19. The collects for the Church and Pope are seen in the mass of the first Sunday of Advent ; one of them is only recited at the choice of the priest, generally they are said in turn, when mentioned in the Directory. The collect of the Pope is said on the anniversary days of his creation and coronation : the creation here signifies his election to the sovereign Pontificate.

20. On the anniversary day of the consecration of the bishop, the collect for his auguration is said at mass by the clergy of his diocese. If the bishop be translated from another diocese, the collect is said on the anniversary of his translation, that is, the date of the pope's letter of translation. The collect of the bishop is the same as that of the pope, except that the names of the prelate and of the diocese are mentioned.

21. The word opt. or optional, signifies that one is at liberty to recite any of the occasional collects or prayers, found towards the end of the missal.

22. The gospels assigned on Sundays are never omitted. Wherefore if a double be kept on a Sunday, at the end of mass is read the gospel of the Sunday, instead of that of St. John ; and the same is observed when a double or semidouble is kept upon any day in Lent, or on a vigil or ember day.

DIRECTIONS FOR USING THE VESPER, OR OFFICE BOOK.

It appears necessary to explain the order, as well as the manner, in which that part of the public Liturgy of the Catholic Church called Vespers is recited or sung.

Our Father and Hail, Mary being said in silence, the Priest, making the sign of the Cross, intones aloud the Versicle, Deus in adiutorium meum intende; to which the choir add the responsory, Domine ad adjuvandum me festina, with the Gloria Patri; and when five Psalms, with as many anthems, have been sung, the Priest sings the little chapter.

Then are sung the Hymn, with its Versicle and Responsory, and the Magnificat, with its Anthem, followed by such Prayers and Commemorations as are suitable to the day; which, if it be neither a Double nor within the Octave of a Festival, are the common Commemorations or Suffrages, and are to be found after the vespers for Saturday.

Every double has first and second vespers: the first are said on the eve of the Festival, and the second on the Festival itself. Hence it often happens that the vespers are not of the Sunday, but of some double that falls on the ensuing day.

To find out the particular vespers for every Sunday and holiday throughout the year, consult the Directory at the day of the month on which such Sunday or Festival falls.

EXPLANATION OF THE ORNAMENTS AND CEREMONIES USED IN THE HOLY SACRIFICE OF THE MASS.

All the external rites used in the celebration of the Holy Mysteries are intended for the instruction of the faithful. The chief design of these rites is to commemorate and to represent the passion and death of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. This is plainly to be observed in the Altar and its ornaments, as also in the vestments which are worn by the Priest.

The Altar represents Mount Calvary, where the Redeemer of the world expired upon an ignominious cross. This very word Altar has relation to sacrifice, which must necessarily be offered to God in that church in which his true faith is professed; and hence this name of Altar is mentioned by St. Paul—"We have an Altar," says he, "whereof they have no right to eat who serve the tabernacle."—Heb. xiii. 10. The Altar also represents the table on which our Blessed Saviour, the night before he suffered, celebrated his last supper with his disciples.

The Candles are lighted during the Holy mysteries, through a motive of honour and respect. They represent the light of faith, and the fervour of charity, which the Gospel inculcates. They are also expressive of spiritual life and joy. "Throughout all the churches of the East," says St. Jerome, "when the Gospel is to be read, though the sun shines, torches are used, not to chase away darkness, but for a sign of joy."

The Crucifix is placed in the middle of the Altar, to represent to our minds the passion and death of Jesus Christ, which are chiefly to be considered and piously meditated upon in this Holy Sacrifice.

The Amice, a linen cloth which the Priest pulls over his head, and fastens round his neck signifies the linen with which the Jews blindfolded our Saviour in mockery, when they smote him and buffeted him saying: "Prophecy unto us, O Christ! who is he that struck thee."—Matt. xxvi. 68.

The Alb represents the white garment which Herod put upon Christ after he had despised and mocked him.—Luke xxiii. 11.

The Muniple that the Priest wears on his left arm, the Stole that hangs down from his neck, and the Girdle, figure the cords and fetters with which the officers of the Jews bound Christ, and led him from one place to another.—John xviii. 12—24.

The Chasuble, or upper garment, represents the purple garment which the soldiers put upon Jesus Christ, and the heavy cross that he carried on his blessed shoulders to Mount Calvary.

As to the colours of the ornaments with which the Priest celebrates the Holy Mysteries, the White is used on the Festivals of our Lord, of the blessed Virgin Mary, and of all the saints who are not martyrs.

The Red is used on Pentecost, on the Invention and Exaltation of the Cross, and on the Feasts of the Apostles and Martyrs.

The Purple or Violet, which is the penitential colour, is used on all the Sundays and Ferias of Advent, and during the whole of the penitential time from Septuagesima Sunday till Easter; as also on all Vigils, Ember-days, and Rogation-days, when the Office is of them.

The Green is used on all Sundays and Ferias from Trinity Sunday to Advent exclusively, and from the Octave of the Epiphany to Septuagesima Sunday, exclusively, when the office is of the Sunday; but in Paschal time the White is used.

The Black is used on Good Friday, and in Masses of Requiem for the dead which may be said on any day that is not a Sunday or a Double, except from Palm Sunday to Low Sunday, and during the Octaves of Christmas, of the Epiphany, of Pentecost, and of Corpus Christi.

25. Good Friday, doub. of 1st class.—(Abstinence from white meats). The use of dalmatics to the sacred ministers, and of the organ is prohibited to-day. The bell is rung at the Gloria in excelsis. The great bell of the principal church ("Matricis Ecclesiæ") should toll, before the bells of other churches. The cathedral church is the principal one in the diocese. After the priest has received the holy communion, the Antiphon for Vesp. is sung in choir, Allel. Allel. Allel. and the Psalm Laudate Dominum, omnes gentes, with Gloria Patri at the end. And the same Antiphon is repeated. No Chapter, nor Hymn, nor Verse; but the celebrant immediately chants the Antiphon to the Magnificat. Vespere autem Sabbati, &c., with which the choir proceeds. Then is sung the Magnificat, with Gloria Patri at the end. The Antiphon being repeated: the celebrant says: Dominus Vobiscum and Oremus, with the prayer. At the end of Complin, Antiph. Regina Cœli lætare is said standing.

On this day private Masses are prohibited. Communion may be given at the public Mass, and the paschal precept is thereby fulfilled. The prophecies are not to be omitted. 1. Easter Friday.—Of the Oct. semid. Mass Eduxit eos Dominus. 2nd coll. for the Church or Pope. 2nd Vesp. of the Oct. W

2. Low Saturday.—Of the Oct. semid. In Mass Eduxit Dominus. 2nd coll. for the Church or Pope. Vesp. doub. Ferial Psalms with one Ant. (Allel. allel.

allel.) from chap. of Low Sunday. At Benedicamus Domino, Allel. not said. Complin is said as in Psalter, with the changes there noted for paschal time, viz.—the Ant. Allel. allel. is substituted for the Ant. Miserere; in the short Responsory double Allel. is added to the end of the Respons. before the 1st verse, but not to the verse; and the doub. Allel. so added is retained in the repetition of the Response, and the asterisk which regulates the repetition is removed from the middle to the end of the Responsory before the double Allel.; the Verse and Responsory after the short Responsory take each an Allel., and so does the Antiphon Salva nos. The above changes in Complin continue during Paschal time. W

N.B. To-morrow is to be announced the Feast of the Annunciation of the B.V.M., on Monday next, a holiday of obligation.

3. LOW SUNDAY, 1st after Easter Sunday, and the Octave of it, of the 1st class, gr. doub.—Of the day, as in Psalter and in prop. (Annunciation of the B.V.M.) com. of the Sund. W W

In the Office and Mass of Conf. Virg. not virgins, and of the dedication of churches, the following particulars peculiar to paschal time are to be borne in memory:

1stly. At the end of the Invitatory of Matins, through all its repetitions, whether it be said entirely or only in part. Alleluia is always added.

2ndly. Allel. is added to the first Antiphon of each Nocturn, and the three Psalms of each Nocturn are said respectively under one Antiphon, the first of the corresponding Nocturn.

3rdly. Allel. is added to the Verse, and also to the Response after the Psalms of each Nocturn. The same is done to the Verse and Response after the Hymn in Lauds in Vespers, and the same to the Verse and Response after the short Responsories in Prime, Terce, Sext, None, and Complin. But the Verse and Responses of the preces at Prime and Complin do not take Allel.

4thly. In the Responsories of the Lessons at Matins, Alleluia is added to the Response (but not to the Verse), and the same is observed in all the repetitions of the Response.

5thly. In the short Responsories of Prime, Terce, Sext, None, and Complin, double Allel. is added to the Response (but not to the Verse), and the same is observed in all the repetitions of the Response. The asterisk which regulates the repetition is removed from the middle to the end of the Response, before the subjoined double Alleluia.

6thly. All the Antiphons of the Psalms and Canticles, in Lauds and Vesp., and all the Hours, take Allel., unless Alleluia be already added, as happens in the case of the Ant. Sacerdotes Dei, in the office of a bishop and confessor.

7thly. The Hymn at Prime, and all others of the same metre, unless it is otherwise noted, have the following peculiar conclusion: Deo Patri sit gloria; et filio, qui a mortuis surrexit, ac Paraclito, in sempiterna sæcula. Amen.

9thly. The Gloria in excelsis Deo is not omitted in Mass, when the Mass is Ferial, except on the Monday and Tuesday of Rogations.

10thly. After the Epistle, instead of Gradual or Tract, four Alleluias are said, with two Verses. in the order laid down in the Missal.

11thly. One Alleluia is added in the Offertory, and the same to the Communion.

12thly. The Paschal Preface, Te quidem Domine omni tempore sed in hoc potissimum gloriosius is uniformly said (without proper Communic. and Hanc igitur), when no other is especially prescribed.

SIXTH REPORT OF THE VISITORS OF MAYNOOTH COLLEGE—1851.

To the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty—We, the undersigned Visitors of the College of Maynooth, in pursuance of the provisions of the act passed in the session held in the eighth and ninth year of your Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to amend two Acts passed in Ireland for the better Education of Persons professing the Roman Catholic Religion," &c., and also an Act passed in the Parliament of the United Kingdom for amending the said two bills, held in the 2nd day of December, 1851, a visitation of said College

We assembled at twelve o'clock, the appointed hour in the reception-room of the college, and having arranged the order of visitation, proceeded to the great hall of the college where the superiors, professors, and students were assembled.

The names of the superiors, professors, and students were called over by the senior Dean; eighteen superiors and professors answered to their names.

One professorship having become recently vacant, 516 students were found to be in attendance, seven absent, two on leave, and five on account of illness.

We asked the President if he had any complaint or any statement to make that called for the interference of the visitors.

The President replied that he was happy to inform the visitors that he had no complaint to make. The students had attended to their studies with assiduity and success; and their moral conduct was irreproachable. In fact, there has been no deviation from rule or discipline in the college since the last visitation which called for anything severer than admonition.

We made a similar inquiry of the other superiors and professors, and finally of the students, who made no complaint.

We then announced that if any cause of complaint should arise in the college before the next visitation, whether it affected the superiors, professors, or students, the visitors would receive and attend to any such complaint, when authenticated by the signature of complainant, and forwarded to any of the visitors.

We then asked if the oath of allegiance had been taken by all the students.

The President replied that all the students who had entered the college before the last visitation had taken the oath of allegiance, and that those who had entered since will take it at the next Quarter Sessions, that being the first opportunity presenting itself for so doing since their entrance.

We desired to know if there was any change in the number and respective duties of the superiors or Professors of the college, or any alteration in the entrance or college course of studies since the last visitation.

The President reported that there had been no change in the number or in the respective duties of the superiors or professors, with the exception of one professor who retired, and whose place will be filled by public concursus, conformably to the provisions of the statutes of the college, and that there was no alteration made since the last visitation either in the course of studies taught in the college, or in the amount of classical or other learning required for admission into the lower classes of studies.

We then asked if the college dietary underwent any change since the last visitation.

"No material alteration in the college dietary."

We then made inquiry as to the health of the community.

The President reported that he regretted to say there was one case of serious illness in the college, with the exception of which the community continued in the enjoyment of good health.

We then desired to know if there was any improvement in the public halls of the college, and in the lodging of the students for their better accommodation since last visitation, and how far the new buildings are now found available for these purposes.

The President stated in reply that part of the old buildings had undergone some slight reparation, but he regretted to say that the new buildings are still in an unfinished state for habitation. He expects, however, that at the approach of the fine weather such progress will be made as to render them fit for the habitation of students.

We (having concluded the necessary inquiries in the public hall of the college) proceeded to inspect the other halls, the refectory, the students' rooms, and the new buildings, after which we re-assembled in the reception-hall of the college, and reported that, considering the want of sufficient furniture, and the absence of all provision for properly heating the new buildings, we are of opinion that it would not be desirable that the students' rooms should be inhabited during the present winter season. Much has been done in levelling and draining the grounds, thus rendering them more healthy and fit for the recreation of the students.

We then concluded the visitation by taking the opinion of each present on the general state of the establishment, and by authenticating with the signature of the chairman, his grace the Duke of Leinster, the secretary's minutes of the visitation, for insertion in the Visitors' Journal, and for the usual report to her Majesty and to Parliament.

In conclusion, we consider the general result of our visitation to be most satisfactory.

[Translation.]

1. As in the Roman Pontiff we recognise and venerate the Vicar of Christ on earth and the successor of St. Peter to whom is committed by Heaven the office of instructing the Faithful in the best doctrine, and of removing them from pestilent and poisonous pastures; we, with a willing mind and with fitting obedience, do assent to the admonitions and rescripts which relate to the question concerning the Queen's Colleges, lately erected amongst us, and which rescripts, furnished with the authority of the Vicar of Christ himself, have been communicated to us by the Sacred Congregation of the Propaganda.

2. Adhering not only to the letter, but to the spirit of these rescripts, we declare that no Bishop of Ireland can assume to himself any part in carrying on or administering the aforesaid colleges.

3. We prohibit all Priests and other Clerks or Clerics from taking or retaining any office which relates to the administration of these colleges; and from becoming or remaining Professors or Deans of Residence in these colleges.

4. But if any Priest or Clerk shall have arrived at such a pitch of temerity, as despising the authority of the Apostolic See, or the Statute of this National Council, to dare to act otherwise, let him incur suspension ipso facto.

5. Moreover, concerning the aforesaid colleges, because of the grave and intrinsic dangers to which, by the judgment of the Holy See, the Faith and morals of studious Catholic youth are exposed in them, we declare that they are such that by all means they are to be rejected and avoided by faithful Catholics, who ought to prefer their Faith to all temporal advantages and emoluments.

6. But that the faithful people committed to our care, of whose faith and eternal salvation a strict account is to be rendered by us to Almighty God, may suffer no detriment by our silence, we shall in a Pastoral Letter, to be published in the name of this Synod, indicate the grave and intrinsic dangers mentioned by the Holy See, to which Catholic youth are exposed in these colleges, and we shall admonish and exhort all the faithful with weighty and charitable words, that they wholly abstain from frequenting these colleges, lest their Faith contract some stain, or they be infected with some pestiferous doctrines.

7. Let the Bishops of the places where the colleges are situated diligently take heed that these statutes be kept by all the Priests, and that fitting veneration be shown by them to the mandates of the Apostolic See, and obedience and veneration to the Statutes of this Council.

8. Lastly, for a perpetual remembrance of the thing, let the Rescripts and admonitions of the Sacred Congregation of Propaganda, which relate to the Queen's Colleges, be inserted in the acts of this Council.

9. In order at length to provide for the sound education of Catholic youth, and to follow up the reiterated recommendations given to us by the Apostolic See, we consider it our duty to strive, with all our might, to cause by our common counsels to be erected, as soon as possible, a Catholic University in Ireland.

THE STATUTES OF THURLES—THE ARCHBISHOP OF TUAM.

Tuam, December 20, 1851.

To our Rev. brethren, our parish priests, curates, and regular clergy of this diocese, as also to all those whom these letters concern, salvation and benediction.

The decrees which were passed in the National Council, lately held at Thurles, and afterwards confirmed by the Apostolic See, we, by the present letters, make known to you, and promulgate. Our provincial statutes, which were also confirmed by the Apostolic See, are not abrogated by these present statutes; on the contrary, they retain their entire binding efficacy, unless where the contrary may be prescribed, in which case, should it occur, the more recent statutes are to be obeyed.

Lest observances to which they are not accustomed, should appear onerous to the faithful, you will take care to explain to them, that we do not introduce any new discipline; that we only labour to restore and renew the ancient and general discipline of the Church, which prevails wherever she enjoys full liberty, and which has fallen into disuse only on account of the severe persecution of past times.

Although all that is here prescribed regarding the administration of the sacraments cannot, at once be complied with, because there are wanting in certain churches confessionals and baptismal fonts, yet we exhort you all, that in accordance with the zeal for religion with which you are inflamed, you will sedulously endeavour to arrange that these conveniences be immediately supplied in all the churches.

As to marriages, we ordain that, after the approaching Epiphany, they be performed in the church, as the statutes require.

We direct your special attention to that part of the statutes which regard the Queen's Colleges and the National Schools, that by obeying the Apostolic rescripts, you endeavour with all your might to procure the withdrawal of youth, if any there be, from frequenting the said colleges; and also to obtain the fulfilment of all the conditions which are required both by the Synod and our Holy Father the Pope, that these schools (National) be tolerated, as they, the latter, are, in very many cases, very dangerous to the youth who frequented them. Whereas in these sad times the enemy rages so fiercely, even to the extent of using force, to infect the flocks committed to your care, with poisonous errors, you will not cease, with renewed zeal, to bring them with you to wholesome pastures, and to instruct in piety and learning, in Catholic schools, the youth of both sexes.

We take this suitable opportunity of communicating to you the fact that we have received an encyclical letter from our Holy Father the Pope, Pius IX., in which he implores the people intrusted to our care to pour forth public prayers to invoke the Divine clemency.

That the faithful may the more ardently join in these prayers, our Most Holy Father promises to produce again the heavenly treasures of the Church, in the form of jubilee. We, therefore, command that in the Collects of the Mass be added the prayer "Contra persecutores et male agentes," and as there is no more urgent or more powerful protection than our most loving Mother, the Blessed Virgin Mary, the immaculate Mother of God, we ordain, that in addition to other prayers the Litanies of the Blessed Virgin be recited each Sunday in all the churches of this diocese until the feast of Easter, in order to invoke her patronage with her Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, that His kingdom be enlarged, strengthened, and exalted all over the world.

✠ JOHN, Archbishop of Tuam.

PASTORAL OF THE ARCHBISHOP OF TUAM,

TO THE CLERGY AND FAITHFUL OF THE ARCHDIOCESS OF TUAM.

St. Jarlath's, Tuam, Feast of St. Bridget.

DEAR AND VENERABLE BRETHREN—The approaching Sunday, the first of the moveable feasts that are regulated by the Paschal time, reminds us of the obligation of preparing for the penitential season of Lent. The Jubilee through which the Holy Father dispenses once more the ample treasures of the Church, and which he has extended to this province from the time of its opening to the period of three months, enables us truly to say of the coming season in the language of St. Paul, that* "it is an acceptable time that they are days of salvation." Although, through the revival and progress of a pure Catholic education, it is to be hoped that the time is not distant when the ancient discipline of the Church regarding the fast of Lent will be restored, it would, we fear, be premature to attempt it yet, from the long prevalence of the dispensations to which the faithful have been familiarised. And as that relaxation has reached a limit which we would not deem it consistent with our duty to extend, we by virtue of the faculties delegated to us by the Holy See, grant the same precise dispensation regarding flesh meats and white meats as that given during the latter seasons, the details of which the clergy will give their flocks in their opening Lenten instructions.

We are prompted by another urgent consideration to address you thus early, in order that you may avail yourselves of the assembling of the legislature, to endeavour to obtain from their wisdom and humanity the removal of all vexatious restrictions on our faith and discipline, as well as a share in the public funds, to which we are entitled, towards the extension of pure Catholic education. To your heroic patience under the most frightful privations, and to your uniformly peaceful conduct under provocations the most cruel and exasperating, you can confidently appeal in your petition for obtaining all due facilities for Catholic education for the youth of this diocess. Of these exasperating scenes our own town of Tuam has been for weeks the theatre, civil and ecclesiastical forces having been sent in to aid in the work of proselytism, and, thank God, not one soul has fallen away from the Faith.

While, thus, you claim from the legislature a fair share of the taxes to which you contribute towards the proper education of the youth of the country, you will not fail to point their attention to the injustice and the danger of planting and fostering in the land seminaries and colleges, fraught with the seeds of infidelity, and in which a Catholic clergyman cannot hold any office without being visited by the heaviest censures of the Church. Great must be the corruption which those who are called the salt of the earth are not able to purify by contact—nay, when all contact is forbidden, lest the salt should lose its flavour, and become assimilated to the prevailing corruption. Should any of the youth of your parishes have had the misfortune of tasting them, you will take care to withdraw them from the troubled streams which, from fresh accessions* “of strange and noisome errors are daily becoming more impure and poisonous.”

Besides the Queen's Colleges, the schools known by the name of National Schools, for they are national only in the name, have engaged the serious attention of the Synod of Thurles, as well as of the Holy Father†, who inherits the keys of St. Peter, to whom our Divine Redeemer confided the care of His entire fold. The former, viz., the Queen's Colleges, have been solemnly, repeatedly, finally, and irreversibly condemned. The latter, the National Schools, are of an ambiguous nature, some of them under Protestant and Presbyterian patrons, or, if you will, of persons having no distinct notion of any religion, but a hatred of the Catholic faith, and in the hands of such persons, especially when they are cruel landlords or parsons, the National Schools become instruments of proselytism and perversion. Nothing, then, can be more deceitful for children than the signboard, “National Schools,” for by it the artless, unwary children, as in Partry and other parts of this diocess, might be decoyed into the very worst schools, to their own destruction. It is only in the absence of Catholic schools, and with the safeguards, required in the decrees of the Synod of Thurles (mostly extracted from the letter of Gregory XVI., and again confirmed by the present Pope, Pius IX.), the least dangerous of the National Schools should be tolerated.

To show how far those schools are from answering the requirements of the Catholic Church, the aforesaid statutes run thus: “Now we (the bishops) deem it our duty to declare that the separate education of Catholic youth is by all means to be preferred to it.” You will, therefore, perceive that it is your duty to establish and extend, as much as possible, schools purely Catholic, unconnected with the government system of education.

Where Catholic schools are not sufficiently provided, the following safeguards are required in order that the National may be tolerated:

1stly. You will take care that‡ all books containing anything contrary to the canon of Scripture or its purity, or the doctrine of the Catholic Church or its morality, be excluded, and hence those noxious compilations called Scripture extracts are never to appear in the schools.

* Jeremias, 2, 18.    † St. John, c. 20.    ‡ Statutes, pp. 55, 56, 57.

2ndly. You will observe that the Holy See, far from being content with the system as then presented (for, since, it has become worse), lays down as a solemn injunction for Bishops and Parish Priests "strenuously to labour to obtain a better order of things, and more equitable conditions."

3rdly. The Sacred Congregation attached the utmost importance to the legal dominion of the schoolhouses, declaring that it would be most useful if the school premises were, in their own right, legally vested in the parish priests or bishops. Such is the just jealousy of the Catholic Church about the freedom of the education of its children, being anxious to assimilate the tenure of schools with the tenure of its churches.

Yet far from acquiescing in this just requisition of vesting the legal right of the schools in the parish priests and bishops, the Commissioners of Education, who sometimes before granted such leases, now refuse to allow aid towards building schoolhouses, unless the right of those houses is vested in themselves. Hence the system has become immeasurably worse and more dangerous than it was before. The Catholics generally, from apprehensions justified by sad experience, as well as the advice of the Holy See, refuse to aid in building schools on the condition that they should become the legal property of a corporation, of which the great majority are the steady enemies of their creed.

The consequence is, that Protestant landlords, many of whom are at once rancorous bigots and exterminators, so far from feeling any difficulty in complying with the arbitrary rule of the Commissioners, find it most convenient, since it affords them a useful outlay of money, and secures to them so many little fortresses on their estates to harass their Catholic tenants with the alternative of eviction from their holdings, or sending their children to schools—National ones, too—where their Faith is sure to be destroyed. And yet this bigoted regulation, which keeps the schools of Catholic patrons at a stand, while it is filling the country with the National Schools under Protestant influences, is attempted to be defended on no better ground than that the Commissioners will keep the schools in repair, as if they could not keep them in repair if vested in priests or bishops as well as in themselves. The necessary result of the regulation could not escape the least observing, and hence the statutes of Thurles forbid Catholic trustees to transfer into the hands of the Commissioners the legal ownership of such schoolhouses, observing that that body should sustain the expenses of their repair. To persuade them, however, to do so, the Catholic people must have recourse to the paramount authority of parliament.

4thly.—For the further safety of these schools, the Fathers of the Synod of Thurles require, nay, enjoin, that these Catholics alone be placed over the schools who are approved by the Ordinary, as also that the books even of secular literature to be read in the ordinary as well as in the normal or model schools, receive from the Ordinary a like approbation.

We have dwelt on this subject more at length, in order that you may feel how erroneous would be their impression, who could mistake for a general approval of schools, confessedly so dangerous, a very qualified toleration founded on the instruction that the conditions which the Bishops and the Pope require for their safety must be fulfilled. It would be trifling with all that is solemn in religion, and with that reverence which even Pagans declared was due to children, to lay down certain rules as necessary safeguards against danger, and then to abandon children to their schools, as places ordinarily safe, without the least solicitude about procuring the safeguards required. It is the more necessary to make exertions to procure those conditions, as the government have not yet paid the least attention to the requisition of the Catholic Bishops on the subject. You will, therefore, we trust, take the earliest opportunity of sending your petitions to parliament to have this system accommodated to Catholic principles. As it has been the expressed wish of the Synod of Thurles, that the Archbishops would endeavour to procure from the government this just and necessary accommodation, we shall not be wanting in lending our own share of co-operation to the accomplishment of an object in which the welfare of society and religion are deeply involved.

As purely Catholic schools are those which are deserving of all encouragement, you will endeavour to have as many as the circumstances of the people will permit you to establish. It is fortunate that the ground is already pre-occupied by several schools, which are not to be connected with government institutions, or in any way controlled or interfered with by their inspectors. Such are the schools of the Monks of St. Francis, where children, besides the rudiments of learning, are deeply imbued with the principles of Faith and morality, and taught that which is most valuable in education—to become honest citizens. We cannot too strongly recommend the adoption of the schools of the Christian Brothers, in literary training the rivals, if not the superiors, of any teachers in the service of the government schools; and not to be at all compared with them in teaching the one thing necessary, and lighting for young children the path which will lead them to heaven.

And finally, we have some conventual schools under the care and superintendence of the Sisters of the Presentation and of Mercy, in which the minds of the female children of the poor are formed and moulded by their pious and enlightened instruction. With any government board of education none of those schools are to be in any way connected. If we are to give a preference to Catholic education before that flexible system which is turned to proselytizing purposes, and which actually is becoming more connected with Protestant influences, that unmixed Catholic education should be chiefly found in those institutions that are consecrated to the Catholic religion. The schools of the Nuns and Christian Brothers will be the real model or normal schools, to which those who feel a deep interest in the education of youth will be referred for guidance. The superior advantages of these schools over all others, are admitted by the candid and impartial; and it is fortunate for the Catholic people that there are such, standing as beacon-lights, to show how far the Catholic Church is superior to any other influence in training the intellect, and how its conventual schools and poorly-salaried teachers send forth pupils as superior in intellectual culture as they are in those sublime Christian virtues which cannot be so well instilled into their hearts in any secular schools.

On the great festival of St. Patrick, our national patron, the Jubilee is to open for this diocese, and to close after three months, on the 17th of June—the Octave of Corpus Christi. To obviate, however, any mistake, this extension of the leave is only for the purpose of enabling the clergy to dispense its blessings to all the people, which they could not do in a shorter period, whereas every individual partaking of it must perform all the duties enjoined within the term of fifteen days. We confidently hope that during that holy time the mercies of heaven will be abundantly displayed in the conversion of sinners; and that those who have been seduced from the old path will return to the one true Fold, after hearing the voice of the Pastor.* If others have toiled in vain, during the whole night, and found their nets comparatively empty, they will, it is to be hoped, casting them out again in the name of the Lord, find them ready to break with the capture of fishes.† The grace of the Almighty, and the prayers of the Faithful, are far more powerful than the silver or gold, or the carnal weapons on which the enemies of religion rely for its destruction. When there is a question of salvation, even one soul is of incalculable value. The same malignity that has been warring on the Faith of the people has, for very obvious reasons, been unblushing in the false computation of its victims.

The fruits of the last Jubilee were abundant and consoling, and the grace of heaven was manifest in the number of those who, at the sacred tribunal of penance, sought and obtained reconciliation. We have every confidence, in the passion of our Divine Redeemer, that the coming Jubilee will complete the great work of reclaiming the deluded, by the ample diffusion of its merits; and hope, through the intercession of the Saint of this day, the great patroness of Ireland, and of all the Saints, but principally through the most powerful intercession of the Immaculate Virgin, whose privilege it has been decreed to crush the serpent and his spawn of heresies, that those souls shall be saved from his fangs, which, whilst creeping through the hideous ruins of the land, he has been endeavouring to poison and destroy.

Your faithful and affectionate servant in Christ,

✠ JOHN, Archbishop of Tuam.

ADDRESS OF THE CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY COMMITTEE TO THE CATHOLIC CLERGY OF IRELAND.

Catholic University of Ireland Committee-rooms, 27, Lower Ormond-quay, Dublin.

REV. AND DEAR SIR—We have been instructed by the Committee of the Catholic University to transmit to you the following resolution, passed unanimously at our last meeting:

“Proposed by the Lord Archbishop of Cashel, and seconded by the Bishop of Meath:

“RESOLVED—That we again call upon the Catholic clergy of those parishes which have not as yet contributed to the founding of the Catholic University in Ireland, for their aid and support in furtherance of that object, and that they be respectfully requested to make a return of their contributions before the close of the present month.”

* St. John, c. 10.

† St. Luke, c. 55 and 64, &c.

Your co-operation, Rev. Sir, to give effect to this resolution within your own jurisdiction, is most earnestly solicited. What at first appeared doubtful to some, is now, we hesitate not to affirm, satisfactorily established—namely, that we have within ourselves the means of completing the great work which has engaged our attention since the Committee held its first meeting, in the month of October, 1850. We have received in donations £30,000, and in annual subscriptions nearly £500. This amount has been realised, although not more than one-third of the parishes of Ireland have as yet made any returns, doubtless impeded by the many difficulties of the past season; but when the contributions of all shall have been received, even supposing them to fall below the average of the returns already made, we shall then, we hope, with the blessing of God, be in circumstances to open the University with a certainty of success, by engaging the services of some of the most eminent men of Europe in arts, and sciences, and literature, as professors and lecturers.

The necessity of a University in these times, to cultivate and direct Catholic talent—to cherish, to improve, and to elevate Catholic feeling, and to enlarge the boundaries of Catholic knowledge to the utmost, will scarcely be questioned. Assailed upon all sides—assailed by numerous, and most richly-endowed, and well-organized bodies, it becomes a most important duty to prepare the rising Catholic generation for the combat that is before them, by placing within their reach all the knowledge, all the science, all the intellectual training of which the human mind is capable, and which can only be communicated in such an institution as the University Committee, under the sanction of the entire prelacy of Ireland, is labouring to call into existence.

The Church of England has her exclusive universities, furnished with the most ample means to call forth and reward talent of every description; she has her establishment, the richest in the world, her prebendaries, her canonries, to attract and remunerate her literary champions. The provinces are studded with her numerous and richly-endowed schools. She has her extensive Protestant literature, characterized, it is true, rather by a hatred of Catholicism, than by any well-defined principle of religious belief. She has her history, of which one of the first writers of the present day has well remarked, “that it is one vast conspiracy against truth.” She has, in a word, every advantage which resources, almost infinite, can command. Protestantism, thus armed, let it be ever remembered, is far more formidable than when she put forth all her strength in penal enactments. Against an organization so perfect in all its parts, and sustained by the first of earthly powers, the Catholic Church in this country, unprovided, as yet, with even one Catholic University, and with only one endowed college, has to sustain the cause of true religion, and hand it down to posterity, as we have received it from our ancestors.

Viewing calmly our circumstances, and considering the inheritance at stake, which engages all our sympathies, can we hesitate to decide, unless we make up our minds to enter the battle-field unarmed, that the founding of the University is, above all things, before all things, and more than all things, the great duty of Catholic Ireland at the present day?

Our institution will, in progress of time, create a large body of learned men, exercising an important influence on society—men competent, on the one hand, to vindicate the cause of religion against the insidious attacks of mis-called science; and, on the other, to rescue knowledge from the uses to which it has been perverted, by disassociating it from, nay, turning it against, religion. It will foster that noble spirit of Christianity which is prepared to resign everything rather than make the least sacrifice of the inheritance of Christ. It will become the centre for diffusing the living principle of faith through the whole Catholic body, and communicating its vivifying influence to every member thereof. It will, in fine, to use the language of the prophet, “be the building a wall for the house of Israel.”

In furtherance of this noblest of objects, permit us, Rev. Sir, respectfully to solicit your aid, and, through you, the contributions of your parishioners, and to request a return, as the resolution suggests.

We have the honour to be, Rev. and dear Sir,

Very respectfully and faithfully yours,

TO THE CATHOLICS OF IRELAND.

THE ADDRESS OF THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE ASSOCIATION FOR THE PROPAGATION OF THE FAITH.

How, then, shall they call on Him, in whom they have not believed? Or how shall they believe Him, of whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear without a preacher? And how shall they preach unless they be sent?—
Romans, x, 14, 15.

AT all times, since the foundation of this pious and charitable “Institution for the Propagation of the Faith,” it has been specially favoured by the Holy See, and has received testimonials of the most solemn approbation from each succeeding Sovereign Pontiff. Pius VII., Leo XII., Pius VIII., and Gregory XVI., have most earnestly recommended this Association to the Universal Church, and have enriched it with many precious Indulgences. More than three hundred Bishops, from every part of Christendom, have again and again recorded the expressions of their deepfelt thanks to the society, have invoked the choicest blessings of heaven upon it, and have addressed Pastoral Letters to their beloved flocks, strongly exhorting them in the Lord to contribute cheerfully to the funds of this Institution, upon which many of the Missions throughout the world almost exclusively depend for support. But, the most honourable testimonial of all, is the last conferred upon the society by the illustrious Pontiff who at present fills the Chair of St. Peter. His Holiness Pius IX., not content with those proofs of love and paternal affection given by his venerated predecessors, has, on the occasion of publishing the Jubilee, exalted the Association to the highest place among works of charity and of religion, by making the contribution of some alms to this Society one of the conditions for gaining the "most solemn and most privileged of Plenary Indulgences."

The Central Committee for Ireland avail themselves of the opportunity afforded by the present Jubilee, to make known to their brethren in this country the decrees lately promulgated in favour of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith by his Holiness, and to refer briefly to the advantages of being enrolled in an Association, so often declared by the Supreme Pontiffs to be "pious," "eminently religious," and "illustrious."

His Holiness, Pius IX., in his Encyclical Letter, dated 21st November, 1851, granting the present Jubilee, and addressed to all Patriarchs, Primates, Archbishops, and Bishops of the Universal Church, speaks thus: "We most earnestly recommend to your Episcopal solicitude the most religious Work of the Association for the Propagation of the Faith." And, further, to give a convincing evidence of the heartfelt interest which the Holy Father takes in this Society, he makes it a condition absolutely necessary for the gaining of the Jubilee, to contribute an alms to this eminently religious Institution. The Decree, dated, 5th August, 1851, and directed to Rome and to the Universe, contains the following words: "The object of the illustrious Society for the Propagation of the Faith is to secure the concurrence of all its members, of every age, and sex, and nation, in soliciting by their prayers and alms, from the Father of Mercies, the extension of the Catholic Faith, and to provide the funds which are indispensably necessary for the Missions and for the Missionaries. And though the weekly alms of one halfpenny is generally easy for Christians, yet, there are some in this valley of tears whose poverty prevents them from paying even this trifling weekly offering. Wherefore, mindful that he is the representative on earth of the Divine Redeemer, who advocated poverty by word and example, and wished, that when united with virtue it should be held in honour, his Holiness opens the treasures of the Church to the poor if they be utterly unable to pay this small alms; and this inability he leaves to be decided by each one's own conscience. He grants to those who are in such extreme indigence all the privileges of membership in this Association, and if they had been already enrolled, of continuing members so long as this state of real poverty actually remains, provided, however, in all cases, that they give, at least once a month, to the collectors of the Association, any sum, no matter how small, according to the means of each individual."

But, whilst his Holiness provides so considerately for the poor, he expressly directs that "all the faithful who possess worldly means should be more and more exhorted in the Lord to enrol themselves as soon as possible in this pious Association, to the end, that by their prayers and alms, they may concur in the illustrious object of propagating the Catholic Faith, and at the same time obtain for themselves the indulgences and graces so liberally bestowed by our holy Mother the Church, and participate both in life, and after death, in the labours, prayers, suffrages, and holy sacrifices, which shall be applied on their behalf all over the universe by the Bishops, Missioners, and the entire Association. The Sovereign Pontiff also calls particularly upon the Bishops of the Catholic world, and on all Pastors of souls, and exhorts them to be filled with zeal for the extension of our holy faith and religion, and to encourage, by word and writing, the faithful confided to their care, to contribute cheerfully to the support of this noble Association, so that idolatry may be overthrown, heresy and false teaching eradicated, and that all may be brought to the unity of the true faith, and that there may be but 'one fold' and 'one shepherd.'

The Association for the Propagation of the Faith, thanks to the protection of Divine Providence, to the solemn approbations and benedictions of the Sovereign Pontiffs, to the encouragement of the Bishops and Clergy of the Universal Church, and to the generous co-operation of the pious faithful, has already been enabled to accomplish glorious triumphs for religion. The number of priests on the foreign missions has been multiplied ten-fold; the horrifying spectacle of human sacrifices, so common in several countries, has been abolished; thousands and tens of thousands of the children of Pagans, exposed by their unnatural and cruel parents to certain death, have been regenerated in the saving waters of Baptism, and are now in eternal glory making intercession for us. Heathens and infidels, beyond reckoning, who had no hope of ever coming to the knowledge of the true God, have been converted; and thousands, even of the faithful, many of them our own countrymen, who had no opportunity under heaven of approaching the sacraments, scarcely a chance of seeing a priest during their lives, now have the Gospel preached to them, and the consolations of religion within their reach; churches have been built, and schools established; and all this amount of spiritual good, and more, has been effected by the members of the Association for the Propagation of the Faith, by their prayers and by their alms. From every part of the world, the blessings of tens of thousands are invoked upon this Society; the thanks of the Missionaries, and the affecting but faithful narratives of their toils, their sufferings, and their conquests, are regularly transmitted to us in grateful acknowledgment, and published in our Annals; and the martyrs of Cochin-China, when bowing their heads in resignation under the sword of the executioner, have not forgotten us; in their last moments, in the very act of dying for the faith, they prayed for us, and promised, that when they should receive the bright crowns prepared for the martyrs, they would make continual intercession for the Association and its members.

Much has been done; but the Society has yet much more to accomplish. Let the prayers and the contributions of the faithful be multiplied, let the Association be more widely extended, and its utility more fully understood, and there is no doubt, but that with the Divine protection, it will also be able to extend a helping hand to the new Missions, which are continually imploring assistance in the words of the Apostle: "Save us, we perish." Remember that the most divine of all divine works is to co-operate with God in the salvation of souls, "to go before the face of the Lord, and to prepare his ways," "to give the knowledge of salvation to his people unto the remission of their sins," "and to enlighten those who are seated in darkness, and in the shadow of death; and, alas! it is a melancholy reflection—let it never be forgotten—that there are five hundred millions of our fellow-creatures, more than one half the entire human race, plunged in the worst depths of Paganism and Idolatry. Who will deliver them? To struggle for this noble end is the object and the glorious destiny of the Association for the Propagation of the Faith.

Twelve years ago, the Archbishops and Bishops of Ireland unanimously expressed their sincere gratification at the establishment of the Society in this country, and most earnestly recommend it to the piety and charity of all their faithful people. Well and nobly did the Catholics of Ireland respond to the recommendation of their venerated Prelates; and poorest among the people of Christendom, they soon were ranked with the nations foremost in contributing to this glorious Association. And onwards, prosperously they went, from year to year, increasing the amount of their charitable tribute to enable the Apostolic Missionaries to go forth and teach all nations, and extend to the ends of the earth the empire of the Lord Jesus, until, in the inscrutable ways of Divine Providence, they were visited with the severest afflictions, with famine and all its terrible concomitants. But, even in the depth of their sorrows they were not unmindful of the propagation of that Divine faith which they received from St. Patrick, which they loved more than their lives, and of which they have ever been the most devoted champions. And now, surely, when, thanks to the Almighty, better prospects are opening for our country, and when the august voice of the Sovereign Pontiff has been heard from the Eternal City, earnestly exhorting all his beloved children, his bishops, clergy, and faithful laity, to renew their zeal, and redouble their exertions in favour of the Association for the Propagation of the Faith, she will, once again, and soon, take her place amongst the first of Catholic nations under the sign of the Cross, to combat for the conversion of the world to the "one true faith," and, with the aid of God from on high, to conquer. Moreover—and let it be ever borne in grateful recollection—"The Association for the Propagation of the Faith" has strong claims upon the Catholics of Ireland; for, during many years past it has been most liberal in the distribution of its funds to those Foreign Missions in which Irishmen form a great portion of the Catholic population. The Society has allocated annually the large sum of Thirty thousand pounds to those countries in which most of the Catholics are either Irish, or the children of Irish parents. Many Irish Missionaries, Bishops, and Priests, in foreign lands, have a considerable portion of the expenses of their Missions constantly defrayed by this Society. On the prosperity, then, of this Institution, the spiritual interests of Irishmen all over the world are very much, and in many places entirely, dependent: and be it therefore always remembered, that whilst contributing to the Association for the Propagation of the Faith, we, in Ireland, are receiving a ten-fold return in favour of our own exiled fellow-countrymen.

Few persons are called to leave country, home, and parents, and go to remote and unknown lands, to live under the burning sun of an African or an Eastern sky, or among the eternal snows of frozen regions, to traverse trackless deserts, and expose themselves to the imminent danger of death from the wild beasts of the forests, or at the hands of those cruel people whose souls they so ardently longed to save. Few possess the heroic spirit of faith which would prompt them to these noble sacrifices in their own persons. But all can, "in spirit and in truth," by their charitable donations, accompany the Missionaries who exercise the Apostleship amongst those unchristian and benighted nations; all can be made participators in their good works, and sharers in their merits. If they contribute to the "Society for the Propagation of the Faith," they become, as it were, Missionaries themselves, by enabling the Association to send out and support preachers of the word of God. When the priest baptizes, they baptize with him; when he converts the deluded votaries of heathenism and idolatry, they co-operate with him in overturning paganism and its false gods, in eradicating its gross depravity, and those brutal crimes, which degrade our common nature; whether he catechises, administers the holy Sacraments, attends the dying, or performs any other saving function of his blessed ministry in those "regions of darkness and of death," they concur with him, they labour with his hands, and speak with his lips, and therefore are entitled to a portion of his eternal rewards, of his throne, and crown, and glory.

This is the heavenly and Godlike mission to which all the Catholics of the world, of every age and sex, are most earnestly exhorted, by the Supreme Head of the Church. Can any one remain deaf to his voice, or refuse to obey his call? Surely such will not be found in Catholic Ireland. There is no reasonable ground whatever for excuse. The contribution, only a halfpenny a week, and even less for those who are very poor, is so small, that it is placed within the reach of persons in the humblest circumstances; it is so very trifling that it cannot create opposition in any quarter, or interfere in the slightest degree with any existing local charity: on the contrary, this pious little offering to God for so divine an object, will draw down manifold blessings upon all our undertakings. There is but little asked of you—think how little; only a halfpenny a week. Give that little regularly and perseveringly; let nothing prevent you. Encourage, by word and example, those among your acquaintance to join the Association. Remember that what you do is entirely for the greater glory of God. "He wishes that all men should be saved," and that "no one should perish." Resolve, then, to become living, active, and zealous members of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, and the "kingdom of God will come;" and the cross will be exalted; and millions who have never heard of the adorable name of Jesus, "in which alone salvation is to be found," will have "the good tidings of great joy" announced to them; and innumerable souls, for whom the blood of the Saviour would have been shed in vain only for your charity, will be saved; and from the east, and west, and north, and south, they shall ascend in triumph, to be united eternally with their "Father and your Father, their God and your God," and they will praise him for ever, because He hath sent you as "angels to deliver them from all their evils," and because He hath raised up the blessed "Association for the Propagation of the Faith," to accomplish the work of their redemption.

By order of the Committee,

M. FLANNERY, Secretary.

LAWS AND INSTITUTES OF IRELAND.

The Report of the Commissioners appointed to inquire and report concerning the Ancient Laws and Institutes of Ireland.

To his Excellency George William Frederick Earl of Clarendon, K.G., G.C.B., &c., &c., Lord Lieutenant General and General-Governor of Ireland.

May it please your Excellency—The principal materials necessary for the preparation of a report on the ancient Irish laws being now collected and arranged, we had thought it our duty to lay before your Excellency a brief statement of the results at which we have already arrived, and to solicit some instructions respecting the time and manner of completing the task which your Excellency has been pleased to commit to us.

The first object to which our attention was directed, was the formation of a catalogue of all the manuscripts of the Brehon Laws which are known to exist in the United Kingdom. A numerous and valuable collection of these documents, originally made in Ireland by the eminent Welsh antiquary and philologist, Edward Lhwyd, is now preserved in the library of Trinity College, Dublin, to which it was presented about sixty years ago by Sir John Sebright. In thus disposing of it, he appears to have been influenced by the advice of the celebrated Edmund Burke, who manifested on that occasion a lively anxiety to have the materials of Irish history placed within the reach of scholars, by the translation and publication of all the ancient records of the country. Besides the Trinity College MSS., and a few belonging to the Royal Irish Academy, we have ascertained that transcripts of various portions of the Brehon Laws are to be found in the Bodlean Museum, and in the Stowe collection, now the property of Lord Ashburnham. All these MSS., except the last mentioned, to which we have not as yet been so fortunate as to obtain access, have been described at great length in an analytical catalogue, made according to our directions by Doctor O'Donovan and Mr. Eugene Curry, and containing notices of their respective dates, and of the general nature of the subjects they treat of.

The dates of the existing MSS. of the Brehon Laws vary from the early part of the fourteenth to the close of the sixteenth century; but the authority of some is enhanced by the fact, that they were transcribed by persons in whose families the office of Brehon or Judge had been hereditary for several generations.

For the laws themselves a much higher antiquity may be safely asserted. So far as we have external evidence to guide us, there is no reason to suspect that they have undergone any material change since the time of Cormac MacCuilleain, King and Bishop of Cashel, who died A.D. 908. He was a man of great learning and energy, who certainly promoted the execution of considerable literary works, and under whose influence it is not improbable that a systematic compilation of the laws may have been effected. Of this, however, we have no distinct record. On the other hand, we find scattered through all parts of the laws allusions to a general revision of them made in the fifth century, at the instance of St. Patrick, who, in conjunction with certain kings and learned men, is said to have expunged from them all those institutions which savoured of Paganism, and to have framed the code called the Seanchus Mor. These same documents assert the existence of still more ancient written laws, the greater part of which are ascribed to Cormac Mac Art, monarch of Ireland, in the middle of the third century. However slow we may be to acquiesce in statements of this kind, which contradict what we have learned concerning the progress of legislation in the remaining parts of Western Europe, we may readily admit that the subject matter of many of the laws demonstrates their great antiquity, as it indicates the primitive nature of the society in which they prevailed. In spite of the attempts to efface it, traces of heathenism are still discernible in many parts of them. They enumerate various ordeals of a Pagan character, which are expressly termed magical, and specify the occasions on which a resort to them was prescribed. There are also provisions in the laws of marriage which prove that Christianity could have exercised but a feeble influence at that time when they were enacted.

The language in which the Brehon laws are written is a convincing proof of their antiquity. They are composed in a peculiar dialect, as many writers have maintained; but if their style differs from that of the vernacular Irish of the present day, as Anglo-Saxon does from modern English, this dissimilarity is to be ascribed mainly to the effects of time, by which the orthography and grammatical forms of the language have been modified, and legal terms and phrases of constant recurrence have become obsolete. The antiquity of the language of the Brehon laws being once established, it must be apparent that the publication of them would promote the study of philology in no ordinary way. From no other source could such abundant and precious materials be obtained by the scholar engaged in analysing the Celtic languages, and determining their relation to other branches of the Indo-European family.

Apart from their mere antiquity, these laws are possessed of considerable interest to the historian and jurist. They lay down the privileges and duties of persons of all classes; they define the tenure of land and the rights of property of all kinds. In a word, they furnish a perfect picture of the society which they were designed to regulate, from the constitution of the kingdom, and the relation subsisting between the sovereign and the provincial kings, down to the minutest details of domestic life among the serfs.

Such being the estimate which an examination of these documents has led us to form of their age and contents, we feel that we are fully warranted in recommending to your Excellency that the publication of them should be undertaken at the expense of the state, and under the superintendence of competent persons. All the arguments which induced the government to order the publication of the Anglo-Saxon and Welsh laws might be used in favour of this measure. In fact, the publication of the Brehon Laws appears to us to be essential to the completion of the works already put forth by the Commissioners of Public Records.

About seventy years ago, Vallancey, in his "Collectanea de Rebus Hibernicis," published a few extracts from them, accompanied by translations. But both text and version were so full of inaccuracies, arising from the incapacity of the editor, that the value of the documents was not fully exhibited in these specimens. In truth, the work was too difficult and expensive to be undertaken by any individual. It requires a long time, a considerable outlay, and much co-operation for its proper execution. Persons possessing a vernacular knowledge of the Irish language, and accustomed to transcribe Irish MSS., must be employed in the work of copying and translating. These again would require the superintendence of accomplished scholars, versed in history, jurisprudence, archæology, and philology. Moreover, it would be necessary to procure copies or collations of MSS. in remote places. The work, when completed, would be an extensive one, occupying a large folio volume, which would possess but little popular interest, and would be consulted only by a limited class of historical readers. Taking all these circumstances into account, we are convinced that, notwithstanding its intrinsic importance, the publication of the ancient Irish laws could not be effected in the ordinary manner, and must be undertaken by the government, if it is ever to be accomplished at all.

The present time affords facilities for the execution of the design now proposed. During the progress of the Ordnance Survey of Ireland, several persons acquainted with the Irish language were employed to collect information on matters of topography and ancient history. Under the direction of the officers conducting the survey, these persons became well-instructed and disciplined scholars. In a few years more this advantage will be irretrievably lost. The taste for antiquarian scholarship amongst the lower classes in Ireland is nearly extinct; whilst death and emigration are fast removing the few individuals who possessed the qualifications just mentioned. Without the aid of such labourers, the task of transcribing and translating the Brehon Laws would become one of extreme, if not hopeless, difficulty.

There are some circumstances which would render the publication of these ancient laws peculiarly interesting in the eyes of the politician. It is not improbable that the habits of thought and action prevailing amongst the native Irish, are reflected in the laws which they framed for themselves before they were affected by foreign influences, and to which they continued to cling with obstinate tenacity, even for centuries after they had been compelled to submit to British rule. The Brehon Laws were actually appealed to so late as the reign of Charles I. We must not, therefore, be surprised to find some traces yet remaining of their effect upon society.

We would also suggest that good results would be obtained by exhibiting the real state of this country at a remote period of its history. It would then be found that false or exaggerated notions have been entertained of the well-being of society and the advancement of civilization in early times. Ireland never enjoyed a golden age. It would be more true to say, that she suffered for many ages under an iron feudalism, which ministered essentially different laws to the rich and to the poor. Ignorance on this head has certainly created in some minds an unreasonable dissatisfaction with the present order of things, and a perverse disposition to thwart the efforts of those who are doing their utmost to ameliorate it. Nothing could be more efficacious in dispelling such morbid national prejudices than a complete publication of the ancient Irish laws.

Lest it should be supposed that any national partiality has affected the opinion which we have ourselves formed, we beg to direct your Excellency's attention to the letters on this subject from Mr. Hallam,

M. Guizot, Professor Ranke, and Professor Grimm. Other English and foreign scholars of the highest eminence have in similar terms expressed the deep interest with which they regard it, * * *

CHARLES GRAVES, D.D.

ADDRESS OF THE CLERGY OF THE ARCHDIOCESS OF DUBLIN, TO THE MOST REV. DR. CULLEN.

Feast of the holy Apostles, Peter and Paul, A.D. 1852.

MY LORD ARCHBISHOP—We, your Grace's most dutiful and affectionate servants, the Canons of the Chapter, and parochial clergy of the archdiocese of Dublin beg to detain your Grace for a moment on the threshold of this Metropolitan Church, of which you come to take possession, while we give expression to the feelings of joy and exultation which fill our breasts as we greet your first public and official arrival amongst us.

We desire, then, in the first place, to acknowledge the great goodness of Almighty God in calling your Grace to preside over this most important portion of the fold of Christ; and we thank from our hearts our Holy Father the Pope, not only for his gracious condescension in listening to our prayer for your Grace's transfer to this diocese; but also that he has deigned to give so special a mark of his high appreciation of the worth and fitness of the object of our recommendation, as is implied in the honours and jurisdiction of Apostolic Delegate, with which he has been pleased to invest you.

It is, then, my Lord, with no ordinary sentiments of delight that we obey the summons to go forth and receive you thus solemnly as our Father and our Bishop. But, though it is the first time we have the happiness to salute you in that capacity, we cannot consent to have it thought you come a stranger amongst us. We hail your Grace as the child of this diocese; and the long and intimate acquaintance we have had with your Grace's character and merits, as developed in other departments of the ecclesiastical vineyard, further prompted our desire to possess you, and now crowns our joy on this blessed day, when we open our ranks, and, still more, our hearts to receive you. Specially is it because we have observed you—all Catholic Ireland has observed—while you sat in the chair of St. Malachy, giving proof of those virtues that marked "the great Priest" described by the Prophet, "who in his days pleased God, and became a propitiation in the time of wrath." We have seen you unite firmness in the discharge of duty with peculiar gravity in the selection of your means, which showed that while you loved God you had a tenderness for man. And if the most devoted attachment to the See of St. Peter, combined with your love of your country and allegiance to the throne—if the soundest and most varied learning, adorned and set off by humility beyond the power of affection—if ardent zeal for souls, tempered and directed by consummate prudence—if, in a word, qualities apparently the most opposed, blended, however, and harmonised, so as to produce the burning and shining light of the sanctuary—if these, and such as these, be grounds for any confident anticipation of the future, then may we be allowed to hope that the hand of God has directed us in suggesting, and the Sovereign Pontiff in decreeing, your Grace's removal to this all-important See; and it may be permitted us to take some share of pride in having been instrumental, even in a subordinate degree, in bringing about so desirable a consummation.

Let, then, the "Te Deum" peal forth to speak our joy and thanksgiving as we proceed, under the appropriate auspices of the glorious Apostles, SS. Peter and Paul, and in obedience to the mandate of their illustrious successor, Pope Pius IX., to marshal your way to the throne of the great St. Laurence, there, as we hope and pray, long to preside, the heir at once of his jurisdiction and virtues.

WALTER MEYLER, Dean.

WILLIAM YORE, Parish Priest.

His Grace replied in the following terms: Right Rev. and Very Rev. brethren, allow me to return you my thanks for the kindness you have manifested towards me on this occasion of receiving me amongst you. I cannot pretend to be able to express my feelings of thankfulness on this occasion—not being prepared to do so by reason of the very short notice that I received of there being an intention to present an address to me; but I will take an opportunity to express my sense of your kindness more at length on a future occasion. Feeling my own unworthiness and my own weakness, I cannot attribute to myself the many merits which you are pleased to ascribe to me; and I can only refer to your great kindness the generous manifestation of regard with which you have now honoured me. That manifestaton encourages me to hope that I will be supported in the arduous duties now devolving on me by a body of clergymen distinguished alike for their charity, piety, and learning, the monuments of whose Christian zeal surround us on all sides in this country. I am induced to hope that, with their co-operation, I may be able to supply my own imperfections, and discharge the arduous duties of my arduous office to the advancement of religion and the benefit of the community. The blessed and memorable festival of our Church falling on this day, I look upon as most auspicious, as having been selected for my entrance into the duties of this high and holy office. It reminds us that "the foolishness of God is wiser than the wisdom of man," and that the weakness of God is more powerful than the strength of men, and teaches us also to rely upon His Almighty wisdom and mercy. The poor fisherman of Galilee, untaught in worldly lore, was selected by that Divine wisdom, and sent to preach the gospel of Him crucified in the centre of pagan and imperial Rome; he preached the gospel to the Gentiles, and consummated a life of devotion to his Master by a death like His. But triumphing in death, he left after him to his successors to the end of time the light, the Faith, which shall never be quenched; and we now find the chair of Peter filled by one of the noblest, the most pious, and gifted pontiffs that presided over the Christian Church—the illustrious Pius IX. It is in his name I come amongst you, and all this pomp and splendour attendant on my reception on this occasion reflect respect not so much on me as on the Vicegerent of him who sent me. May no power of earth or hell ever detach us from that rock of truth whereon our holy Church stands still triumphant and unscathed by the storm of ages. May it be always our pride to devote our exertions for the honour and glory of God, and for the salvation of souls.

REPLY OF THE ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN

To the Address presented to him by the inhabitants of the parish of St. Catherine, on the occasion of laying the first stone of the new church, 30th June, 1852.

Rev. Brethren and dear children of the laity of St. Catherine's Parish:

I return you my sincere and grateful acknowledgments for the address you have presented to me. I look upon it as a proof of the affection and respect which you are disposed to pay to your spiritual pastors. It also affords an evidence of the cordial understanding and perfect union which exists between you and those ministers of God to whom is committed the care of your eternal welfare, and so long as that union subsists, so long as that well-founded affection continues, the cause of our holy religion must prosper amongst us. You advert in your address to the critical state of the present time as regards the interests of the Faith; but let me remind you that now, as heretofore, the Church has to suffer and endure much—the inheritance of the cross is now, as it ever was, an inheritance of suffering—for such is the lot of all the true children of Jesus Christ, who, the more they suffer, and the more firmly and heroically they endure, approach the nearer to the model laid down for them in the life of our Divine Master. If we wish to imitate Him—if we desire to follow in His sacred footsteps—we must be prepared joyfully to suffer with Him, and to endure all in His holy name. But whatever may be the trials prepared for us, let us be assured of one thing—we need never fear that anything can ever disunite or destroy our holy Catholic Church. No; all the powers of earth and of hell may be arrayed against that Church—all that demon malignity or human folly can effect may be levelled against it; but they cannot prevail against that Church, founded on a rock, and defended by the all-protecting hand of the Redeemer of the world. If we be regulated and instructed by the wise counsels of our holy Church, all the machinations of our enemies will be directed against us in vain. The assaults of our enemies, the persecutions we may undergo, and the tribulations we may suffer, will but purify and elevate us, and so prepare us, that we may be more worthy of an immortal crown in heaven. Be, therefore, always devoted, constant, and courageous in your attachment to the Church of Christ; for so long as we remain the faithful children of that Church—so long as we are in the bark of Peter, participating in the graces of communion with the faithful, and under the Apostolic See, we may be assured of the divine protection of Him who promised to abide with us for ever. We will be secured from the contentions of worldly wisdom, and free from the vanities and distractions of those who are tossed about by every wind of doctrine—we will be safe in the bosom of the Church, and rejoice on our way, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit. And now I congratulate you on the noble undertaking which you have so auspiciously commenced this day. It is truly a great and noble work—worthy of your religious spirit and public virtue. You are about erecting a structure which is to be devoted to a high and holy purpose—not a dwelling for man's use, but a temple for the reception of our Lord Jesus Christ, who will therein abide, under the mystic veil of the Holy Sacrament of the altar—who will be there to receive the visits of “all who labour and are heavy burthened,” and to console the Christian Catholic during the weary and heart-breaking pilgrimage of this world. I sincerely trust that the efforts of the pious and zealous pastor of this parish, and those of his good parishioners, and of the other benevolent Catholics engaged in this great work will be speedily and eminently successful. It is, indeed, a source of great consolation to me that I have been enabled to commence my episcopal functions by performing the ceremony of laying the foundation of the Church of St. Catherine’s, Dublin. I will always remember with sincere gratification the evident fervour and true religious enthusiasm with which you, Catholics of Dublin, have pressed forward in crowds to attend this solemn ceremony. I will preserve this silver trowel, so kindly and courteously presented to me, as a memorial of this interesting event—the first public act of my office as archbishop of Dublin—and I will offer up my fervent prayers to the Throne of Mercies for the temporal and spiritual welfare of all who are united for the achievement of this great and holy object.

DR. NEWMAN ON THE PROCLAMATION AGAINST PROCESSIONS.

Edgbaston, Birmingham, June 18th, 1852.

SIR—As a royal proclamation has appeared in the London Gazette, in which all whom it may concern are solemnly warned against a violation of the act 10 George IV., by which Roman Catholic Ecclesiastics and members of any of the religious orders, communities, or societies of the Church of Rome, bound by monastic or religious vows, are forbidden to exercise any of the rites or ceremonies of the Roman Catholic Church, or wear the habits of their Order, save within the usual places of worship of the Roman Catholic religion, or in private houses, I take the liberty of requesting information on a question arising out of it, in which I am much interested.

It is now four years since, under legal advice that they were not breaking any law, and without any apparent scandal and annoyance to the population, certain Roman Catholics, Ecclesiastical and lay, have ordinarily appeared in the streets of Birmingham, and in the neighbourhood, in cassocks and cloaks.

I beg to be allowed to inquire whether the recent proclamation is directed against this practice as well as against the processions of which it distinctly makes mention, so that, if they continue it, they are in danger of being proceeded against as disturbers of the public peace?

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

(Signed)

JOHN H. NEWMAN.

To the Right Hon. S. Walpole, one of her Majesty’s principal Secretaries of State.

Whitehall, June 24. 1852.

Sir—I am directed by Mr. Secretary Walpole to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 18th inst., referring to her Majesty’s recent proclamation, and inquiring whether it was directed against a particular practice which has lately been adopted by certain Roman Catholics, Ecclesiastical and lay, “as well as against the processions of which it distinctly makes mention.”

In answer thereto I am to inform you, that her Majesty's proclamation is directed against all violations of the 26th section of the statute 10th Geo. IV., c. 7, and that if you feel any difficulty in the construction of that enactment, your proper course will be to consult your legal adviser.

The Secretary of State would not be justified in pronouncing an opinion on the question submitted to him; for if any doubt exists on the point, the decision of it must rest with the courts of law, and not with the government.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

(Signed) Wm. J. H. JOLIFFE.

At a Meeting of the Catholic Clergy of the Deanery of Loughrea, held on the 22nd June, the following resolutions were adopted:

1. Resolved—That we have seen, with indignant surprise, a proclamation issued by the present Government, in the name of our most gracious Queen, warning the Catholics of Great Britain and Ireland that their religious processions will be henceforward punished as criminal infractions of the law, and that their Bishops and Priests, as well as the Members of the Religious Orders, will be prosecuted if they presume to appear in public in their distinctive dress—that whilst we bear to her Majesty all the allegiance which, in temporal matters, is rightly due to the sovereign by the subject, we recognise in the government no right to forbid to the Catholics of this empire the peaceful observance of the usages of their church, or the use in public as well as in private of their distinctive robes by its bishops, priests, and religious.

2. Resolved—That a law, in terms directed against the free exercise of the Catholic religion, has no binding force, and, like all other pénal enactments against the Church, must be disregarded.

3. Resolved—That the law which would prohibit to Catholics the free exercise of their religious ceremonies has been felt to be so unjust, that no administration (before the present) has outraged public opinion and sound policy by attempting to enforce it.

4. Resolved—That a government which, for the selfish purpose of exciting in its own support the bigoted prejudices to be found in the Anglican Church establishment and its kindred sects, would thus unprovokedly attack the Catholics of the empire, should be met by these with the most determined resistance. That whilst it is the paramount duty of the Catholic electors of this county to return to Parliament as their representative Captain Bellew, who has manfully avowed himself the opponent alike of every administration, whether Whig or Tory, that would dare to persecute our religion or its institutions, it has now become particularly incumbent on them to refuse their votes to the candidate that comes forward as the general supporter of the government of the Earl of Derby.

5. Resolved—That the abettors of the present administration have signalled themselves, individually and as a body, by their hatred of Catholicity and its most cherished institutions. That the attacks on the College of Maynooth, and the petitions presented, among others, by the so-called Bishop of Cashel, praying for an inspection of nunneries, afford evidence of the foul and malignant spirit with which they are animated.

6. Resolved—That we shall carefully instruct our respective parishioners on the responsibility that attaches to the exercise of the elective franchise. That we shall explain to them the power, for good or for evil, possessed by a member of parliament. We shall make known to them the blasphemous oath tendered to every Protestant representative previous to his taking a seat in Parliament, and thus enable them to judge of the vague and hollow professions by which it is attempted to impose on their simplicity.

THOMAS BURKE, P.P., Chairman.
JOHN MACKLIN, P.P., Secretary.

PASTORAL ADDRESS AGAINST PROSELYTISM,

From the Right Rev. Dr. Blake, to the Catholics of Newry, and its neighbourhood.

DEARLY BELOVED IN CHRIST—It appears from a printed circular, signed by several clergymen of the Protestant Established Church, officiating in Newry, Killeavy, and Drumbanagher, that they are about to commence in one of their churches a regular series of controversial lectures, not to vindicate or strengthen their own religious tenets, whatever these are, but to attack the principal doctrines of the Church of Rome; not to correct the abuses which exist among themselves, but to throw out upon us all those vile calumnies and misrepresentations which the sinister policy of wicked statesmen, the craving avidity of heartless flatterers, and the cruelty of inhuman monsters have invented for the destruction of our holy religion, and the debasement of our people. They hope you will receive them “in a spirit of kindness and good-will,” although, unfortunately it has generally happened that missionaries of that kind have made themselves less remarkable for sincerity and kindness than for deceit and hypocrisy. Like the devil when he tempted Luther on the subject of the Blessed Eucharist, with these words, “what if the Mass were an act of idolatry?” They ask, “What if the Roman Catholic doctrines should be wrong?” Let them also ask, “What if the gates of hell, that is, the powers of darkness, have prevailed, or can prevail against the Church of Christ?” Dearly beloved, you will take care to leave these doers of mischief to themselves; you will not go near them; you will take no notice of them. The more they endeavour to excite controversial warfare, which, at the present time, is so peculiarly to be deprecated, the more diligently will you attend to promote social peace and good neighbourly feeling among your fellow-creatures, without exception, convinced and fully persuaded as you are, that the Church of Christ is but one, and is to last for ever—that the spirit of truth shall always abide with her—that Christ is her head, and that whoever is separated from the Church, His mystical body, is undoubtedly separated from Him; you cannot be too cautious in governing yourselves by that conviction. You cannot deny your religion on any account, or in any manner, neither in your heart nor outwardly. You cannot be a Catholic in heart and a Protestant in appearance;

you cannot, therefore, go into the churches of Protestants in times of their religious service, because by doing so you, in the first place, outwardly deny your religion, and your example may confirm others in error; and, secondly, because the Catholic Church, invested with the authority of Christ, and identified with Him, most strictly forbids it. In all worldly concerns, dearly beloved, let no one, of whatever creed, country, or class he may be, have reason to accuse you of being unkind, or unfaithful, or uncourteous, or in any manner dishonourable or uncharitable to him. In short, "give to Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's, and to God the things that are God's." The more strictly you are attached to your religious principles, be the more exact in doing honour to them by cheerfully giving to every one what is due to him, and by the constant exercise of beneficence. But if any man will attempt to draw you from "the Faith once delivered to the saints," be mindful of the great Apostle's words, and act upon them—"Though we ourselves, or an angel from heaven, should deliver to you a doctrine different from that which we have preached, let him be anathema."

The grace and peace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all.
Amen.

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS IN HOWTH.

An effort having been made by the parish priest of Howth to provide gratuitous education for the children of the poor in that locality, by the establishment of extensive schools, the Earl of Howth, with his usual liberality, lent his aid to the useful and laudable undertaking by granting a free site for the new schools, in addition to a handsome donation to the fund for their erection.

His Grace the Archbishop of Dublin wrote the following letter, recommending the project to the attention of the charitable:

"The Rev. Mr. Smithwick, P.P., at Howth, anxious to provide for the education of the children of his parish, has determined to erect in Howth large schools, on a plot of ground generously granted by Lord Howth for that purpose.

"As the expense of the buildings will be considerable, and the district is generally poor and not populous, the Rev. Mr. Smithwick feels it necessary to appeal for assistance to the charity of the Faithful of more favoured localities.

"We beg to recommend his appeal most warmly to all those to whom he may apply for aid, trusting that with their co-operation he shall soon be able to complete the meritorious work he has commenced, and to spread the blessing of a religious education among his flock.

✠ PAUL CULLEN,

"Archbishop of Dublin, and Primate of Ireland."

PASTORAL ON THE JUBILEE.

Paul, by the grace of God and of the Apostolic See, Archbishop of Dublin, Primate of all Ireland, &c. &c., to the Clergy and Laity of the Diocese of Dublin, &c.

It affords us inexpressible consolation to announce to you that the Jubilee granted to the Christian world, in the course of the past year, by our Holy Father Pius IX., but which, up to the present time, could not be conveniently carried out in this diocese, will be solemnly opened for the benefit of the faithful committed to our charge, on Friday, the 1st October next.

To render the commencement of the Jubilee more solemn, and bring down the blessings of Heaven more efficaciously on our proceedings, a Pontifical Mass will be celebrated on the above-mentioned day in our Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception of the most Holy Mother of God, and immediately after, the ceremony of the Forty Hours will commence, during which the most holy Sacrament of the Altar will be exposed to the devotion and adoration of the faithful in the said church, from Friday, 1st October, until the following Sunday.

Whilst the pardon of guilt and the remission of the eternal punishment due to it are to be obtained at the tribunal of penance, when approached with the requisite dispositions, it is the property of an indulgence, as you are well aware, to remit either entirely or in part the temporal punishment merited by sin; and, as a good confession constitutes one of the principal conditions for gaining the plenary indulgence now offered to the faithful in the form of Jubilee—a spirit of penitence and a firm resolution of amendment, always so necessary when we seek to be absolved from our faults and the penalties attached to them, are directly obligatory on all who are desirous to partake in the most touching manifestation of his love which the Father of Mercies is about to exercise towards us. Emanating from that power in binding and loosing which Jesus Christ conferred on St. Peter and his successors, for the salvation of the flock committed to their charge (Matt., xvi. 19), and pronounced by the Church to be “most salutary to Christian people,” the experience of the Catholic world has borne repeated testimony to the fruits of holiness produced by these truly paternal and beautiful dispensations of mercy; and, it is with a heart filled with hope we look forward on this occasion to the conversion of those amongst us, who may have been proof heretofore against every other admonition, but who, we feel assured, will not reject the affectionate appeal and offer of pardon now about to be made to them by the Father of the faithful, Christ’s Vicar on earth.

The Jubilee will commence, as we have stated, on the 1st of October, and will continue until the last day of the present year.

The conditions necessary for obtaining the indulgences annexed to it are,

First—A worthy participation of the Sacraments of Penance and the Eucharist.

Secondly—To fast one day within the time above specified.

Thirdly to give alms to the poor.

Fourthly—To make some oblation or contribution to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, a society, which being on this and other occasions, most warmly recommended to us by the successor of St. Peter, we should always endeavour to encourage and assist.

Fifthly—For those who propose to gain the indulgences in this city to visit once the following churches: the Cathedral (Marlborough-street), St. Paul’s (Arran-quay), and St. Nicholas’s (Francis-street), or any one of them three times; and for those residing elsewhere, to pay an equal number of visits to one of their parochial churches or chapels; and, on the occasion of these visits to pray for the exaltation and prosperity of our holy mother the Church and of the Apostolic See, for the destruction of heresy, for charity, concord, and union among Christian states and princes. Whilst praying for these general objects, we are not to forget the wants and miseries of our own poor country, which famine, pestilence, bigotry, and misrule have reduced to so deplorable a state, that God alone can restore it to peace, happiness, and prosperity.

Those who are suffering from sickness, or otherwise legitimately impeded from performing the above-mentioned works, can have them commuted by their confessor into other works of piety or charity. Children not sufficiently old to make their first Communion, can obtain the indulgence by performing some other works adapted to their age.

Surely, dearly beloved, it is unnecessary to remind you, that every motive of gratitude and piety proclaims to us that we should correspond with all possible fervour and fidelity to this overflowing manifestation of mercy towards us, on the part of Him who, according to St. Paul: "has loved us too much." For this purpose, we should be careful to prepare the way of the Lord by humbling the pride and loftiness of our hearts in subjection to his holy law and that of his Church, and to make straight his paths, by renouncing every depraved inclination, removing from amongst us everything of a scandalous or disedifying nature, and abstaining from everything that would form an obstacle to the influence of his grace. There cannot be a more favourable time for reconciling ourselves with God than that which presents itself in the Jubilee. The Church gives almost unlimited powers of the keys in this holy period to her ministers. Hence, all those who have had the misfortune to contract censures by attending at anti-Catholic places of worship, by connecting themselves with secret societies, so hostile to the respect and subordination that are due to the established civil authorities, and so severely condemned by the Church; or by taking part in the proceedings of freemasonry, and becoming members of that body, against which, repeated anathemas have been issued by the Holy See, should not delay to do penance for their past transgressions, to correct their ways, and to have recourse to the keys of the Church in order to obtain absolution. If there be any persons so unhappy as to have allowed themselves to become a prey to the teachers of error, or to "the wolves in sheep's clothing that are going about seeking whom they may devour;" if any have fallen into the guilt of apostacy, and renounced that true "faith without which it is impossible to please God;" if any have immolated their little ones to Baal, by delivering them up to be instructed in heresy; if any have allowed their children to frequent proselytising schools, where their faith is undermined, oh! let them not receive the grace of God in vain; let them open their eyes to their perilous position; let them retrace their steps, and seek for the sacrament of reconciliation. Let them reflect that there is no earthly loss to be compared to the loss of faith—there is no greater evil than to be separated from that Church, out of whose pale there is no salvation—that there is no greater offence in the sight of God, than apostacy, which is declared by St. Thomas to be the greatest of all crimes; but at the same time, lest the sight of their iniquities should drive them into despair, they are to recollect that God is a merciful Father, who will receive with open arms his prodigal son, provided he be animated by a spirit of penance, and that the Church is a tender mother, that weeps over the ruin of her children, and desires nothing so ardently as that they may be converted and live. May the spirit of true compunction visit all those who by sinning against their faith have been the source of affliction to this loving mother, and may the God of truth look with an eye of compassion on all who are sitting in darkness and the shades of death, and bring them from the errors of their ways to the paths of truth and justice.

To your zeal and devotedness, reverend brethren, we commit with the utmost confidence the dispensation of this heavenly grace, feeling assured that by your fervour and assiduity in preaching the word and exercising the ministry of forgiveness with which you are invested, it will redound to the salvation of many. And as the sacraments, which are the conduits of divine grace, have been entrusted by Jesus Christ to your guardianship, be careful "not to cast your pearls before swine;" but exact of all who approach them the pious preparations and reverential dispositions so necessary to benefit by the heavenly virtue and efficacy with which they are endowed.

In addition to your usual instructions on the sacraments of Penance and the Eucharist, which should be frequently repeated in this holy time of penance and supplication; explain briefly and familiarly the nature and benefits of the other sacraments, the ceremonies and obligations of baptism, the peculiar efficacy of confirmation, the consoling and soul-strengthening virtue of extreme-unction. And as matrimony has been raised to the dignity of a sacrament in the New Law, and as, considered even in a social point of view, the tone of public morality will be found to depend in a great measure on the care which is taken to maintain its purity and preserve its integrity; you will be earnest in impressing on those who are about to approach it the grace and sanctity imparted to it by Him who honoured the nuptials of Cana by his presence, and whose mystical union with his Church is proposed by St. Paul as the glorious type or model of the charity which should sanctify the Christian marriage.

To ensure dispositions and preparations in perfect harmony with the religious character of this sacrament, you will explain to the faithful the salutary discipline and ordinances of the Church on this point, and warn them against forming any engagements which may not only disqualify them from receiving the graces of matrimony, but probably involve future uncharitableness and disunion, with the loss of domestic peace and happiness. These considerations refer especially to what are called mixed marriages, or marriages between Catholics and persons professing a false religion. Experience teaches that when the husband looks upon the religion of his consort as false and idolatrous, and the wife reciprocally condemns the doctrines of her associate for life, they can seldom live happily together, and their children, so far from being well educated in the principles of the Catholic faith, are liable to be brought up in error, or in a fatal indifferentism to every religion. And what evil results may not follow when the Catholic party happens to be carried away by death, leaving a youthful family under the control of a person professing a false religion; what hope can there be entertained that such persons will receive a Catholic education? Hence, mixed marriages have been condemned from the earliest periods, by general and particular councils, and by decrees of the Sovereign Pontiffs. The general Council of Chalcedon, held about the middle of the fifth century, prohibited them, and its prohibition has been repeatedly renewed. The great Pontiff, Benedict XIV.,* treating of this matter, did not hesitate to declare mixed marriages odious and detestable, and reprobated by the Church; and his doctrines and declarations have been confirmed by all his successors down to the present Pope. The decrees referred to are so binding, that no bishop can, of his own authority, dispense with them, or suspend their efficacy. By your instructions on these important questions, the faithful will more fully understand the obligations under which they are placed to avoid the dangers of mixed marriages, and the discipline of the Church will be more accurately observed.

In order that we may all enter into the spirit of the Sovereign Pontiff, who grants us the benefits and advantages of the present Jubilee, we annex to this edict the Encyclical Letter of his Holiness, in which he fully explains the motives that induce him to call on all the Christians of the world to join in common prayer, and to approach together the throne of the Father of mercies and the God of all consolation, beseeching of him to look with compassion and mercy on the miseries and afflictions to which the faithful are subjected in these calamitous times. You will, reverend brethren, read and explain this important document to your respective flocks, who will not fail to receive with respect and veneration, the instructions and admonitions which emanate from the successor of St. Peter and Christ's Vicar on earth. The Latin Bull of his Holiness, here annexed, will show you the facilities granted to you during the Jubilee.

The grace of our Lord Jesus be with you all. Amen.

PASTORAL ADDRESS OF HIS GRACE THE ARCHBISHOP,

ON THE FORTY HOURS' DEVOTION TO THE BLESSED SACRAMENT.

In our pilgrimage through this valley of tears, in the midst of the trials and afflictions which are the lot of the fallen children of Adam, there is nothing so consoling so cheering, and full of hope, as the thought that our Divine Redeemer is ever with us in the Holy Sacrament of the Altar, always ready to give himself to us as our spiritual food, for the strength and nourishment of our souls. This mysterious belief of the Universal Church is founded on the words of Christ, who, after the blessing of the bread and wine at the last supper, expressly and clearly declared that He gave his disciples his own very body and his own blood: words which drew from the holy St. Cyril, of Jerusalem, the following reflections: "Jesus Christ himself having declared, and said, concerning the bread, 'This is my body,' who shall dare to doubt henceforward? and he himself having ordained, and said, 'this is my blood,' who shall ever doubt, saying, this is not his blood? He once, at Cana of Galilee, turned water into wine, which is akin to blood, and is he undeserving of belief when he turned wine into blood? Wherefore, with the fullest assurance, let us partake of Christ's body and blood; for in the type of bread is given to thee the body, and in the type of wine is given to thee the blood, in order that, having partaken of Christ's body and blood, thou mayest become one in body and one in blood, with him!" The sentiments of St. Cyril have been re-echoed by all the fathers and doctors of antiquity.

Imbued with this heavenly doctrine, the faithful have been anxious, in every age, to testify in the most solemn manner, the profoundest feelings of adoration and respectful homage to their Redeemer, concealed under the Sacramental veils; and it has been always the dearest object of their hearts to enrich his altars, to raise up the proudest temples in his honour, and to celebrate the festivals instituted in commemoration of the Holy Sacrament, with the greatest pomp and magnificence.

We are happy to announce, dearly beloved, that an opportunity is now presented to you, to show how fully you participate in the general feelings of the Catholic Church. With the opening of the Jubilee, on his day, the devotion of the Forty Hours' Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament will commence, in the Church of the Immaculate Conception of the Most Holy Mother of God; and the same devotion will be carried on in the other churches and chapels of this city, according to the order laid down in the subjoined list, during the entire period of the Jubilee. A Plenary Indulgence is granted to those, who, having worthily received the Sacraments of Penance and the Eucharist, visit the church where the Blessed Sacrament is exposed, and there pour forth their fervent aspirations, according to the intentions of the Pontiff, who has invited all the Christians of the world to unite in common prayer for the necessities of the Church, and with whose wishes we can most effectually correspond, by joining in these solemn devotions.

Need we exhort you, dearly beloved, to avail yourselves of the spiritual treasures now put within your reach—to join your prayers with the prayers of all the faithful throughout the world—to give, on this solemn occasion, edifying proofs of that lively faith that animates you, and of that devotion towards the Holy Sacrament for which you are distinguished?

Rich and abundant, are the fruits, and innumerable the spiritual gifts, you may obtain. Hasten, then, to the temples of the living God, to offer your homage to his Son, who is exposed on our altars; pour out your souls in sentiments of the most fervent adoration; beg of the God of mercy to consider our wants and miseries, and to stretch out his hand to our relief; to call sinners to true repentance; to convert those who are in the darkness of error; to preserve us from all the assaults of our enemies, who are laying so many snares for our destruction, and to maintain us in the ways of faith and truth. Jesus Christ, who gives himself to us in the Holy Sacrament, and who says, "Ask, and you shall receive, seek, and you shall find, knock, and the door shall be opened to you," will not refuse our petitions, if we propose them with fervour and an humble and contrite heart.

The grace of our Lord Jesus be with you all.

SYMPATHY OF AMERICAN PRELATES WITH DR. NEWMAN.

Dr. Newman, adopted at a meeting of the Prelates who assisted at the consecration of the Cathedral of Louisville.

We all owe to the Very Rev. Dr. Newman a debt of gratitude for his exposure and denunciation of a notorious enemy of the Church; and now that his generous efforts have brought down on his head the persecution of an iniquitous court, we are bound in honour to stand by him in his conflict with injustice. A man so distinguished as Dr. Newman, and so devoted to the One Holy Catholic Church, deserves the sympathy of his brethren throughout the world.

We trust that this meeting of the Bishops at Louisville will have the effect which it deserves with the Faithful.

On the motion of the Right Rev. Dr. Spalding, the Most Rev. Archbishop of Cincinnati was called to the chair, and the Right Rev. Dr. M'Closkey appointed secretary.

"RESOLVED—That we all deeply sympathise with the Very Rev. John H. Newman in the persecution of which he has been the victim, and in the manifestly iniquitous verdict found against him by an English judge and jury.

"RESOLVED—That we will cheerfully recommend in our respective dioceses that collections be taken up for his relief, and that we will receive whatever contributions may be made for an object so laudable.

"RESOLVED—That the contributions so made be transmitted to the Most Rev. Archbishop of Baltimore, by him to be forwarded, with the present resolutions, to Dr. Newman.

"RESOLVED—That these resolutions be published in the Catholic Telegraph and Advocate of Cincinnati, and that the other Catholic papers of the union be requested to copy them.

✠ JOHN BAPTIST, Archbishop of Cincinnati, Chairman.

TENANT LEAGUE—ADDRESS TO THE CATHOLIC BISHOPS.

Proposed by the Very Rev. Archdeacon Fitzgerald and unanimously adopted—That the following memorial from the Catholic members of the League be respectfully presented to the Catholic Hierarchy of Ireland:

“To the Most Rev. and Right Rev. Catholic Archbishops and Bishops of Ireland, the humble memorial of the Catholic Members of the Council of the Tenant League of Ireland.”

“My Lords—We think it our duty respectfully to submit to your lordships’ consideration the present frightful state of our unhappy country. It is known to your lordships that Ireland, having scarcely any manufacturing and still less of mineral wealth, as compared to the sister island of Great Britain, is almost wholly an agricultural country. In the year 1841 more than five millions of its inhabitants were in the position of cultivators, and the main, the almost exclusive resources that supported its trade, its professions, and its handicraft arts were all drawn from the soil. Under such circumstances the due adjustment of the relations between those who owned and those who cultivated the soil was at all times a matter of the very highest importance, and as such had been matter of grave consideration to public men and government commissions at different times. But in the interval between 1845 and the present time changes have supervened that have made this adjustment a matter of the very last necessity. As a distinguished member of your venerable order has expressed it, the relations of landlord and tenant have become a ‘question of life and death.’

“At all times those relations were placed, by law and by circumstances, in a position as unfavourable as possible to the securing of the well-being or stimulating the industry of the cultivating class. The landlord had at all times in substance and effect the power of imposing any rent however exorbitant, and enforcing payment by the direst penalties. The rents before the period alluded to were in the majority of instances excessive and exorbitant; but by the failure of the potato, and by the removal of protection, rents that were before both excessive and exorbitant became absolutely impossible to pay. Still in thousands of instances the payment of those impossible rents was urged to extremities fatal to the owner, to the cultivator, and to the interests of society at large. In consequence of those suicidal efforts to extract impossible rents, Ireland at this moment exhibits a spectacle of ruin, devastation—of human death and human suffering, to an extent that has had no parallel since the days of the extinction of the people of Canaan.

“The public records attest that the population of Ireland has been diminished by two millions, by the death or banishment of its people, between the year 1841 and the month of March of last year. Within the same period 300,000 human dwellings were demolished and left desolate. At a certain time in the last year a quarter of a million were shut up in the workhouses on a stinted allowance of the coarsest food, and with a total and immoral disruption of all the ties of family and of Christian marriage. We beg to call your lordships’ attention to the open violation of God’s revealed will, included in the shutting up in a prison as malefactors, and in a state of forced immorality, those poor who are the representatives of the person of the Saviour, and who are charged with no crime but that of guiltless and wholly unavoidable destitution.

"We respectfully crave your lordships' attention to the wide demoralization, the cruelty, and hard-heartedness on the one hand—the despair, hatred, and blasphemous murmurs on the other, and the universal fraud engendered by the poor law system; and we trust that your lordships' zealous and enlightened attention will continue to be directed to the evils which have, up to this period, found their best exponent in the person of an English Protestant Clergyman, the Rev. and Hon. Sydney Godolphin Osborne. But to return to our sad detail: we find that since the publication of the census in March, 1851, emigration alone, not to speak of the ravages of misery and disease, has diminished our Catholic people at the rate of upwards of a thousand a day, and the enemies of our nation, race, and Church, already proclaim in triumph that after the surface of our island shall have been converted into pasturage to a large extent and covered with flocks and herds, the inhabitants, whatever their numbers may be, shall be three-fourths composed of Englishmen and Scotchmen. And how can our Church and our nation, fail to verge to all but total extinction when all are flying—to whom it is possible to fly—from their native land as from a city of pestilence?

"Such is the true and faithful exposé of our calamities and disasters—calamities and disasters that have no parallel under the sun; and we beg to submit to your lordships that for these disasters remedies quick, decisive, and effectual, of whose efficacy, indeed, no man in his senses can doubt, are to a great extent in the hands, not of the unhappy sufferers themselves; but of a body of men whom those sufferers regard with the deepest veneration and confidence; and in whom, in this the crisis of their dreadful agony, their trust cannot be in vain. The electoral franchise, now so widely shared by the people, would, if properly wielded, afford to the afflicted people of this country an undoubted remedy for the evils of their condition. But, accustomed for nearly a quarter of a century to wield that weapon under the guidance of their religious teachers, and not otherwise, they are in most cases at present quite incapable, by themselves, of making the necessary efforts or entering into that combined exertion which could alone secure success.

The clergy taught them to use this weapon; and at the instigation of that clergy they broke all the feudal relations which formed a bond between them and those landlords on whom they were so miserably dependent. The objects for which they broke them, at the bidding of the clergy, were of a speculative nature, and in no instance of any practical benefit to the great bulk of those so acting; and now when they are suffering all the penalties of breaking with the landlords, their former guides abandon them—when a sure and efficacious remedy could unquestionably be found, if the efforts made for objects of remote benefit were renewed on behalf of objects of solid advantage, coming home to the hearth and home, and the life and well-being of every Catholic cultivator in Ireland. But, with the exception of the small section who constitute the Tenant League, the great majority of the Catholic clergy of Ireland have refrained hitherto from assisting in the rescue and preservation of their attached, their generous, and their faithful people. Their inaction, if we could suppose it to arise from apathy, would be perfectly inexplicable. If it be aversion to politics, it would appear to us that it comes much too late. It is no more a political movement to endeavour to procure a public act of parliament to save our people from death, banishment, and workhouse prisons, than it would be to procure a private act to erect a lighthouse, and supply life-buoys and life-boats on some coast that experience proved to have been fatal to thousands. Our nation, our Church (in Ireland) is on the point of extinction, and we entreat your lordships to encourage your clergy in the preservation of the remnant of our people.

“My lords, we of the League are no body of conspirators, revolutionists, or anarchists—we would not deprive landlords, or any other human being, of one particle of their just rights—we are composed of clergymen and of respectable Catholic laymen, aided by some most respectable ministers and laymen of the Presbyterian communion. We entreat your countenance and aid. It is said that some venerable members of your order are opposed to our objects—that they are giving their countenance and support to parliamentary candidates who are resolved on upholding the iniquitous system of unrestrained landlord power. We submit that such candidates are unworthy of the confidence of the Catholic people. Though they may not be themselves the destroyers of the people, they are the abettors of those who destroy them: atqui nolin quemquam occidere posse volunt. We are at a crisis when the safety of the people in a great measure depends on the prelacy and priesthood of Ireland. England is critically situated with respect to the mighty nation of France and its crafty ruler. The Exodus of the universal people of Ireland has begun to create alarm. No one can reasonably doubt but that if sixty or even forty members sincerely pledged to Tenant-Right were returned, the success of that measure would be certain. To this consummation the aid of the prelacy and clergy is indispensable. We, then, respectfully call on them to arrest the extinction of a Church and a nation. We of the League have done all in our power, but can hardly hope for ultimate success unless we shall be enabled to procure a much larger amount of the sympathy and support of the Catholic Priesthood than we have hitherto been able to obtain. We cannot doubt but that they feel the same earnest and anxious desire that we do to arrest the unexampled evils that have fallen upon their unhappy people, and we entreat, most respectfully and earnestly, your lordships to exert your paternal influence in inducing your venerated clergy to shake off the apathy which we know can arise only from despair, and to arouse themselves from that torpor which the habitual spectacle of frightful suffering spread over a vast field, and become in a manner the normal state of our people, could hardly fail to beget in the minds of the most humane. We have, we trust, shown to your lordships that for this despair there is no foundation, if general and combined exertions would but be made, and that the remedy for our evils, frightful and wide-spread as they are, is still within our grasp. May God in His mercy inspire the revered priesthood of Ireland to put forth that mighty moral strength, which they derive no less from their public and private virtues than from their sacred character, for in their hands is the doom of life or death for the faithful millions of Catholic Ireland.

“PATT LALOR, Chairman.”

ADDRESS TO HIS GRACE THE ARCHBISHOP OF TUAM.

March 20, 1852.

By the Lord Bishop of Elphin, on the part of the clergy and laity of Sligo, on occasion of his Grace's visit to that town, to preach in aid of the poor schools attached to the Ursuline Convent.

"To the Most Rev. Dr. Machale, Lord Archbishop of Tuam.

"MAY IT PLEASE YOUR GRACE—We beg respectfully to express to your Grace the unfeigned pleasure and sincere gratification which your auspicious and most welcome visit to Sligo affords us, and those upon whose behalf we address you. We hail it as a happy omen that you have come amongst us upon a day which must be ever dear to all true-hearted Irishmen—the anniversary of our national saint. The Christian object which has brought you here will, we are sure, create the most pleasing emotions in your breast. You come to advocate the cause of the uninstructed children of the poor. In devoting your brilliant eloquence to promote unmixed and uncontaminated Catholic education amongst a destitute class, you strengthen the cause of our holy religion. Your Grace is perfectly aware that the human mind is most flexible, and prone to receive life-lasting impressions in its early state. It is then as wax to receive, and as steel to retain. The children of the humble poor, who shall have the good fortune of being placed under the religious guidance of the pious sisterhood of the ladies of the Convent of St. Joseph's, Sligo, shall lay up a priceless store of knowledge, which shall enable them in after days to resist the tempter, if he should endeavour to undermine the true faith so early planted within them.

"Your Grace has been, during your distinguished career, the fearless advocate of all things tending to the advancement and spiritual supremacy of our Church. We, therefore, look up to you with veneration—all Catholics look up to you—as the faithful defender of our creed. Well, indeed, have you been called the closest observer of human character and the best judge of human worth of modern times, as 'The Lion of the Fold.'

"Your Grace has also other demands upon our affection. While as an illustrious prelate of our Church you hold the proudest and most exalted of positions, we cannot forget that, as a patriot, you stand pre-eminent, and an admiring and venerating posterity shall remember you as one of Ireland's truest and most gifted sons."

His Grace returned a brilliant and suitable answer.

RELIGIOUS EQUALITY COMMITTEE.

The formation, in Ireland, of a body which has for its specific object the removal of the religious inequalities which Irish Roman Catholics have so long endured, naturally meets a place in an annual Catholic Register. In the documents which emanated from the preparatory Committees, presided over by G. H. Moore, Esq., M. P., our Catholic readers have seen the reasons which led to the establishment of the Religious Equality Committee. It was not that these reasons had not for a long series of years engrossed the Catholic mind of the country, but that a succession of unexpected national calamities had placed the great question in temporary abeyance.

The aggressive attitude assumed within the last two years, by English parties, and the well-known hostility of a Tory government had left no alternative to Irish Catholics, but the resumption of the agitation so happily and so successfully initiated by O'Connell.

The great and prominent grievance of an Anti-Irish, Anti-Catholic state church establishment, deriving wealth from the pockets of poverty, insulting its unwilling and protesting benefactors, was one which the Irish Catholic mind and Irish liberal and Protestant feeling could not permit to lie dormant. The agitation of the great question of Religious Equality has been happily resumed at a time when, though enemies are rampant with bigotry and active in the propagation of falsehood and calumny, friends are not wanting in parliament to obstruct the obstructors, and outside to vindicate those great principles of civil and religious liberty to which so many statesmen, orators, and patriots, have devoted their labours and their lives.

The body now intrusted with the guardianship of the religious liberties of Catholic Ireland, was inaugurated on the 28th October, 1852, at an important and influential conference held in the Rotundo Dublin. Nearly thirty members of parliament, and over two hundred gentlemen from various parts of the country were present to enter their indignant protest against the further maintenance of an establishment which has so long been upheld as an insult to Catholicity, and a dishonor to common Christianity.

In the marked unanimity which pervaded the conference during a lengthened sitting, and the outspoken expression of the public mind through its legitimate representatives, there is evidence that the doom of an alien state church is sealed, and that Catholic Ireland will no longer tolerate those galling and oppressive inequalities which, beginning with the throne extend to the pettiest office under the state.

For the Catholic clergy in particular, as the exponents of the feelings of their flocks, this movement has a peculiar interest. With them it will mainly rest to aid the committee in the arduous struggle which has commenced. With their co-operation, and by the manifestation, on the part of the people, of those reiterated feelings of disgust and abhorrence against an unjust and unholy monopoly so long smothered, we may safely predict the speedy downfall of religious ascendancy in Ireland.

From a Circular, addressed "To the Country," by the Religious Equality Committee, we extract the following enumeration of grievances:

1. The Irish Church Establishment oppression, including its revenues and their future appropriation.
2. The penalties and prohibitions imposed by law upon Catholic ecclesiastics.
3. The laws which disqualify Catholic and Dissenting subjects from holding certain offices.
4. The practical oppressions which, though not directly sanctioned by law, are connived at by the executive, and cannot be redressed by an appeal to the existing laws.

Substance of replies received from "the Country" to the above-mentioned Circular:

"1st. That the public opinion of this country demands for all classes and denominations of Irishmen complete religious equality in the eye of the law; and will not willingly tolerate in any religious denomination, civil power, pre-eminence, or ascendancy over any other.

"2nd. That the settlement of the church question on the basis of perfect equality is essential to the establishment of that entire equality, civil and religious, which alone can or ought to produce content.

"3rd. That the present Irish Church establishment is at once a badge of conquest and a legalized robbery of the Catholic population, which—while it insults and wrongs the people—convulses society, and impresses the Catholic people with a belief that the legislature which sanctions its continuance is hostile to the peace and prosperity of this kingdom.

"4th. That all laws which impose penalties on the ecclesiastics of any church, or prohibit the performance of spiritual functions, or the exercise of ecclesiastical rights, order, or jurisdiction, are inconsistent with the constitution of these realms, or require peculiar oaths or tests from the members of any religious denomination—practically declare the parties affected thereby to be inferior in the eye of the law to their fellow-subjects, and ought to be at once absolutely and unconditionally repealed.

"5th. That religious equality is inconsistent with the exclusion from public offices of any subject of the crown because of his religious faith, and that all such exclusions should be at once abolished.

"6th. That we consider it the special duty of the Irish Liberal members of parliament to urge upon the attention of the legislature at all convenient times the grievances endured by the poor and friendless Catholics in all parts of this empire, so far as these grievances depend upon bad laws or a bad administration of them; and that in order to enable the members of parliament efficiently to discharge their duty in these matters we respectfully request of the Catholic bishops and clergy at home, in Great Britain, and in the colonies to supply, at their earliest convenience, the statistical and other information, without which it will be impossible to have the claims of these unprotected classes adequately laid before parliament."

THE PALLIUM.

To the Publisher of the CATHOLIC REGISTRY.

Sir—I beg to solicit a few pages in your excellent publication for the following essay on the Pallium; so much has been written on this subject in publications which merely serve the purposes of the hour, that I will deem your insertion of the enclosed as a favour,

I am, Sir, your very faithful humble servant,

JOHN HANBURY.

THE PALLIUM.

Nihil antiquius veste illa Sacerdotali Præsulis nostri, quæ illi veste de veteri Testamento successit Byssos auroque contextæ, quæ in signum plenissimæ potestatis primus Linus amictus est, cui ad typum dedit, et nomen, ut a veteribus accepimus scriptoribus, quam appellavit et Pallium.—Eusebius, Cæsariensis, in Serm. de Epiphania.

Our Most Holy Father the Pope has recently conferred on the illustrious Paul, Archbishop of Dublin and Delegate Apostolic of the Holy See, the Pallium. The Pallium is a robe of the highest power and dignity as we learn by the above extract from Eusebius, Bishop of Cesarea in Palestine, called "the Father of Ecclesiastical History," who lived about 1550 years ago.

The Pallium was first introduced and worn by Pope St. Linus, who succeeded second to St. Peter, Prince of the Apostles, A.D. 67, nearly 1800 years since, as we find by the following extract from a Homily of St. Maximus, Patriarch of Jerusalem, who appeared with distinction at the councils of Nice, Sardis, and Tyre, more than 1500 years since.

"In lege gratiæ antiquum est," says the holy prelate, "illud nostrum Ephodh (id est Pallium) quod nostri Patriarchæ arbitrantur a Lino, post Petrum II Romano Pontifice institutum, et in singulare potestatis privilegium nostris Deo plenis præsulibus datum."—Maxim. Episcop. in Homil de veste Sacerdot.

By the above will appear the antiquity of the Pallium, and the power, and dignity attached to it; it bears resemblance in some measure—in miniature at least—to the Ephod, a robe worn by the Jewish high priests, and by persons of inferior grade among the ancient doctors of the law. The Christian Pallium is worn only by the Sovereign Pontiff, Patriarchs, and Archbishops, but prelates called suffragan are sometimes honoured with this Robe; by suffragan I understand those prelates subject to a Metropolitan, as, for example, the Bishop of Ossory is subject to the chief or Archbishop of Dublin, the Bishop of Elphin, to the Archbishop of Tuam, &c.

The word Ephod, written sometimes Ephodh, is Hebrew, of which the Pallium is but another or more dignified form.

The heathens, borrowing nearly all that was noble from believers in the only true God, seem to have taken, inter alia, an idea of their robes of dignity from the Jewish doctors.

To the scholar are well known the toga, stola, peplum, palla, trabea, sagum, palludimentum, clamys, and the Pallium. Cicero derives two adjectives from the substantive Pallium in these sentences:—"Græculus judex, modo *Palliatu*s modo togatus"—"Itaque objicias, licet quam voles sæpe *Palliatu*m fuisse."

The Pallium was a long robe or cloak used among the Greeks, and worn particularly by philosophers, for whom the ancients entertained respect nearly amounting to reverence.

The reader will observe that I have spoken of the Clamys which is but another word for Pallium. Cicero, again alluding to the subject, tells us that wisdom has often been found under a mean or sordid Pallium, "Sæpe sub sordido Pallio sapiëntia." Likely enough; but upon one occasion Infinite Wisdom has been found under this robe, as will appear by the 27th chapter of St. Matthew, v. 28, 31. (I quote the vulgate.)

"Et exeuntes eum, chlamidem coccineam circumdederunt ei,
Et postquam illuserunt ei, exuerunt eum chlamide, et induerunt
Eum vestimentis ejus et duxerunt eum ut crucifigerent."

Persons in disgrace among the ancients were clothed in the Pallium sordidum. To add mockery and insult to all that our divine Redeemer suffered for us, the cruel Jews clothed him in an old garment which St. Mark calls the purple "purpura," and according to what I have read, there are interwoven in the Pallium of our Church, four black or purple crosses. "Quatuor crucibus nigris, aut purpureis intexta," and surely this is not without its signification. It appears that the Pallium, the origin and import of which are from its antiquity, a little obscure, has reference to the purple robe of our Lord, and if so, what conclusion may be deduced from the fact?—This, that as the Eternal gave his adorable Son a name which is above all names, the very instruments of the opprobrium and humiliation which he suffered, should be made commemorative as well as a means of his exaltation and greater glory, and that the Princes of his Church, to the wreck of expiring time, should bear this robe; and that mankind generally should, as they do, look upon the possession of it, inter alia, as one of the most sublime honors with which man can be invested on this earth. Comparisons as to stars, garters, and such fanciful baubles were unworthy this subject.

The power of God is, like Himself, infinite—he promised to make "the enemies" of his divine Son his "footstool;" and if we only reflect upon the history of the baths, the theatres, and amphitheatres of ancient Rome, upon which "ruin greenly dwells" or which are now the sites of magnificent churches, one of them, St. Peter's, so majestic as to have caused an eminent architect on beholding it to fall down and adore the great God who had made him the fellow creature of the man who had conceived even the idea of a temple so magnificent; if we reflect on those things, we see pro tanto a manifestation of the power of the Almighty, and the nothingness of earthly power when arrayed against the will of his unspeakable majesty:

For the might of the Gentile uns mote by the sword
Hath melted like snow in the glance of the Lord.

From the pen of the noble and gifted child of nature who supplies me with this couplet, I quote a passage descriptive of St. Peter's, which I think no Catholic can read without emotion:

"Thou seest not all; but piecemeal thou must break
To separate contemplation the great whole;
And as the ocean many bays will make
That ask the eye—so here can dwell the soul
To more immediate objects and control
Thy thoughts, until thy mind hath got by heart
Its eloquent proportions and unroll
In mighty graduations, part by part,
The grandeur which upon thee did not dart,
Power, glory, strength, and beauty, all are aisled
In this eternal ark of worship undefiled!"

The reader will pardon this digression. Without instituting comparison, what is allowed to others, I respectfully claim for myself, and before I proceed further let it not be supposed that I set up my poor opinion against what the Church tacitly or openly expresses on the subject of the Pallium. No, no; I submit with reverence to all and every of her commands and tenets "not only for wrath but for conscience sake," believing with the illustrious prior of Sombreval, that "il n'y a point de salut ailleurs et celui qui n'entre point dans l'arche perira infailliblement dans le deluge," and ardently desiring for the sake of my Divine Redeemer, that all may be of the one fold, and under the dominion of the one shepherd; I have also to pray excuse for referring to profane writers, and my apology will be the more acceptable when I remind the reader that holy David made even the lower animals of creation ancillary to the promotion of the greater glory of God, who has drawn all from possibility into existence. I believe St. Paul quotes Plato, and history tells us more than I will refer to here, of St. Jerome's passion for the Orations of Cicero.

The solemnities observed in the fabrication and consecration of the Christian Pallium are curious; they are simple even to sublimity. I will condense from one of the most learned doctors of the Church (a doctor held as the highest authority in the case of the venerated and erudite Newman, before Campbell) many particulars which will interest the reader:

“Cura conficiendorum et conservandorum Palliorum ad subdiaconos apostolicos pertinet, qui ex lana munda et alba illa hoc pacto conficiunt—Sanctimoniales monasterii Sanctæ Agnetis, vel Religiosi, qui sunt in illa Ecclesia, offerunt quotannis agnos duos albos super altare illius Ecclesiæ in die Festivitatis Sanctæ Agnetis dum in Missa solemnī cantatur AGNUS DEI, qui agni recipiuntur duobus canonicis Ecclesiæ Lateranensis, et ab eis postea consignantur Subdiaconis Apostolicis, qui agnos ipsos in pascua mittunt, quoad veniat tempus opportunum ipsos tondendi—tempore opportuno advento ex his agnis lana tondetur . . . . . et reducitur in filum, ex quo Pallia contextuntur . . . . . Pallia per subdiaconos portantur ad Basilicam Principis apostolorum, et per Canonicos Basilicæ ponuntur super corpora Petri et Pauli apostolorum sub Altare Majore, ubi factis ex more vigiliis, illa per noctem dimittunt—Deinde restituunt Subdiaconis, qui in loco honesto ea conservant.”

“The care of the making and preservation of the Pallium, which is thus formed of pure white wool, devolves upon the sub-Deacons Apostolic. The Sanctimoniales of the Monastery of Saint Agnes, and the religious of her Church offer annually two white lambs upon the altar during Solemn Mass, while ‘Agnus Dei’ is chanted. Those lambs are received by two Canons of the Church of Lateran, and by them subsequently consigned to the Deacons Apostolic, who put them out to pasture until a suitable time for sheering; at which time the wool is shorn off . . . . . and converted into yarn from which is formed the Pallium . . . . . The Pallia (Anglice, Palliums) are carried by sub-deacons to the Basilica of the Prince of the Apostles, and by the canons of the Basilica placed upon the tombs (corpora) of the [Holy] Apostles Peter and Paul under the Great Altar; where, according to custom, watches are kept. They are placed there during the night and afterwards restored to the sub-deacons, who in a suitable place preserve them.”

In the original Latin are found the words Agnus Dei, applied to the Son of God. Agnes, the name of one of his most glorious martyred virgins and servants, and Agni the two innocent lambs blessed. The Son of God is emphatically called the Lamb, and we are reminded of those “who follow the Lamb wherever He goes;” by “Agnes,” a Greek word signifying chaste, so beautifully applicable to Saint Agnes, “Agni,” the ordinary irrational lambs are emblematic of purity and innocence. What a combination of words for reflection, and though we have not here an anagram, properly so called, we are reminded of the beautiful expressions of Pope St. Gregory the Great, on beholding the Saxon children in the slave market at Rome, "they would not be Angles but angels had they been Christians."* The paternal heart of Gregory would have gathered, as a hen gathers her chickens under her wing, the Saxons buried in idolatry, as would the glorious Pontiff who now fills the chair of Gregory, gather the wanderers from his fold and his apostolic jurisdiction. The Pallium is an emblem of this jurisdiction and power—the power of the Eternal Father given to the co-eternal Son and by the Son delegated to Peter who speaks through Pius—"Blessed be God who gave such power to men—I not only bless but adore you, my God, before men and angels, for this and all your mercies to me, and to all those of the One Body and One Fold, to which you have graciously called me the last of all, in preference to so many millions, who, alas! have not the precious gift of faith, without which it is impossible to please you, my God!"

Every Metropolitan, within three months after his elevation, asks the Pallium, either personally or by a Procurator. If the prelate attends in person, kneeling on the right of the altar, he asks the sacred robe in these words:

"Ego [N.] electus Ecclesiæ [N.] instantanter instantius et instantissime, peto mihi tradi et assignari Pallium de copore Beati Petri sumptum, in quo est plenitudo Pontificalis Officii."

"I, [N.] elect of the church of [N.], earnestly, more earnestly, most earnestly, beg to be delivered and assigned to me the Pallium taken from the body of the blessed Peter, in which [Pallium] is the plenitude of the Pontifical Office." I give a literal translation which, though inelegant, is important. The first Lord Deacon [Dominus Primus Diaconorum] receiving the Pallium from the altar, places it upon the shoulders of the prelate kneeling, and pronounces the following words:

"Ad honorem Omnipotentis Dei et Beatæ Mariæ semper Virginis, atque B.B. Apostolorum Petri et Pauli, nec non Ecclesiæ N. tibi commissæ, tradimus tibi Pallium de corpore B. Petri sumptum, in quo est plenitudo Pontificalis Officii, cum patriarchalis, vel archiepiscopalis nominis appellatione, ut utaris eo infra Ecclesiam tuam certis diebus, qui exprimuntur in privilegiis ab Apostolica Sede concessis. In nomine Patris, et Filii, et Spiritus Sancti. Amen."

TRANSLATION.

"In honor of Almighty God, and of the Blessed Mary ever Virgin, and of the blessed Apostles, Peter and Paul, and of the Church of N. committed to thee, we deliver to thee the Pallium taken from the body of the blessed Peter, in which [Pallium] is the plenitude of the Pontifical Office with the title of Patriarchal or Archiepiscopal dignity, that thou mayest use it within thy church on certain days which are expressed in the privileges granted by the Apostolic See. In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen."

The Pallium cannot be worn by its possessor out of his province. I do not say that this restriction applies to his Grace the Archbishop of Dublin, because his power, as delegate of the Holy See, is superior to that of any other prelate in Ireland. As to the days on which the sacred robe may be worn (certis diebus . . . concessis) I find them as follow:

* "Non Angli sed angeli forent si essent Christiani."

“Dies autem, quibus ipsi Pallio uti possunt, generaliter enumerantur. Nativitas Domini, Festivitas Sancti Joannis, et S. Stephani, Circumcisio Domini, Ephiphania, Dominica Palmarum, Cæna Domini, Sabbathum sanctum, Tres dies Resurrectionis, Ascensio Domini, Tres dies Pentecostes, Festivitas Sancti Joannis Baptistæ, et omnium Apostolorum, Quatuor Festivitates Beatæ Mariæ Virginis, Sancti Michaelis, et omnium Sanctorum, Dies Dedicationis Ecclesiarum, Consecrationis Episcoporum, Ordinationis Clericorum, et dies Anniversarius ipsius Palliati, atque Festivitates principales suæ Ecclesiæ Cathedralis.” I need not translate the above, it being nearly as plain as English.

There seems a doubt that the Pallium can be worn at Masses for the souls of the faithful departed.

There is an opinion prevalent, from a paragraph which has appeared in some of the public papers, that the Pallium was worn by some of the early Christian emperors. It appears to me that this opinion is unfounded; for none presume to wear robes which belong solely to the Princes of the Church of God. No doubt there may have been some mark of distinction granted by the early successors of Peter, to such men as the emperors Constantine and Theodosius, &c., but I find no authority for the opinion of the Pallium having been ever worn by any layman, however exalted.

The history of the dispute between St. Ambrose, the great Archbishop of Milan, and the Emperor Theodosius in the fourth century, for ever establishes the distinction between priests and even the wearers of diadems. This history, perhaps, is the most instructive on this subject in the annals of the Church. An emperor surrounded by his imperial guard, acknowledging his sin and humbly prostrating himself before a venerable old man in mitre and crosier, has been a theme for the eulogy of historians and a subject for the pencil of the most eminent artists, nor have the poets forgotten to wed it to immortal verse of which the following is an extract:

“Theodose est en pleurs, Ambroise en est la cause
J'admire également Ambroise et Theodose.”

If the prelate asks the Pallium by procurator, the following is the form, and if anything were required to prove the importance of this robe, and the great reverence and caution observed with respect to it, the language used, and the obligation contracted by the solemn oath of the individual to whom it is confided for transmission, would be sufficient:

“Ego [N.] procurator, et procuratorio nomine, et pro parte Rev. in Christo Patris et Domini, Domini [N.] instantanter, instantius, et instantissime, peto mihi tradi, et assignari Pallium de corpore Beati Petri sumptum, in quo est plenitudo Pontificalis Officii, et promitto illud reverenter portare eidem Rev. Patri Domini [N.] nec pernocabo in aliquo loco, nisi una nocte tantum, nisi præpeditus fuero legitime, et tunc in Cathedrali ipsius et si non fuerit Cathedralis, in Collegiata, et si non fuerit Collegiata, in Parochiali Ecclesia remittam, et honorificè reponam, sic me Deus adjuvet et hæc Sancta Dei Evangelia.”

TRANSLATION.

"I [N.] Procurator and in the procuratorial name, and on the part of the Most Rev. Father and Lord in Christ, the Lord, [N.] earnestly, more earnestly, most earnestly pray to be granted and assigned to me the Pallium taken from the body of the blessed Peter, in which [Pallium] is the plenitude of the Pontifical Office, and I promise to bear it reverently to the same Most Rev. Father and Lord [N.], nor shall I sojourn more than one night in any place, unless lawfully detained, and in that case, I shall reverently place it in a cathedral, and if not in a cathedral in a collegiate, and if not in a collegiate in a parochial church, so help me God, and by the Holy Gospels of God."

The Cardinal Deacon, then, receiving the Pallium from the altar, places it upon the shoulders of the procurator, saying:

"Ad honorem Omnipotentis Dei, et Beatorum Apostolorum Petri et Pauli, et Domini nostri Papæ et Sanctæ Romanæ Ecclesiæ, assigno tibi Pallium de Corpore Beati Petri sumptum in quo est plenitudo Officii cum Archi-Episcop. nominis appellatione, nomine, et pro parte Rev. in Christo Patris D.D. nostri [N.] et Ecclesiæ [N.] ad quam electus est, ut eo utatur infra Ecclesiam suam certis diebus, qui exprimuntur in privilegiis ab Apostol. Sede concessis. In nom. Patr., et Filii, et Spiritus Sancti," &c.

"In honour of Almighty God, and of the blessed Apostles Peter and Paul, and of our Lord the Pope, and of the Holy Roman Church, I assign to thee the Pallium taken from the body of the blessed Peter in which [Pallium] is the plenitude of the office with the name and title of patriarch and archbishop, in the name and on the part of the Most Reverend Father and Lord in Christ (the Lord N. and of the Church of N.) to which he has been elected, that he may use it within his Church on certain days, which are expressed in the privileges granted by the Apostolic See, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen."*

I am not learned enough to say whether the form and oath referred to are or are not obsolete; I have reason to believe the contrary, but this I know, that both are of great antiquity, and have been usual down to about the year 1740.

There are other very important passages on the subject of the Pallium which I might lay before the reader: in my judgment none but ecclesiastics are concerned in them.

I will have occasion to allude to St. Malachy, archbishop of Armagh; his sainted name brings to my recollection circumstances intimately connected with the Pallium. He made a voyage to Rome in connexion with the procurement of this sacred robe. On that occasion Pope Innocent II. conferred on him the highest honour ever paid an Irishman—that of placing on his head the tiara of the sovereign Pontiff, when surrounded by prelates from all parts of the earth. The illustrious Malachy, on a second voyage, visited Clairval, and had the happiness of dying in the arms of his beloved friend, the glorious St. Bernard, called "the last of the Fathers," and "a pillar of the Church in the twelfth century." To Malachy is attributed a prophetic history of the Popes to the end of time. There are doubts entertained of his being the author, but much might be said on that subject.

I may here observe that the Pallium cannot be transferred, and that it is buried with the prelate who is honoured with it.

His Grace the Archbishop of Dublin procured the Pallium by procurator, and in the month of October the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Pittsburg arrived from Rome in Dublin, bearing the Sacred Robe. I will give a condensed account of the ceremony of investiture.

INVESTITURE OF HIS GRACE THE MOST REVEREND PAUL, LORD ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN, WITH THE PALLIUM.

On Sunday, 25th of October, 1852, the ceremony of investiture of the above-named illustrious prelate with the Pallium took place, in the Cathedral Church of the Immaculate Conception, Marlborough-street, which was crowded by a congregation comprising a vast number of the Catholic clergy and citizens of all classes. The ceremonies commenced with a grand High Mass; the high-priest who officiated as celebrant was the Rev. J. O'Farrell; the Rev. Thomas Pope attended as deacon, and the Rev. Walter Murphy as sub-deacon. The Rev. Dr. Woodlock acted as master of the ceremonies.

The Archbishop entered the sanctuary, preceded by a great number of the clergy, in solemn procession; at the same time, the Right Rev. Dr. O'Connor, Lord Bishop of Pittsburg came forth, and his Lordship was conducted to a sedilium prepared for him.

At the conclusion of the High Mass, his Grace the Archbishop was conducted to the foot of the altar, where kneeling while the Lord Bishop of Pittsburg came forward, and Dr. Woodlock read the mandate from our Holy Father the Pope, conferring the Pallium: the solemn juramentum prescribed on these occasions was administered and subscribed by his Grace, after which the Lord Bishop of Pittsburg took the Pallium from the altar, where it had been laid, and placed it on the shoulders of the Archbishop of Dublin, when the Lord Bishop of Pittsburg said:

"In honour and glory of Almighty God, and of the ever Virgin Mary, and of the apostles Peter and Paul, and in veneration of our Holy Father Pius IX., and the Holy Catholic Church committed to thy care, we deliver to thee this Pallium, taken from the tomb of the blessed Peter, in which is the plenitude of a pontifical office, that you may use it within your Church, in the archdiocese granted to you, by the privilege of the Apostolic See, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

The Archbishop having returned to his throne, the distinguished Lord Bishop of Pittsburg preached a splendid sermon, from which I extract the following passage, which will be read with delight by the Irish in particular, and above all, by the people of Kildare, the native county of the Archbishop of Dublin.

After explaining the nature of the Pallium, in connexion with the primatial dignity, &c., his Lordship turned to our illustrious Archbishop, and said:

"It is my pleasing duty, in conferring this Pallium in the name of our Holy Father, to communicate to your Grace the most marked expression of his esteem for your person, and of his approbation of your administration. Amongst the many things which occupy his attention, he stated with pleasure that the administration of your Grace was one of those which afforded the most sincere consolation to his paternal heart. This was stated in the official document, which was just read. Give him, added the Holy Father, my blessing from my whole heart, my whole soul, and with my whole power. Tell him how sincerely I appreciate his piety, his zeal, his devotedness. It would have been gratifying, under other circumstances, to have stated the many proofs that had come under his (the Bishop's) observation, calculated to show the interest manifested by the Catholic world in the course of their venerated prelate. He had heard clergymen and laymen of various countries express the high admiration which his noble pastorals had elicited throughout the Catholic world. He had heard the American and the Greek, as well as the Frenchman and the Italian, express the enthusiasm which his name had created in all parts of the Catholic world. On the vast continent on which his own lot was cast, the children of Ireland had learned to lisp his name with joy—for even in the wild woods of America his name was as a household word, and was cherished by his countrymen with affection, with joy, and with pride. But all this must be lost sight of in view of the marked approbation of the successor of St. Peter, which he had been charged to communicate. This was a far more secure mark of the value in which his acts should be viewed by every member of the Church. The Holy Father, my Lord, commissioned me to say, in addition, that while he looked with peculiar interest to the Church of Ireland as a chief source of his consolation, he recommends to your Grace, and to the illustrious hierarchy of which you are so bright an ornament, that you would ever cherish that union and harmony which have hitherto been the bulwark of Catholicity in this realm, and without which you are sure to become a prey of your enemies. This was the advice of the Holy Father, it is unnecessary for us to seek any new specific to carry it into effect."

In conclusion, the Lord Archbishop bestowed on the congregation the pontifical benediction.

Thus terminated one of the most interesting ceremonies that has ever been witnessed in Ireland—amid all whose vicissitudes and sorrows,

"Bright o'er the flood of her tears and her blood" has stood the Church—"the Rainbow of hope," so beautifully compared by the prior of Sombrevil, quoting the Fathers to the ark on the waters of the deluge, whose violence tended only to elevate her more closely to heaven, the true country of her mission and of her future glory. The long suffering children of Ireland not less distinguished by "laurels in war" than when wreathing "the chaplet of palm round the altars of peace," have won for the country of their birth and affections the superlative title of the island of saints and doctors, "insula sanctorum et doctorum," all the persecutions of the Henries, Elizabeths, and others, only tended more closely to bind them to the faith of their fathers, that,

"faith of Eden birth

The steadiest, purest ever dwelt on earth."

To enumerate the long catalogue of prelates, priests, patriots, and heroes from Patrick, her first primate, to Paul who holds precisely the same powers, would occupy a volume.

Tuam has had her Flos Mundi, whose mitre has descended to the Lion of the Fold. Kildare, her O'Buge "the burning light and ornament of his country;" which burst forth in our own days with more than original lustre in the person of the illustrious "J. K. L.," the Irish Bossuet; Dublin, her Laurence, the mitred and beatified patriot of the darkest epoch of the destinies of his country. Armagh, between which and Dublin a contest for precedence whilom existed, seems united pro tem, in the person of our illustrious prelate the successor of Patrick, Malachy, Maolmurry and Lawrence; glorious names no doubt.

Among these illustrious names there has not been a truer patriot and prelate than Paul of Armagh and Dublin; in none have varied attainments and vast erudition been more conspicuous; for none has the Sovereign Pontiff expressed more warm and paternal sentiments; and above all under God, in none has devotion to the Most Holy and Immaculate Virgin Mother of God been more decided, ardent, and exemplary, than in Paul, Archbishop of Dublin.

If at a future period, his Grace put off the robes of a patriarch to assume those of higher dignity, which may heaven grant if for God's greater glory, the Archbishop will remember an incident from the words of a Sovereign Pontiff* placed in circumstances not less unforeseen than unsolicited,

"Sine desine Mariam, ne me desinat Maria" !

"Stop ! leave Mary to me, lest Mary may leave me."

* Innocent XI. of the royal family of Medici, prayed God to send a good successor to Peter—Innocent was from infancy devoted to the Blessed Virgin, and at the Papal election the lot fell upon himself, it is to be presumed in answer to his pious prayers; when stript of his prelatic robes to be invested with those of Sovereign Pontiff, a scapular was found near his person over the shirt, an assisting prelate was about to remove it when the holy Father exclaimed in the words above quoted in Latin,

Stop, leave Mary to me, lest Mary may leave me.

ROMAN ANNALS.

ENCYCLICAL LETTER OF OUR MOST HOLY FATHER POPE PIUS IX. (Nov. 1851.)

ORDERING PRAYERS AND ANNOUNCING A NEW JUBILEE.

To all the Patriarchs, Primates, Archbishops, and Bishops of the Catholic World.

VENERABLE BRETHREN—Health and apostolic benediction. Our heart rejoiced in the Lord, venerable brethren, and we rendered very great and humble acts of thanksgiving to the most clement and merciful Father, the God of all consolation, when your numerous testimonies came to inform us, in the midst of the incessant and painful solitudes with which the calamity of the times overwhelms us, of the very precious and abundant fruits which, by the inspiration of the divine grace, the flocks committed to your care had reaped from the favour of the Jubilee which we accorded to them. You informed us, in fact, that on that occasion the faithful of your dioceses eagerly hastened in great numbers to the churches with humbled spirit and contrite heart, there to hear the word of God—to purify themselves from the defilement of their soul in the sacrament of reconciliation—to approach the holy table; and to address, according to our intention, fervent prayers to Almighty God. From hence it resulted that a great number, by the aid of Divine grace, emerging from the mire of vice and the shades of error, have re-entered the paths of virtue and truth, and have begun to labour for their salvation. We have been therewith greatly consoled and rejoiced—we who are always so deeply concerned and pre-occupied with the salvation of all those committed to our care by Divine Providence, and we desire nothing with such ardour, we ask nothing else in the vows and prayers which night and day ascend from our humbled heart unto God, save that all people, all nations, and all families, may walk in the ways of the faith, may know the Lord, and daily love him more and more, may observe faithfully his holy law, and follow with constancy the way which leads unto life.

But if, on the one hand, venerable brethren, we must feel great joy at learning that the faithful of your dioceses have reaped abundantly the spiritual fruits of the graces of the Jubilee, on the other, it is for us no slight subject of sorrow to behold what a sad and lamentable spectacle is presented to our holy religion and civil society in these calamitous times. None among you, venerable brethren, is ignorant of the perfidious artifices, the monstrous doctrines, the conspiracies of every kind which the enemies of God and of the human race are setting at work to pervert all minds, to corrupt morals, to cause, if it were possible, religion to disappear from the face of the earth, to shatter all the bonds of civil society, and to destroy it to its very foundations. Hence the deplorable darkness which blinds so many minds, the vehement war which is waged against the whole Catholic religion and this apostolic chair; the implacable hatred which persecutes virtue and honesty; hence, the most shameful vices which usurp the name of virtue; the unbridled license of thinking, corrupting, doing everything, and daring everything; the absolute impatience of all restraint, all power, and all authority; the derision and contempt for the most sacred things, for the holiest laws, for the most excellent institutions; hence, above all, the deplorable corruption of thoughtless youth, the poisonous inundation of bad books, pamphlets, and journals, profusely circulated, and propagating everywhere the principles of evil; hence the deadly venom of indifferentism and incredulity, the seditious movements, the sacrilegious conspiracies, the mockery and outrage of all laws, human and divine. You are not ignorant either, venerable brethren, what anxiety, what uncertainty, what painful hesitation, what terror, fills and agitates all minds, particularly the minds of good men, who believe with reason that public and private interests have reason to fear every misfortune when men, wandering miserably from the laws of truth, justice, and religion, in order to give themselves up to the detestable allurements of unbridled passions, meditate every species of crime.

In the midst of so many dangers, who does not see that all our hopes ought to rest solely in God, our salvation; that to Him we ought continually to raise our fervent prayers, in order that His propitious bounty may shed over all nations the riches of His mercy, that He may illuminate every mind with the heavenly light of His grace; that He may bring back into the path of justice those who are wandering; that He may vouchsafe to turn towards Him the rebellious wills of His enemies, to infuse into every heart the love and fear of His holy name, and inspire them to think always, and to do always, what is right, what is true, what is pure, what is holy; and since God is full of sweetness, mildness, and mercy—since He is bounteous towards those who call upon Him—since He regards the prayer of the humble, and loves especially to manifest His power by clemency and forgiveness, let us approach, venerable brethren, the throne of Grace with confidence, in order to obtain mercy and find assistance in the time of need.

For “he who asks receives, he who seeks finds, and to him who knocks it is opened.” Let us, in the first place, render immortal thanksgiving to the God of goodness; in joy let our lips praise His holy name, since in many nations of the Catholic world, He deigns to work the wonders of His mercy.

Let us come, then, with one mind animated with the sincerity of the same faith, with the firmness of the same hope, with the ardour of the same charity, let us not cease a single moment to pray and supplicate God, humbly and earnestly, that He may rescue His holy Church from every calamity; that every day it may increase, dilate, and be exalted amongst all people in every region of the earth; that thus it may purify the world from error, conduct men with tenderness and generosity to the knowledge of truth and to the way of salvation; that God being propitiated, may "turn away the scourge of His anger, which we have deserved for our sins," may assuage this stormy ocean and restore tranquillity, may give to all that peace so much desired, may save His people, and blessing His inheritance, may direct and conduct us to our Heavenly country.

And that God may be made more accessible, and give ear to our prayers, and hear our petitions, let us raise our hearts and hands to His most holy Mother, the Immaculate Virgin Mary. We could not find protection more powerful or more effectual with God. She is to us the most tender of mothers, our firmest reliance, and the very spring of our hopes, since she asks nothing which she does not obtain, and her prayer is never refused. Let us also implore, especially, the intercession of the Prince of Apostles, to whom Jesus Christ himself has given the keys of the kingdom of Heaven, whom He has established as the foundation-stone of his Church, against which the gates of Hell will never be able to prevail. Let us then pray to Paul, the companion of his apostleship. Let us pray to the patron of each city and country, and to all the blessed, that our most merciful Lord may shed upon us in abundance and munificence the gifts of His bounty.

Moreover, venerable brethren, while we ordain here public prayers in our holy city, we invite you by these letters that you unite yourselves with the people committed to your care with us in a community of petitions. We invoke with all our zeal your fervent devotion and your piety, in order that in your respective dioceses you may prescribe also public prayers, with the object of imploring the Divine mercy.

And in order that the faithful may enter with greater ardour and earnestness on the prayers which you shall appoint, we have resolved to open anew the celestial treasures of the Church under the form of a Jubilee, as will be clearly indicated to you by other letters which accompany these.

We entertain this firm hope, venerable brethren, that there are angels of peace, who, holding in their hands censers of gold, will offer on the golden altar our humble prayers, and those of the whole Church, in order that the Lord himself, receiving them favourably, and hearing our petitions, yours, and those of the faithful, will dissipate all the darkness of error, avert the menacing tempest of so many misfortunes, stretching out a succouring hand to Christian and civil society, and grant that all may have the same faith in their hearts, the same piety in their works, the same love for religion, virtue, and justice, the same zeal for peace, the same attachment to the bonds of charity, and that thus throughout the entire world the reign of his only Son, our Lord Jesus Christ may be every day more and more augmented, strengthened, and exalted.

Finally, as an anticipatory pledge of every celestial gift, and as testimony of our ardent love for you, receive our apostolic benediction, which, from the bottom of our heart, we give to you with love, venerable brethren, to all the clergy, and to all the faithful confided to your care.

Given at Rome, at St. Peter's, the twenty-first day of November, 1851, and of our Pontificate the sixth.

PIUS IX., POPE.

17. The Holy Father wrote to the late archbishop, Dr. Murray, in a "familiar epistle:" "As regards the Queen's Colleges, about which you speak to us in your letter before-mentioned, be sure that it has been extremely pleasing to us to know that you, venerable brother, after the decrees put forth by this Apostolic See, on an affair of so much moment, had, with the greatest readiness, declared that you obeyed those decrees. And we are persuaded that not only will you anxiously carry the decrees themselves into execution, but that, with all your pains, energy, and zeal, you will take care that those bishops, whose letter of the 11th September of last year, subscribed also by yourself, has reached us, will pay to those decrees the homage which is their due, and with all alacrity will sedulously fulfil what they prescribe; which decrees we have always had most deeply at heart, and we vehemently desire and will that they be observed most studiously and most religiously by all, seeing that their purport is the defence of the Catholic faith, than which, indeed, nothing can or ought to be more dear to us."

DEC. 24. Christmas-eve celebrated with religious observances in the Eternal City, and on this occasion with more than usual splendour and eclat. The Basilica of Santa Maria Maggiore enjoys the ancient and unique privilege of having mass celebrated there one hour before midnight on Christmas-eve, when a portion of the manger in which our Blessed Lord was cradled is exposed for public veneration. The great Pope Benedict XIV. established, in a very learned and convincing dissertation, the authenticity of this most precious and sacred relic. His Holiness Pius IX., attended by the cardinals, the bishops assistant, and the whole Roman court, presided at the sacred ceremonies in St. Mary Major's, and it would be impossible for those who have not had the happiness of being present, to form an adequate conception of the magnificence displayed, and of the extraordinary interest excited on the occasion. All the distinguished visitors in Rome were present. The matins chanted in St. Peter's at three o'clock after midnight, also excited much interest; and the ceremonies in the same church on Christmas day, when his Holiness presided, were conducted with the usual surpassing splendour. The Quarant' ore at midnight in the French church of St. Louis, and the midnight communion in the other French church of Trinita de Monte—both observances being held by ancient and special privilege—were attended by crowds of people. The number of communicants were more numerous than for many years; and it was a most gratifying circumstance to see among them a number of the French soldiery.

JAN. 8, 1852.—Grand "Te Deum" in the church of St. Louis, on the election of the French President.

11. The public declamations and examination commenced at the Propaganda. This really grand institution is at present educating ninety-eight young men, natives of every country in the world, as missionaries, who at the completion of their studies will proceed to every part of the globe, to propagate the Catholic faith. Fourteen of the younger pupils represented the confusion of tongues at the Tower of Babel. After this, declamations were held in seventeen Asiatic languages, by natives of the different countries. Then verses were repeated, and subjects discussed in twenty-five European tongues, including the Celtic, Gaelic, Irish, and English languages. A young Irishman (Mr. Hugh M'Manus) very ably repeated a poem on the destiny of England, in allusion to the nomination of Catholic bishops. Natives of Africa then declaimed in seven African languages. Three cardinals were present. This institution yearly sends forth its missionaries to every part of the globe, and adopts children of every country to fill up their places.

FEB. 21. The Papal Chapel for the distribution of the ashes was held in the Sistine, on Ash-Wednesday. It is the office of the Grand Penitentiary to sprinkle the ashes on the head of the Holy Father, but this year that personage (Cardinal Castracane) was himself exposed, dust and ashes, in a chapelle ardente, awaiting the last honours of the Church for his mortal remains. Cardinal Altieri supplied the place of the Grand Penitentiary, and performed the holy ceremony, after which the Holy Father distributed the ashes to all the members of the Sacred College and Prelacy, to several members of the corps diplomatique, and to some of the faithful who had obtained this distinguished favour.

23. The obsequies of Cardinal Castracane celebrated in the church of St. Peter ad Vincula, his cardinalitial title. The Holy Father was present, and gave the last absolution.

29. The Pope, as usual, on the Thursday before Lent, assembled all the Parish Priests of the city, and the Priests appointed to preach the Stations in the principal churches of Rome. He addressed to them an admirable exhortation on the ministry they were about to undergo.

MARCH 10. The post of Confessor to the Pope, held by the late Cardinal Castracane, was conferred on Cardinal Ferretti. The Sacred College was threatened with a fresh loss; Cardinal Bernetti attacked with a malady, which, on account of his great age (seventy-three years), left little hope of his recovery. M. Constantini, one of the first physicians in Rome, had been sent for to Fermo, where the Cardinal was then residing. Cardinal Ferretti will be replaced in his former post of Secretary of Petitions by Cardinal Gazoli.

12. Announcement of a Jubilee, to extend from the 19th of April to the Sunday in albis; one of the conditions enjoined, together with the usual devotions, and the three Patriarchal Basilicas, being the giving alms for the Propagation of the Faith.

13. Pius IX. caused an estate and mansion, called the Vigna Pia, a short distance from Rome, to be fitted up as a place of asylum and education for poor boys without employment, and taken from the streets, where, in spite of the numerous beneficent institutions in Rome, so many are seen abandoned to a life of idleness and viciousness. Among many late improvements the Pontiff has ordered the enlargement of the establishment belonging to the nuns, called after the Good Shepherd, for the reformation and protection of unfortunate women; and the opening of another entirely new, a convent for the "Daughters of the Sacred Heart," an order recently founded by a lady of saintly virtues, sister to the Bishop of Brescia; this sisterhood and their house being dedicated to the reception of female converts from Judaism, and to the education, gratis, of poor girls. The locale so appropriated was formerly the College of Catechumens, founded by St. Ignatius.

13. One of the devotional observances of the Pontiff and his court attracted crowds to St. Peter's every Friday morning during the present month: after a sermon preached by a Capuchin friar, according to the usage, once a week throughout Lent, in a hall of the Vatican, the Pope, his immediate attendants, and the Cardinals who have assisted, repair to that Basilica for an act of silent worship, passing some time in prayer before the Holy Sacrament, visiting the chapel of the Virgin, and venerating the relic of the true Cross, which is exposed from a balcony. The scene presented on these occasions in the gorgeous aisles of St. Peter's, is highly imposing as well as highly solemn.

15. Our Holy Father, Pope Pius IX., held, at the Apostolical Palace of the Vatican, a Secret Consistory, at which, after a short allocution, he created and published Cardinals of the Holy Catholic Church.

OF THE ORDER OF PRIESTS:—

Mgr. Domenico Lucciardi, Bishop of Sinigaglia, born at Sarzana, on December 8th, 1796.

Mgr. François Auguste Donnet, Archbishop of Bourdeaux, born in the diocese of Lyons, in 1795.

Mgr. Girolamo d'Andrea, Archbishop of Melitene, Secretary of the Sacred Congregation of the Council, born at Naples, on April 12th, 1812.

Mgr. Carlo Luigi Morichini, Archbishop of Nisibis, Treasurer-general of the Reverend Apostolical Chamber, and President of the Commission of Hospitals, born at Rome, on November 12th, 1805.

The Holy Father reserved two Cardinals in petto.

His Holiness then proposed the following churches:—

The suburbicarian church of Palestrina, for the Most Eminent and Reverend Lord Cardinal Luigi Amat, of St. Filippo e Sorsò, who has resigned his presbyteral title of St. Maria in Via.

The patriarchal church of Venice for Mgr. Gianpietro Aurelio Mutti, Benedictine of the Congregation of Mount Cassino, promoted from the Bishopric of Verona.

Gabriel Marie François de Marguerye, translated from the bishopric of St. Flour.

The cathedral church of Verona, for the Rev. D. Giuseppe Luigi Trevisanoto, Priest of Venice, Canon Theological of that patriarchal church, Synodial Examiner, Doctor in Theology.

The cathedral church of St. Hyppolytus, in Lower Austria, for the Rev. Dr. Ignatius Feigerle, Priest of the archdiocese of Olmutz, Parish Priest of the Imperial and Royal Palace of Austria, Abbot of St. Mary of Pagrauy, Rector of the Universities of Olmutz and Vienna, Member of the Theological Faculty of the University of Prague, and Doctor in Theology.

The cathedral church of Langres, in France, for the Rev. Dr. Jean Jacques Antoine Guerrin, Priest of the archdiocese of Besançon, Vicar-General of that city and diocese.

The cathedral church of St. Paul, in Brazil, for the Reverend Dr. Antoine Joachim de Mello, Priest of the diocese of St. Paul, and Vicar of Itù, in the same diocese.

The episcopal church of Tinay, in Croatia, for the Rev. Dr. Joseph Krautmann, Priest of the diocese of Nitria, Canon-Guardian of the metropolitan church of Strigonia, Abbot of St. Spirito, of Bath-Monostro, Vicar-General of Strigonia.

The episcopal church of Ebron, in partibus infidelium, for the Rev. Dr. Louis Haynald, Priest of the archdiocese, and director of the Chancery of Strigonia, Chaplain of honour to his Majesty the Emperor of Austria, Doctor in Theology, and Coadjutor Elect, with future succession of Mgr. Nicolas Kovacz, Bishop of Transylvania.

The episcopal church of Eumenia, in partibus infidelium, for the Rev. Dr. Louis Eugene Regnault, Priest of the archdiocese of Rheims, Curé of Charleville, in the same archdiocese, and Coadjutor Elect, with future succession of Mgr. Claude Hippolyte Clausel de Montals, Bishop of Chartres.

The episcopal church of Oropus, in partibus infidelium, for the Rev. Dr. Paolo Mondio, Priest of Messina, Abbot of San Lucia di Melazzo Nullius, in the province of Messina, Doctor in Theology and Canon Law.

There was then made to his Holiness the instance of the sacred pallium for the patriarchal church of Venice, the united metropolitan churches of Kolocza and Bachia, and of Toulouse, in favour of Mgr. Jean Marie Mioland, who has succeeded to that see in quality of Coadjutor.

Then the Most Eminent and Rev. Lord Cardinal Amat di St. Filippo e Sorso took the oath as Bishop of Palestrina.

Lastly, the Most Eminent and Rev. Lord Cardinal Brignole, as Camerlengo of the Sacred College, deposited the portfolio containing the affairs of the Sacred College in the hands of the Holy Father, who passed it to the Most Eminent and Reverend Lord Cardinal Patrizi, who succeeds to him.

After the Consistory, Signor Decio de' Conti Bentivoglio, Noble Guard of his Holiness, left Rome in quality of courier, to carry to the new Most Eminent and Rev. Lord Cardinal Donnet the news of his promotion and the red cap.

17. A celebration of less splendour, but, perhaps, interesting to many of your readers, was that of St. Patrick's Day, at the Irish Franciscan Convent of St. Isidore. High Mass was sung by Rev. Dr. Brown, of Cork, and a sermon preached by Monsignor Talbot, characterised (as his preaching ever is) by peculiar earnestness and devotional feeling, unaffectedly expressed. A collection for the support of the convent, entirely dependent on such bounty, was then made, and amounted to 120 scudi. Finally, a dinner was given by the Friars to a large company—about sixty (including the religious) sitting at table—the guests, including the Vice-Rector of Rome (an archbishop), the Saxon Minister, Monsignor Talbot, and the Hon. Francis Talbot, of Staffordshire; also Doctor O'Dwyer. Among those who attended the ceremonies were Lords Fielding and Camden, and the Hon. Mrs. Anderson, daughter of Lord Fingal.

Yesterday was the opening of the Jubilee, which has been ordered by his Holiness, as, in a certain degree, a commutation of the Anno Santo, the celebration of which, last year, was prevented by political circumstances. The solemnities began by sermons with litanies, and the exposition of the Holy Sacrament in a great number of churches, at the several periods of five in the morning, four in the afternoon, and half-past six in the evening. On the night previous all the bells of Rome chimed simultaneously for a quarter of an hour, at half-past seven, to usher in the holy season.

— The Gazette has just announced the nomination of Cardinal Antonelli as Secretary (he has hitherto only been Pro-Secretary) of State, which proves that that Cardinal's retirement from the Ministry is not, as some have said, an event at all likely to be proximate. The Papal Choir is about to be augmented by the appointment of eight new singers, for whose posts a competition has been opened; four to be soprani, two tenors, two contralti; they are required to be of the ecclesiastical state, or at least to receive the tonsure within two months after admission. Many of the old voices having become enfeebled, this recruiting will be of great advantage to the music of the Sistine.

— The Giornale di Roma published a decree dated January 10, 1852, which orders the Clergy of the whole Church to say for the future, on the day of the Feast of St. Hilary, the Office and Mass of Common of Doctors. The lessons of the first nocturn will be de Scripturâ occurrente, and at the Sixth Lesson the following addition will be made:

“Additio ad VI. Lectionem.—Eum a multis Patribus et Conciliis insignem Ecclesiæ doctorem nuncupatum, atque uti talem in aliquot diocesis cultum, tandem instante Synodo Burdigalensi Pius IX. Pontifex Maximus, ex Sacrorum Rituum Congregationis Consulto, universæ Ecclesiæ doctorem declaravit et confirmavit, ac ipsius festo die Missam et Officium de Doctoribus ab omnibus recitari jussit.”

The same decree approves, but only for the Clergy of the diocess of Poitiers, the following collect:

“ORATIO.—Recitanda in suffragiis a Clero Pictavensi tantum.—Præsta quæsumus Omnipotens Deus, ut excellentiam Verbi tui, quam beatus Hilarius Pontifex et Doctor constanter asseruit, et convenienter intelligere valeamus, et veraciter profiteri, per eundem Dominum Nostrum Jesum Christum.”

The following is a translation of the decree :

“FOR ROME AND THE UNIVERSE.—Since, in last year, 1851, St. Hilary, Bishop and Confessor, was formally declared and confirmed Doctor of the Universal Church, occasion was given for the approval of an addition to the Sixth Lesson, which, at the ordinary assembly of the Congregation of Sacred Rites, held this day at the Vatican, on the motion of the Most Eminent and Reverend Lord Cardinal Lodovico Altieri, relator of this cause at the instance of the Rev. Bishop of Poitiers, the same Sacred Congregation judged that it was to be approved, after a revision, which being at length completed by the same Most Eminent Lord Cardinal, the Relator, along with the Rev. Father D. Andrea Maria Frattini, Promoter of the Holy Faith, the Sacred Congregation of Rites approved of it, and allowed it to be added to the aforesaid Sixth Lesson, declaring that hereafter, on the Feast of St. Hilary, Office and Mass should be celebrated by the Clergy of the Universal Church de communi Doctorum, and with lessons of the first nocturn de Scripturâ occurrente. But the prayer which is given above was, in like manner, approved only for the diocese of Poitiers, in which St. Hilary is honoured as the Chief Patron with God. On the 10th day of January, 1852.

“A. CARD. LAMBRUSCHINI, S.R.C., Prefect.

“Loco ✠ Signi.

“DOMINICO GIGLI, S.R.C., Pro-Secretary.”

18. “DECREE.—Our Most Holy Lord Pius IX., by Divine Providence, Pope, by Apostolical Letters dated June 10th, in last year, after an accurate examination, condemned and proscribed the work entitled Defensa de la Autoridad de los Gobiernos y de los Obispos contra las pretensiones de la Curia Romana, by Francisco de Paula G. Vigil, Lima, 1848; and whereas another work has since been published, entitled Carta al Papa, y analisis del Breve 10 Junio, 1851, by Francisco de Paula G. Vigil—of this book also a diligent examination was instituted in the Holy Roman Congregation of the Universal Inquisition against heretical pravity, and the suffrage of the consultors being first collected, the most eminent Cardinals of the Holy Roman Church, Inquisitors-General, on Thursday, the 17th of this month, in like manner condemned and proscribed it, and interdicted its reading, retention, and impression, in whatsoever place and idiom, to all the Faithful of Christ, of whatsoever degree, under pain of excommunication, latæ sententiæ, and also decreed that it should be inserted in the index of prohibited books. And a distinct report of the premises having been made on the same day to our Most Holy Lord by me, the undersigned Assessor of the aforesaid Holy Congregation, his Holiness fully approved of the resolution of their Eminences, and commanded this decree to be passed and to be preserved among the acts of the aforesaid Holy Congregation. Given at Rome, on the 18th day of March, 1852.

“V. CARD. MACCHI, S.C. Decan. Sec.

“PROSPER CATERINI, Assessor.”

18. Our Holy Father, Pope Pius IX. held a Public Consistory in the Consistorial Hall, to give the cardinalitial hat to the Most Eminent and Rev. Lord Cardinals Mathieu, Archbishop of Besançon, created and published at the Secret Consistory of September 30th, 1850; Lucciardi d'Andrea, and Morichini, created and published on the 15th instant. For this purpose the above-mentioned Cardinals were conducted first to the Sistine Chapel, where they took the oath prescribed by the Apostolical constitutions. They were then introduced into the Consistorial Hall by two Cardinal-Deacons. Approaching the Pontifical throne with the usual ceremonies, they first kissed the foot and afterwards the hand of the Holy Father, who embraced them, after which they were conducted to their seats, and then, again returning to the throne, his Holiness placed on them the cardinalitial hat.

Mgr. Orfei, one of the Consistorial Advocates, then concluded for the first time the cause of the venerable servant of God, Germaine Cousin, of the diocese of Toulouse.

The Cardinals then returned to the chapel to assist at the chanting of the Ambrosian Hymn; after which Cardinal Machi, Dean, having recited the prayer "Super Electos," they gave another embrace of congratulation to the newly-appointed Cardinals.

The Public Consistory having terminated, his Holiness held a Secret Consistory, in which, according to the usual custom, he closed the mouths of the Lord Cardinals Mathieu, Lucciardi, d'Andrea, and Morichini.

His Holiness then proposed the following churches:

The cathedral church of Torli, for Mgr. Antonia Magrini, translated from the episcopal church of Terni.

Giovanni Battista Arnaldi, Diocesan Priest of Ventimiglia, Domestic Prelate of his Holiness, Proto-Notary Apostolic, Abbreviator of the Parco Maggiore, Voter of the Signature of Justice, Doctor in Sacred Theology, and in Canon and Civil Law, Deputy Administrator of the cathedral church of Terni.

The cathedral church of Bovino, in the Kingdom of the Two Sicilies, for the Rev. Dr. Filippo Gallo, Diocesan Priest of Aversa, and of the Congregation of the Missions of St. Vincent de Paul, Superior of the Casa de' Vergini, in Naples, Deputy for the Revision of Books, and Doctor in Sacred Theology.

The cathedral church of Modena, for the Rev. Dr. Francesco Emilio Cugini, Priest and Patrician of Reggio, Arch-Priest-Curate of that Cathedral, Synodal Examiner, and Doctor in Sacred Theology.

Then, according to custom, his Holiness opened the mouths of the above-mentioned Lords Cardinals Mathieu, Lucciardi, d'Andrea, and Morichini.

Instance of the Sacred Pallium was then made to his Holiness for the cathedral church of Autun, honoured with that privilege by St. Gregory the Great, in favour of Mgr. Frederic Gabriel Marie François de Marguerie.

Lastly, his Holiness gave to the new Cardinals the cardinalitial ring, and assigned the presbyteral titles of St. Sylvestro in capite to the Most Eminent Lord Cardinal Mathieu; of St. Clemente to the Most Eminent Lord Cardinal Lucciardi; of St. Agnese-fuori-le-Mura to the Most Eminent Lord Cardinal d'Andrea, and of St. Onofrio to the Most Eminent Lord Cardinal Morichini.

His Holiness, at the conclusion of the Secret Consistory, gave a private reception to the above-mentioned Eminent Cardinals.

— His Holiness, by sign-manual, was pleased to name as his Secretary of State the Most Eminent and Rev. Lord Cardinal Giacomo Antonelli, who formerly discharged the functions of that office under the title of Pro-Secretary. His Holiness, by letters of the Secretariate of State, has named members:

His Holiness nominated as Domestic Prelates Mgr. Pietro Lasagni, his Cameriere Segreto supernumerary, and Dr. Luigi Giordani, of Ferrara, of the Pontifical Academy of Noble Ecclesiastics in Rome.

19. The Jubilee opened. It had been announced the evening before by the sound of all the bells in the city. Since that day the three basilicas of St. Peter's, St. John Lateran's, and St. Mary Major's, have been visited by an immense concourse of the Faithful, eager to respond to the invitation of the Vicar of Jesus Christ, and to gain this precious indulgence. The crowds were not less numerous at the special sermons ordered by the Holy Father on this occasion, in the principal churches of Rome, and which commenced the same day. At Sta. Maria-in-Trastevere, Card. Ferretti, the new Grand-Penitenciar, preached with the zeal of an apostle, and an eloquence which made the liveliest impression on the numerous auditory who pressed round his pulpit. His simple and convincing words were marvellously adapted to the poor and working class of this quarter of the town, and God cannot fail to bless so edifying a ministry. Everything leads us to expect that the fruits will be abundant, and answer to the wishes and hopes of the Sovereign Pontiff.

21. The fourth Sunday of Lent, during the magnificent ceremony of the Benediction of the Golden Rose, the two French bishops at present in Rome, the Bishop of Autun and the Bishop of Limoges, took possession of the title of Bishops-Assistant to the Pontifical Throne, which the Holy Father deigned to confer upon them. The Holy Father also invited the two Prelates to assist at the Benediction of a bell, which was to take place at St. Mary Major's on the 25th, the Feast of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin. On this Feast there is usually a Papal Chapel in the church of the Minerva, but the considerable works which the Dominican Fathers are having executed there have interrupted this ceremony since 1847.

— Cardinal Bernetti, Card. Deacon of S. Lorenzo-in-Damaso, and Vice-Chancellor of the Holy Roman Church, died at Fermo, where he was born on December 29, 1779. He was raised to the purple by Leo XII., at the Consistory of October 8th, 1826. The most edifying details are given of his last moments. He beheld the approach of death with that calm and resigned firmness which had characterised his long life. He himself asked for the Holy Viaticum, and in order to receive it in the more fitting manner, he chose to be habited in his robes as Cardinal, and to put on his numerous decorations. "I cannot do better," he said, "in order to receive the last visit of the King of Kings, the only true King." In the midst of his priests and servants in tears, he alone was tranquil, resigned, and cheerful. The Cardinal-Archbishop of Fermo was with him until his last sigh. His death was worthy of a Prince of the Church; it nobly crowned a long career, all consecrated to the service of the church and the defence of the rights of the Holy See. This death makes vacant one of the most considerable offices of the Pontifical court. The post of Vice-Chancellor of the Roman Church is so elevated that it has always been considered the first after the Sovereign Pontificate. St. Bernard calls it so in his 93rd Epistle. Cardinal Zabarella calls the Vice-Chancellor the right eye of the Pope, and the greatest personage of the Roman court. This eminent office is the only one, with that of the Camerlengo, the titular of which is created and promulgated in Consistory of Cardinals, whom the Pope interrogates in these words: Quid vobis videtur?

23. By a Brief, the Holy Father granted to the Bishop of Arras (Mgr. Parisi) the privilege of personally wearing the Pallium. The Brief commends, in the strongest terms, the services of Mgr. Parisi to the Catholic Church. "We know," are the words of his Holiness, "with what praiseworthy diligence and vigilance you nurture and watch over your flock; we know the excellent writings you have published for the restoration of Catholic schools in France; we are aware how zealously you laboured in the National Assembly at the time when there was a revolution in our temporal states, that the brave troops of France might fly to our defence, and to that of the Apostolic See. Therefore, being desirous to give you a peculiar testimony of the honor and good will with which we regard you, we, by our Apostolic authority, concede unto you the use of the Pallium on the solemn occasion prescribed by the sanction of the Sacred Canons."

25. It is generally believed that the two Cardinals reserved in petto at the Consistory, are Mgr. Viale Préla, Nuncio of Vienna, and Mgr. Brunnelli, Nuncio of Madrid.

APRIL 6. The Conference of St. Vincent de Paul held their annual general assembly in the Church of the Caravita. The Cardinals Patrizi, Vicar-General of his Holiness; Fornari, Prefect of the Sacred Congregation of Studies, and Protector of the whole Society of St. Vincent de Paul; Spinola, Pro-datary of his Holiness; and several other Prelates and persons of distinction were present. Two of the Jesuit Fathers, one in Italian and the other in French, addressed the assembly, which was presided over by the Rev. Father de Villefort, Director-General of all the Conferences since the establishment of the society in 1842. The collection was made by the Count de Bontourlin, in the name of the Conference of Foreigners, and by the Dukes Salviati and Poli in that of the Italian Conferences.

It was in 1842 that the Society of St. Vincent de Paul was established in Rome, and installed there by the eloquent words of Father de Ravignan. In 1851 it was divided into the two Conferences, Foreign and Italian. The first is exclusively composed of non-Roman members, and attends to visiting and relieving poor foreign as well as Roman families. Its active members amounted in 1851 to forty; its honorary members to twenty-four. It has relieved seventy-two families; and patronised the school established at Trevi for young Frenchmen, under the care of the Brothers of Christian Doctrine. It has also established an evening-school for French soldiers at St. Louis, which is directed with admirable devotion and success by M. l'Abbé de l'Isle Adam, Chaplain of St. Louis. All the winter it has been attended by 100 soldiers, who have learned there reading, writing, arithmetic, grammar, and other elementary branches of knowledge necessary for their position. The other school, founded for the same object in the house of the Brothers of Christian Doctrine of the Madonna-dei-Monti, and which continues to fill every evening, has been in like manner encouraged, visited, and assisted by the Conference. Books have been disseminated by its care in the barracks, and several soldiers have found in the good counsels and encouragement of members of the society the method of regaining a regular life, and returning to the practice of their religious duties. The receipts of the Foreign Conference in 1850 were 471 Roman scudi; in 1851, 838.

The Italian branch of the society has made a still more important progress; up to 1851 it had only one Conference. At the end of that year it had four. The Central Confraternity of San Carlo on the Corso collected and distributed a sum of 1,508 scudi; that of the Gesu, established May 7th, 1851, 143 scudi; that of San-Andrea-delle-Fratte, 109 scudi; that of San-Nicolo-degli-Incoronati, 34 scudi; for the length of time respectively, of eight months, seven months, and twenty-four days. The total receipts of the four Italian Conferences are 1,796 scudi, i.e. 9,600 fr. which has relieved 1,500 families. The active and honorary members, by whose pains and charity this has been collected, amount to 350.

Besides money, provisions, and clothes, our conference of San-Andrea-delle-Fratte has given work to unemployed workmen by paying for objects above their value, thus making them work for their alms. One of its members, a doctor in medicine is commissioned to visit the sick poor gratis. The Conference of San-Nicola-degli-Incoronati assembles, on every Sunday and holiday, boys taken from the streets, affords them amusement suited to their ages, and instructs them in Christian doctrine.

Another still more general institute of charity, in which the foreign Conference takes part, is the Secretariate of the Poor. After the revolution of February, the French innovators wished to form a special ministry for the needs of the labouring and indigent classes. Their efforts were vain. Without so much noise or cost, charity has realised that thought. Every Sunday a deputation of all the Conferences of Rome, composed of lawyers and other persons, influential from their social position, assembles at the little Palazzo Borghese. There they receive the poor, hear their complaints, take note of their wants, charge themselves with their commissions, and become, in a word, the intermediaries, the counsellors, the advocates, the secretaries of the poor. They communicate, in the interest of the poor, with the Pontifical government, with the Ecclesiastical administrations, and the embassies. Here it is a poor tenant whom they protect against a too exacting proprietor; there a stranger, for whom they obtain the papers required for his marriage, or to substantiate his rights to a succession. The detail of their benefits would be endless. The sum-total of the receipts of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul at Rome for this year is 2,634 scudi.

This consoling development promises to increase still more during the present year. Several new Conferences are projected, and only a few weeks ago Mgr. Borromeo opened at La Scala a Conference for the immense and poor quarter of the Trastevere. Steps were taken to establish a school capable of holding 300 children, and all the other wants of the district will receive proportionate care.

The Bishop of Trèves arrived in Rome during Holy Week.

The Bishop of Samos, in partibus, V. A. of Japan, arrived in Rome from Hong Kong, in China, where he has been for some years waiting for an opportunity to penetrate into his vicariate. Providence seems at this moment likely to second his wishes. He brings to Rome, to submit them to the approbation of Propaganda, the acts of the first council held by the Bishops, Vicars-Apostolic of China. Five Bishops, thirty Priests, and a great number of Christians assisted at this assembly, so new for China, and so consoling for the future prospects of that mission.

20. Letters from Rome, in the Univers mention that Cardinal della Genga-Sermattei is named Prefect of the Sacred Congregation of Bishops and Regulars. His Eminence is nephew to the late Pope Leo XII., and was member of the Commission of Government charged by Pius IX., with the transaction of affairs immediately after the restoration of the Pontifical authority.

26. Obsequies of Marshal Marmont celebrated at Venice. A modest coffin, around which burned a few tapers, was deposited in the centre of the church of the Jesuits. The attendance consisted of a small number of distinguished personages and friends of the deceased invited to the ceremony. A single company of infantry of the line escorted his remains, and not a gun was fired in his honour. Thus, in a few instants, and it may be said privately, were the funeral honours rendered to a man who was one of the giants of his age.

MAY 1. It pleased the Holy Father to address a brief, of which the following is a translation, to the Rev. Father Lambillotte, S.J., who deserves encouragement for the immense pains he has been taking for years to reduce the Gregorian Chant to its original beauty and simplicity. He believes that he has discovered the key to the secret. Two years ago he came to England to ransack libraries and cathedrals for the earliest specimens of Gregorian notation. According to some specimens of chanting the antiphons which he gave us, the Gregorian music is very different from what we are accustomed to hear, and possesses a melody to which we are strangers.

“To our beloved son, Louis Lambillotte, Religious of the Company of Jesus.”

“PIUS P.P. IX.—Religious and beloved son, health and apostolical benediction—We have received your letter of September 1st, in which, as you write, you have presented to us the antiphonary of St. Gregory the Great, and which, according to the authentic manuscript preserved in the library of the monastery of St. Gall, you have caused to be printed and published. For this present, religious and beloved son, we offer you the thanks which you deserve, and at the same time bestow the highest praise on the zeal which you have displayed in this matter, and which, as we learn, to our very great pleasure, you desire to display for the future. May our Most Merciful Lord aid your labours and cares, in order that they may truly contribute to the restoration everywhere of the majesty and gravity of the ecclesiastical chant. And as a sign of our gratitude to you, and an augury of the favour of heaven, receive the Apostolical Benediction, which we, religious and beloved son, lovingly impart to you with the intimate affection of our paternal heart.

“Given at Rome, at St. Peter’s, on the 1st day of May, 1852, in the sixth year of our Pontificate,

“PIUS P.P. IX.”

14. His Holiness, to whom was sent a copy of Bishop England’s works, was graciously pleased to return a letter of thanks, of which the following is a translation, to the Right Rev. the Bishop of Charleston: “Venerable Brother—Health and Apostolical Benediction! The extent of your affection and devotedness to ourselves and our supreme dignity is sufficiently manifest from those letters, in date of November 1st, 1849, which with your present of books, we have not long since received. Therein you have expressed your deep regret and sorrow for those painful vicissitudes and disturbances which compelled us to leave the city: and the earnest prayers of yourself, your clergy, and faithful people, that we may enjoy a season of happiness and tranquillity. The tempest, that has not yet ceased to rage, causes us urgently to beseech you, Venerable Brother, that you desist not from this pious and dutiful kindness in our regard. We have been also highly pleased with your undertaking to publish all the works of John England, whose great worth and remarkable learning have wonderfully promoted the cause of our most holy religion, and have shed no little renown on your see of Charleston. Hence we return you many thanks for the present of his works, and offer you the most cordial and repeated assurance of our good-will and affection. As a pledge of these, our sentiments, and as an earnest of all those heavenly blessings, which we desire you, receive our Apostolical Benediction, which from our inmost heart and affection we hereby grant to you, Venerable Brother, and to all the clergy and faithful of your Church of Charleston.

“Given at Rome, from St. Peter’s, on the 14th day of May, in the year of our Lord, 1851, and fifth of our Pontificate.

“PIUS P.P. IX.”

21. Anniversary of the Pope’s coronation. The cannons of St. Angelo announced the joyful event to the world at daybreak. His Holiness attended Mass in the Sistine Chapel, Cardinal Fornari officiating, as being the first cardinal-priest present created by Pius IX. After the service Cardinal Lambruschini again presented to his Holiness the congratulations of the Sacred College, to which the Pope answered with suitable benignity, as likewise to the official compliments of the corps diplomatique. In the evening the public buildings and houses of the nobility were illuminated, as well as some of the private buildings; and Cardinal Altieri wound up the rejoicings by a grand reception at his palace, attended by the principal Roman and foreign dignitaries.

7. The Festival of the Blessed Peter Fourier, Curé of Mattaincourt, in the actual diocese of St. Die (Vosges), and founder of the Canonesses-regular of the Congregation of Notre Dame (to which two considerable establishments in Paris belong—the Abbaye-aux-Bois, and the Convent des Oiseaux), was celebrated on this day, in the Church of St. Nicholas des Lorrains, with the accustomed pomp, and a great concourse of the Faithful and of French ecclesiastics.

16. The Sacred Congregation of Rites notice that the ordinary process on the reputation for sanctity left by D. Vincenzo Pallotti shall be commenced without delay. The remissorial letters being prepared, and delivered to the Postulator. D. Vincenzo Pallotti was a holy priest who died at Rome in 1850, whose memory is held in the utmost reverence and affection by the Roman population. No life was ever more devoted than his to the cares of charity. His days were entirely spent for the good of his neighbour of whatever condition, and it was very usual to find at the door of his poor cell prelates, princes, and great ladies, amid artisans, soldiers, and poor women. All came to seek counsels and consolations. His nights he devoted to God, and spent the greater part of them in the church, taking on a chair the little repose nature imperiously demanded. During his life people spoke of singular graces obtained by his intercession and supernatural favours due to his prayers. Since his death two miracles have been proved, or, at least, two cures presenting that character, one of which took place at London, the other in the Roman states. We believe we may announce that a learned religious at Rome is at this moment preparing the history of the life of Father Pallotti.

24. Letter of His Excellency the Nuncio Apostolic at Paris, to the Council General of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul:

"MR PRESIDENT—Although on a former occasion I had the honor of informing you verbally, that I had received after some interval, from his Eminence the Cardinal Secretary of State a reply to some observations and demands which at the instance of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul you had presented to me, to be submitted to the Holy Father, yet that you may possess more positive and official knowledge of the reply referred to, I transmit herewith translated into French the despatch which His Eminence addressed to me upon the subject.

“Accept, &c.,

“✠ A. ARCH. DE MYRE, N. A.

“Paris, 28th May, 1852.”

“MOST ILLUSTRIOUS AND REVEREND LORD—In your despatch of the 2nd inst., not numbered, your most Illustrious and Rev. Lordship transmitted to me some observations which had been presented by the President of the Council General of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, relative to an inconvenience arising from the fact of several associations having the same title, which in countries external to France tend at times to establish themselves independently of the central Institute; thus breaking up the connexion so necessary to the preservation and prosperity of those great establishments, which have for their object the spiritual and temporal advantage of humanity. I have submitted to the inspection of the Holy Father the aforesaid despatch, as well as the memorials which it contained, supplied by the President before mentioned. His Holiness appreciated very highly his views for obviating the inconvenience so strongly pointed out, and as the measure proposed, viz., the appointment of a Cardinal Protector for this holy Institute appeared well adapted to this end, His Holiness has deigned to issue this order, and to nominate the most Eminent Cardinal Fornari as Protector, having but one object in this choice that of rendering this protection as advantageous as possible to the said Institute, taking into account the knowledge acquired by His Eminence already named, through the connexion which he had with the Institute in question, while he directed the Nunciature Apostolic at Paris.

“This appointment has been officially communicated here to competent ecclesiastical dicasteres, letting them understand that the intention of His Holiness is that no measure or concession affecting the primitive Society of St. Vincent de Paul, and the subordinate associations founded or which may be founded in France or elsewhere, shall be decided upon without a previous and sufficient understanding with the Cardinal Protector.

“The communication made to the dicasteres before mentioned provides at the same time, as a matter of course, for the other part of the demand of the President of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, viz., not to grant separately the Indulgences, or other similar Spiritual graces to Associations above mentioned, to the end that they may not separate themselves from the primitive central Society. It only now remains, through the medium of your Lordship, to make known officially to the President General of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul the arrangements made by His Holiness in reference to the solicitations which he made to him upon the subject.”

I beg to repeat, &c.

Signed—G. CARDINAL ANTONELLI.

Rome, 24th July, 1851.

AUG. 12. When the body of St. Clare was discovered at Assisium, all pious souls, and especially the Poor Clares, at once desired to see the vault where those precious relics had reposed for nearly six centuries converted into a sanctuary. The Bishop of Assisium, Mgr. Landi Vittori, addressed a letter to his brethren in the episcopate, to collect alms for this intention. The Holy Father, Pope Pius IX., gave 500 scudi, and Cardinals Della Genga and Mattei accepted the presidency of the undertaking. The first stone was laid in the midst of a great assemblage of the Faithful.

15. The festival of the Assumption was kept with great solemnity. Pius IX. assisted at the celebration of the Holy Sacrifice at St. Mary Major's, and afterwards gave the solemn benediction from the balcony to the assembled multitude. On the evenings of the 14th and 15th the Trastevere and Corso were illuminated. The French residents and the army celebrated the day with splendour. In the morning and evening guns were fired from the little forts erected near the fortress of San Angelo; in the daytime there was a grand review of the French troops in the Place of St. Peter; a grand Mass was celebrated at the Church of St. Louis by Mgr. de Segur, auditor of the Rota for France.

25. The Pope visited the church of St. Louis des Français where a funeral monument was inaugurated to the memory of the French soldiers who fell during the siege of Rome; their remains having been carefully collected and interred under the monument, which has been executed by M. Andre, a young student of the French Academy at Rome, under the direction of a commission presided over by Colonel Blanchard, of the 53rd, and M. Pages, military sub-intendant of the troops at Rome. It is white and black marble, with the following inscriptions:—"To the French soldiers who died under the walls of Rome in 1849, their brethren in arms of the expeditionary corps of the Mediterranean." "A daily Mass for the repose of their souls has been founded in this church by his Holiness Pius IX.—Pray for them."

— The Festival of St. Louis was celebrated with great magnificence at the national church of St. Louis. Mgr. Ligi-Bussi, Vicar-general of Rome, said Mass, and twenty Cardinals were present. The holy Father visited the church in the afternoon, and was received by the Superior of St. Louis, the French ambassador, generals, and other illustrious persons.

[SEPTEMBER 28.]

DECREE OF THE BEATIFICATION AND CANONIZATION OF THE VENERABLE SERVANT OF GOD, FATHER PAUL OF THE CROSS, Priest and Founder of the Congregation of Discalced Clerks of the Most Holy Cross and Passion of Our Lord Jesus Christ.

On the doubt,

Whether the proof of the virtues and of two miracles having been firmly established, the solemn beatification of the said venerable man may safely be proceeded to?

The founder of the new Congregation of Discalced Clerks of the Most Holy Cross and Passion of Our Lord Jesus Christ, which has benefitted much the Church militant, and continuous each day to benefit it, Ven. F. Paul, Priest bearing about mortification in the body, proposed to himself to glory in His Cross, not only in work, but in deep and in truth. For, accustomed to recount the labours and sufferings endured for men by Christ Our Redeemer, and to excite the minds of his hearers to bewail their sins as the causes of His passion, he never ceased announcing the word of God, reforming the corrupted morals of the age, and bringing back sinners from the way of perdition to the paths of salvation; being wholly given up to the sacred ministry it was his wont, from youth to extreme old age, to exercise his pious and toilsome labours, to pass through the cities and towns of various provinces, and, by assiduous discourses, most ardent exhortations, and untiring exertions, he merited to die a happy death, which, united as it was to a life so well spent and so adorned with all virtues, God vouchsafed to render still more illustrious by signs and wonders.

That the virtues were exercised to the height of perfection by the venerable man, Pope Pius VII. of holy memory, declared by a solemn decree, Feb. 18th, 1821; that they have been confirmed by miracles wrought by Almighty God at the intercession of His servant, our Most Holy Lord, Pope Pius IX., solemnly announced, first, on the 26th of February in the preceding year, 1851, and again on the 2nd of August of the present year; to whom also it has been given by Divine Providence to declare what still remained before the honors of the altar could be signed to the Ven. Paul of the Cross. Wherefore at the humble petition of the postulator very lately, viz., August 24th of the present year, the last General Assembly of Sacred Rites was held in the Vatican before his Holiness, according to the prescribed laws that each of the fathers belonging to it might be interrogated whether he should be added to the catalogue of the beatified, and the assent of all present was given.

That some space, however, might intervene for meriting the Divine aid in this very important matter, his Holiness in most benign words exhorted all the assistants to join their fervent prayers, with his to the Father of Light. On this day, therefore, the vigil of the dedication of St. Michael the Archangel, whom by indult of this Holy Apostolic See, the said Congregation of the most Holy Cross venerates and honors as its patron, his Holiness, Pope Pius IX., after having most devoutly offered up the Holy Sacrifice, and again implored the Divine aid in the chapel of Xystus, summoned before him in the Vatican the Most Rev. Lord Cardinal Aloysius Lambruschini, Bishop of Porto, S. Rufina, and Civita Vecchia, Prefect of the Congregation of Sacred Rites and Relator of the Cause, the Rev. F. Andrea Maria Frattini, Promoter of the Holy Faith, together with me, the undersigned Pro-Secretary, and in their presence solemnly pronounced, "That the solemn beatification of Ven. Paul of the Cross may safely be proceeded to," and ordered Apostolic Letters in form of Brief to be written concerning the celebration in due time of the said beatification in the Patriarchal Vatican Basilica.

And this decree he commanded to be published, and to be inscribed in the Acts of the Congregation of Sacred Rites, September 28th, 1852.

Loco ✠ Signi. ALOYSIUS CARDINAL LAMBRUSCHINI,

Bishop of Porto, &c., Prefect Congr. S. R.

DON. GIGLI, Pro-Secretary, Congr. S. R.

(A true Copy.)

GAUDENTIUS, Passionist.

Sept. 28. His Holiness's visit to the Church of the Franciscans, at Nemi, to honour the miraculous picture of our Lord crucified.

Oct. 3. His Eminence Cardinal Amat, Bishop of Palestrina, and Vice-Chancellor of the Holy Church, went in state to the Church of SS. Lorenzo and Damassius, and assisted by Mgr. Masongin Nurra, Archbishop of Cagliari; and Mgr. Cometti Rossi, Archbishop of Nicomédie, gave episcopal consecration to the Bishops of Gallipoli, Oppido, and Agathopolis, proclaimed in the Consistory 27th ult.

— His Eminence Cardinal della Genga Sermattei, Prefect of the Congregation of Bishops and Regulars, whom our Holy Father the Pope has named Protector of the Order of Friars Minors, took possession of his new charge.

— At the desire of his Holiness they are repairing in a splendid manner the church of St. Roch. The beautiful variegated marbles which have been used in the centre portion of the building are brought from the Prenestine Hills.

— His Holiness's declaration as to his willingness to go, if necessary, to Paris, to crown the Emperor Louis Napoleon.

4. The Festival of St. Francis kept with great splendour in all the churches of the Seraphic Order at Rome. According to custom, the Office was celebrated at the Ara Cœli by the Dominican Fathers. Father Genlis, Commissary of Spain, sang the High Mass. The Very Reverend Father Jaendel, Vicar-General of the Order, officiated at Vespers. The Pope went, with his suite, to the convent at ten in the morning. His Holiness was received at the grand entrance by the Religious of the two Orders, who, preceded by their Generals, knelt down at the approach of the Sovereign Pontiff. He then visited the sick in the hospital, addressing words of consolation to each.

— The Pope conferred an honour on the order of St. Francis. The Vicar of Christ was received at the above Church by the General and 150 Franciscan friars, and by many prelates, and members of other religious orders. After Mass the Pope proceeded to the library, in which a throne had been prepared. The General delivered a brilliant address, and presented Pius IX. with a bouquet. After complimentary observations, the Pope prayed, "That the flowers of humility, patience, and charity may be always in season and full bloom amongst the members of that order, of which so wonderful a saint was the founder."

Nov. 1. The churches in Paris crowded on this day (All Saints).

2. The citizens of Paris attended in crowds at the various cemeteries, offering prayers for their departed friends, and throwing bouquets of flowers on their graves.

— The Bishop of Lucon condemned the book of Epistles and Gospels for the use of secondary schools. His reasons for condemnation are—a deviation from the Vulgate, and want of approbation from the Ordinary.

— It was reported that the Turks were making concessions to the Pope on the subject of the Holy Places, the Holy Sepulchre, &c.

— The Bishop of Nevers strongly censured Abbé Gaume's views on education; the Abbé, in consequence, resigned his office as V.G., and published another pamphlet, entitled "La question des Classiques amenée à sa plus simple expression."

MISSIONARY COLLEGE OF ALL-HALLOW'S, DRUMCONDRA, DUBLIN.—Sanctioned by his Holiness Pope Gregory XVI. and the Sacred Congregation of the Propaganda, and under the patronage and direction of his Grace the Most Rev. Dr. Cullen, Archbishop of Dublin. The object of the College is the education of ecclesiastics for the Foreign Missions. Millions of our fellow-beings “sit in darkness and in the shadow of death ;” and they have none to break to them the “Bread of Life ;” and this institution would give activity to the zeal of numbers among the youth of Ireland who are anxious to devote themselves to religion in those countries where “the harvest indeed is great, but the labourers are few.” For the furtherance of this end, a number of clergymen have formed themselves into a community, modelled upon that of St. Sulpice, and gratuitously devote themselves to the direction and education of the young Missionaries. As the establishment is sustained by voluntary contributions, the liberality of the faithful must principally determine the extent of its efficiency. Both the clergy and laity have, hitherto, most generously contributed to its support, and no doubt can be entertained of their continued interest in a work of such eminent charity. There are at present ninety students in the College. A subscription or a bequest of £10 annually, to the College, establishes a free place for one student: twelve such places have already been established by the charity of a few pious Catholics. The holy sacrifice of the Mass is offered up every morning for all the subscribers and benefactors, living and dead, and for their intentions; they will, moreover, be entitled to a participation in the merit of the apostolic labours, conversions, Masses, prayers, and other good works, which may be the fruit of this institution, throughout the world, to the end of time.

Directors and Professors—President, Very Rev. David Moriarty, D.D.; Vice-President, Rev. Bartholomew Woodlock, D.D. Rev. James Clarke, Rev. Thomas Bennett, Rev. J. O'Brien, Rev. E. O'Connell, Rev. M. Barry, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, and Rev. Ml. Flannery.

Attending Physicians—William Lynch, Esq., M.D., F.R.C.S., Hartfield House; Stephen O'Ryan, Esq., A.M., M.D.

Subscriptions, donations, and bequests, no matter how small; also presents of vestments, books, pictures, &c., gratefully received and acknowledged. Communications addressed to any of the Rev. gentlemen of the Missionary College of All-Hallows. Drumcondra, Dublin, shall be respectfully attended to.

COLLEGE OF ST. DOMINICK, AT ESKEER, ATHENRY, COUNTY OF GALWAY.—President, the Very Rev. Dr. Smith, O.S.D. Opened for the reception of pupils 4th of August, 1847, the festival of St. Dominick.

The main object of this Institution is to combine, with a sound and religious education, efficient and comprehensive instruction in Literature and Science, especially in reference to such purposes as are most important in the present state of Ireland, the diffusion of a comprehensive knowledge, theoretical and practical, of Agriculture. In this view the course will be divided into two departments: I. The Literary or Classical will embrace the several studies necessary for those who are destined for the universities, or the learned professions. The Latin and Greek languages, and Literature, amongst the ancient; and amongst the modern, French, Italian, and Spanish will be taught; preceded by competent instruction in English Grammar, Literature, and Composition, and accompanied by an enlarged course of Geography, especially in reference to statistics and history. II. The Science department will comprise a course of—1st, Sound practical instruction in Arithmetic, Algebra, and Geometry, followed by Book-keeping, the elements of Surveying, Linear Drawing, and also Engineering. 2nd, Courses in Natural Philosophy, and Astronomy. 3rd, Courses in Chemistry, Mineralogy, Botany, Vegetable and Animal Physiology. Each of these courses will be taught not only in their abstract form, but in their application to Agriculture, to such students as propose to devote themselves particularly to that study. In order to carry this application on a sufficient scale into effect, a considerable portion of land is attached to the College, and will be dedicated to the purpose of agricultural teaching and experiment.

Particulars may be known by application to the Very Rev. Doctor Smyth, Esker College, Athenry, County Galway.

The exercises of the Seminary, and the attention of the rev. gentlemen who superintend it are directed to obviate the evils which not unfrequently result from young gentlemen presenting themselves as candidates for the sacred ministry, without being acquainted with the nature of the holy state, or the dispositions required for embracing it. For admission into the lowest class of the seminary, a knowledge of the following books will be required: in Greek, the Grammar; the Gospel of St. John, and the ten Dialogues of Lucian. In Latin, the Grammar; Cæsar's Commentaries De Bello Gallico; first and second books of Sallust. Two free places are reserved in Maynooth College, to remain at the disposal of the Superiors of the Seminary, who will give them as premiums for distinguished merits. President, Very Rev. J. M'Evily; Professor of Rhetoric and the Irish Language, do.; Professor of Humanity, Rev. Thomas Kilty; Professor of Humanity and of Science, Rev. J. P. O'Brien.

The course of studies comprises, along with the Greek and Latin Classics, such of the ancient and modern languages, as national, scientific, or commercial pursuits render valuable. Instructions are given in every department of science. A splendid apparatus, for illustrating the lectures in chemistry and natural philosophy, has been lately added to the literary resources already possessed by this College. The moral education of the pupils is amply provided for, not only by the constant superintendence of the clergymen of the college, but also by the vigilance of the Archbishop. The recreation grounds, which combine healthiness and extent, comprising twelve acres of ground, are near the summit level of the province, and surrounding, on all sides, the magnificent Cathedral. This proximity of the College to the Cathedral affords to the young inmates the advantage, not only of hearing mass every morning, but of visiting the blessed sacrament in the course of the day, and assisting on the first Sunday of every month, and on great festivals, at the ceremonies of High Mass, which are conducted with the most impressing and imposing solemnity. More extended accommodations have been recently prepared for lay boarders, who, though not destined for the church, cannot fail to profit by those religious impressions made by their visits to God's temple, as well as those practices of piety which it has been the spirit of the Catholic Church, as well as the consolation of Catholic parents, to have mixed up and identified with every portion of science in the education of the rising portion of society.

ENGLISH COLLEGE, ROME.—Founded by Bull of Pope Gregory XIII., dated April 23, 1579.— Rector, Very Rev. Robert Cornthwaite, D.D.; Vice-Rector, Rev. Louis English, D.D.

This College was originally the Hospital of the Holy Trinity and St. Thomas, established for English pilgrims after the destruction of the ancient Saxon School in 887, founded by King Ina, in 727, for the education of Saxon ecclesiastics. It was for the maintenance of this school that he originated Rome's scot, or Peter's pence, which was paid with some intermissions until the reign of Henry VIII. In 1351, the present Hospital was founded; and there exists in the Archives letters from Henry VII., eulogising the foundation. In 1579, about the time that Cardinal Allen (once Rector of St. Mary's, Oxford) removed his College from Douay to Rheims, Gregory XIII. (at the suggestion of the Cardinal and others) made it a College for the education of the English clergy, adding very considerably to its endowments. The students who were here trained for the priesthood had, of course, the certain prospect of martyrdom continually before them (Dr. Newman's sermon at the recent Synod of Oscott). But they courageously and generously risked their lives to minister to the necessities of English Catholics, at a time when it was death to say Mass or perform any priestly function. So recently as the reign of George III., (Queen Victoria's Grandfather), the then Earl of Shrewsbury, a priest was tried for saying Mass, and only acquitted for want of sufficient evidence. In 1680, the English College and Church were rebuilt by Cardinal Howard; but in consequence of the confiscation of his property by the French in 1798, the College was not restored till 1811, when Dr. Gradwell (afterwards Vicar-Apostolic of the London District) was made Rector. The Cardinal-Archbishop succeeded him in 1828; and was followed in 1844 by Dr. Grant, the present Bishop of Southwark. The College gives gratuitous education to twenty-five ecclesiastical students. There are several Converts now preparing for the priesthood; but the Holy Fathers' College for Converts will soon be ready to receive its members.

BISHOPS, PRIESTS, AND CURATES OF IRELAND.

IRELAND is divided into four provinces—Ulster, Leinster, Munster, and Connaught. There are four Archbishops: one to each province: ARMAGH, DUBLIN, CASHEL, and TUAM. Commencing with Armagh, as the Primatial See, before we proceed with the next Archdiocese in order—Dublin—we go through all the simple Bishoprics in Armagh, and so on with those of the dioceses of Dublin, Cashel, and Tuam, making in all, including the diocese of Ross, twenty-eight dioceses. Every Bishop is appointed by the Pope, usually from one of the three named to his Holiness, as (1) most worthy, (2) very worthy, (3) worthy, chosen by the Chapter and Parish Priests of the vacant Bishopric, and the Bishops of the province. In every diocese, the Dean, or chief clergyman next to the Bishop, is elected by the Pope, or Cardinal Protectorate—the Vicar-General by the Bishop. All the Clergy are supported by the voluntary contributions of their flocks, and regulated by the Statutes of their Diocese, and by the Statutes of the National Synod of Thurles, confirmed by the Pope and published. They have several conferences in each diocese every year, and annually a Spiritual Retreat in each diocese. The Regulars, or members of religious orders, are unceasing in their duties—assisting the secular or parochial clergy in celebrating the divine mysteries, preaching and teaching, hearing confessions, administering the sacraments, instructing youth, leading retreats, conducting missions, and devoting themselves to the gratuitous education of the children of the poor. On their value to Catholicism in Ireland, see the evidence of the late Right Rev. Dr. Doyle, in 1825. We present the names and residences of the Catholic Clergy in every diocese: Firstly, the name of the parish; secondly, that of the parish priest; thirdly, the names of the curates; and fourthly, the post towns.

We have arranged the parishes alphabetically. The modern mode of calling parishes, not by their long-established and well-known names, but by those of the towns near or in which they are situated, leads to difficulty. To remedy this, we have commenced with Down and Connor, &c., and give their established designation.

To this series are added, the Alphabetical Indexes of Parishes, of Bishops, of Parish Priests, and of Curates in Ireland; and also of the Bishops and Clergy of England, Scotland, and Wales.

RELIGIOUS ESTABLISHMENTS IN THIS DIOCESS.

Convent of Mercy, Pump-st., Londonderry—Superioress, Mrs. Locke. In community, 17; religious professed, 9; novices, 5; postulants, 3. A boarding and day school at the Convent.

Christian Doctrine Schools, Societies of the Living Rosary, and Circulating Libraries in the respective parishes in vigorous operation. Public and private schools, 230, under the direction of the Catholic clergy. Many new churches erected during the last six years. A fund has been established for the Conservation of the Faith, and his present Holiness, anxious to encourage perseverance amidst the difficulties with which religion has to contend, has opened the treasures of the Church, and granted indulgence to every one (whether of the diocess or not) who shall in any way contribute to this fund for the support of the diocesan religious institutions. During the last year upwards of 4,000 children received the Sacrament of Confirmation.

A Benefit School is attended by sixty or seventy pupils.

The Poor School is beautifully situated, a quarter of a mile from the city, with three acres of ground attached. There are 300 children in daily attendance. Under the guardianship of the much-esteemed bishop, Rt. Rev. Dr. Kelly, who visits it almost daily. His lordship has generously given for the benefit of the poor the house and grounds which heretofore was the Diocesan Seminary as well as the Bishop's residence. The name of the School is "St. Columb's, or the Brow of the Hill."

Summary—Bishops, 2; parish priests, 37; curates, 64; chapels, 72; nunneries, 2.

THE SOCIETY OF THE EVENING OFFICE has been for years silently devoted to the divine praises. Each evening, numbers of religious young men assemble and recite the solemn office of the church prescribed for the day. Attached to the Church of SS. Michael and John, has been a branch of this sodality for more than half a century, of which a great number of our clergy and nearly all the Catholic lay members of our confraternities, and other religious societies have been associates. His late Holiness Pope Gregory XVI. granted a special indulgence to all the members who received the Holy Communion on the second Sunday in each month, with the proper dispositions.

1. The end of this association is to pray for the conversion of sinners.

2. All Catholics invited to enter this confraternity—to bring with them zeal for the glory of God, for the salvation of their brethren, and desire to imitate, in their respective stations, the virtues of Mary.

3. To participate in the spiritual advantages of the Archconfraternity, each associate should give his or her name, to be entered in the registry of the Archconfraternity, and contribute a small sum towards defraying the expenses of the decorations, &c., of the chapel and altar.

4. The associates, every morning, to consecrate to God all their good works in the course of the day, and unite them to the merits of the Sacred Heart of Mary—to the homage which that heart renders unceasingly to the Deity—to adore in unison with it, the Most Holy Trinity, and the Divine Heart of Jesus—and to implore, through its infinite mercy, pardon and conversion for sinners.

5. For all these intentions, the associates recite once every day the Hail, Mary, &c.; and are exhorted to recite it frequently; also Remember, O most pious Virgin Mary! &c.; and the invocation, “Mary, refuge of sinners, pray for us.” The Litany of the Blessed Virgin, with the prayer of St. Bernard, are recited publicly in the church, for the conversion of sinners.

6. The associates, especially by purity of heart, desire the protection of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, which they must endeavour to procure by good and frequent communions, particularly on the feast of the Archconfraternity. All Saturdays are days of devotion to the Sacred Heart of Mary, when Mass is offered in the church of the Archconfraternity of Paris, for the conversion of sinners. On the first Sunday of each month, benediction of the most Holy Sacrament in the chapel of the Aggregation, and Mass offered for the conversion of sinners and for the deceased relatives of members.

The spirit of this Association is to promote the love, honor, and veneration of the ever Immaculate Mother of God and of Jesus Christ, who took flesh of her for the love of us, and died on the cross for the remission of our sins, and for the salvation of mankind.

No sinner is excluded from the pious prayers of the associates—“the impious, who persecute the church, and attack the religion of Jesus Christ—Infidels, Jews, Heretics, and Schismatics; members of the church who dishonor it by crimes, and neglect their sacred duties”—the conversion of all is the object of the prayers and good works of the members of the Immaculate Heart of Mary.

THE PIOUS SODALITY OF THE SACRED HEART OF JESUS—Propagated throughout the world, under the approbation and with the special indulgences of the Sovereign Pontiffs. Branches are established in nearly every parish.

The daily prayers recited by each member, are—The Lord’s Prayer, Hail, Mary, Apostles’ Creed, and

Oh! sacred heart of Jesus! I implore
That I may love thee more and more.

The authorized devotions to be had at 10, Essex-bridge, Dublin. For special days of devotion throughout the year in the various Churches, Convents, Nunneries, and other religious houses in Dublin, see page 27.

THE CHRISTIAN SCHOOLS.

The Christian Brothers have in connexion with their society 105 schools, in which 15,910 children and adults receive religious instruction, and extensive literary and scientific information. The conductors of these schools "embody in their system of education whatever is found to be practical and useful in modern improvement, and endeavour to ascertain the taste, talent, and intended calling of each boy, in order to give a suitable direction to his studies." They provide respectable situations for many of their pupils, and, as far as possible, exercise over them in after life a parental vigilance. Funds to support these institutions are chiefly derived from subscriptions and donations. Frequent and pressing demands have been made from the sister kingdom and the colonies, for branches of this admirable institution. Nothing prevents the realization of an object of such paramount importance to religion, but a want of sufficient subjects. To those qualified for the work—to the young, the zealous, and the charitable, who have hearts to sympathise for the moral wants of their neighbour, and talents adequate to these wants—never did religion present a nobler sphere for their exertions. Mr. Michael Paul Riordan, Superior of this Society, resides with his two assistants at the Model Schools, Mount Sion, Waterford.

The annexed table shows the locality of the branches of the institute, the number of children and adults receiving education, &c.

RELIGIOUS CONFRATERNITIES.

Although our religion has existed, and can exist, without pious sodalities, confraternities, or societies, yet no one can deny their great value in promoting virtue and devotion. Their very diversity is admirably adapted to the wants, wishes, and habits of the various classes of the children of God, and form a beautiful economy in the Church, when duly regulated by and subject to her chief pastors.

The Confraternity of our Blessed Lady of Mount Carmel, or the Confraternity of the Holy Scapular, is composed of pious persons, united by peculiar devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary, whose scapular, as a livery, they wear. Hence the church, to encourage the faithful to unite in this devout sodality, and excite them to a tender love and imitation of the virtues of the most Holy Virgin, has granted many plenary and other indulgences ; to entitle one's self to which, he or she should be enrolled by a priest having the powers according to the form given in Dr. Spratt's Manual.

The Red Scapular of the Passion of our Lord, and of the Sacred Hearts of Jesus and Mary, introduced into Ireland by the Rev. Moses Furlong, is worn in testimony of Christ crucified, and may be had at 10, Essex-bridge.

The Blue Scapular, in honor of the Immaculate Conception of the ever Blessed Virgin introduced into Ireland by the late Rev. Dr. Gentili, may be had, as specially appointed, of Miss Battersby, as above.

The Cord of St. Francis is worn by the members of the order in honor of the Sacred Passion. For particulars of which see the Cord Book and Life of St. Francis of Assisium.

The Rosary specially used by the Dominicans, but practised by nearly all the faithful, is a religious form of prayer addressed to Almighty God, the supreme object of all religious worship, in commemoration of the principal mysteries of our redemption, in thanksgiving and praise to Jesus Christ for all he did and suffered in them for us, and in honor of his ever Blessed Virgin Mother; and is offered up to God in a particular manner, under her patronage and through her intercession. It is composed of three prayers—the most sublime and excellent—the Lord's Prayer, Hail Mary, and the Doxology, which is an act of supreme adoration of the ever blessed Trinity.

To make this devotion more general, the Sodality of the Living Rosary has been recommended.

NEW CATHOLIC CHURCHES IN DUBLIN.

St. Audeon's, High-street. This truly beautiful edifice has just been, as to its interior, completed, with the most perfect stucco work ever executed. We hope to see the exterior in every sense, finished with a suitable presbytery in the coming year.

St. James's, James's-street. was solemnly dedicated by the Archbishop of Dublin, on the 23rd August last [See our Annals, p. 336]. It is a magnificent building.

St. Francis, Merchants'-quay. The interior of this most extensive, central, and elegant church is now completed. Active measures are being taken to make a suitable entrance, and to finish the front agreeably to the most perfect models.

St. Catherine's, Meath-street. His Grace the Archbishop of Dublin laid the foundation stone of this great church 30th June, 1852. [See our Documentary Reg., p. 167.] This beautiful Gothic temple of 140 by 56 feet, will present every thing that can be desired in such a structure.

St. Saviour's Lower Dominick-street. The first stone of this Dominican Church was solemnly laid by his Grace the Archbishop of Dublin, 8th September, 1852. [See our Annals under that date.] The building will be commenced with zeal and effect in the coming spring.

The New Church of St. Laurence. with its schools and cluster of buildings, Seville-place, North Strand, has been described at length, with illustrations in our past series. The interior is nearly completed, and the exterior will, we trust, be finished in the course of this year.

St. Mary Star of the Sea, Irishtown. Since the foundation of this magnificent church was laid by the late Archbishop, 7th May, 1851, the sacred building has progressed to the satisfaction of all concerned. We fondly anticipate that the church will be solemnly dedicated towards the end of this year. In our Registries of 1851-2, we have given at length the architectural description, and engravings of this sacred edifice.

In the Church of Mount Carmel, Whitefriar-street, great improvements have been made by extending the left wing—opening a beautiful approach in Aungier-street, and connecting an additional house to the conventual residence for the private oratory and use of the clergy.

St. Francis Xavier, Upper Gardiner-st. This tasteful and elegant church has been greatly improved and enlarged by extending the centre altar and the space near the sanctuary.

The New Church near Ballybough-bridge considerably advanced, will, it is hoped, be completed in the ensuing year, when the front of the church at Clontarf, near Dollymount, will, it is expected, be finished.

The Church of St. Kevin, Glendalough, consecrated 3rd June, 1851, is rapidly progressing, and will be a beautiful church.

The New Church of St. Mary, Rathmines, will, we trust, be ready for consecration in the course of this year.

The Chapel of All-Hallows, Drumcondra. This elegant temple attached to the new missionary college, designed by Mr. M'Carthy, will, when completed according to the late lamented Mr. Pugin, be a true revival of medieval architecture.

The Catholic Church of Bray, in the course of this opening year will be enlarged about 33 feet in length, and have a splendid tower and belfry.

Silke, Superior; Brothers Francis Kelly, John Concannon, and Clement Whelan.

STATE OF RELIGION IN THE ARCHDIOCESS OF TUAM.

Under the immediate patronage of the most illustrious John, Archbishop,—within the city, there are three religious institutions, viz. A convent of the Presentation Order—a convent of the Order of Mercy, and a Christian School; at Ballinrobe, a convent of the Order of Mercy; at Westport, a convent of the Order of Mercy; there are eight monasteries of the third Order of St. Francis, viz., Mount Bellew Bridge, Brother Joseph Gavini, superior. Cloonbyrne, Brother Paul Waldron. Kilmoylan, Brother Peter Kerlan, superior. Corofin, Brother John Hanlon, superior. Errew, Castlebar, Brother Silvester Gilmartin, superior. Roundstone, Brother Ambrose Kearns. Clifton, Brother Patrick M'Dermott. Partry, Brother Bonaventure Strahan, superior.

To each and every one of which are attached large and commodious schools, where the rising generation receives the blessing of a sound, religious, and scientific education, gratuitously, and the ninth is erecting in the parish of Annadown, under the superintendence of Brother Elias Silke.

From the number of Institutions already established and in progress, when a sufficient number of professed monks shall be found to attend them, the Archdiocese of Tuam promises, in a very short time, to rival the glorious state of religion and literature, for which it had been famed before the so-called reformation. The Brethren of the Errew Monastery can accommodate a limited number of postulants, provided they have the necessary qualifications.

There are also religious confraternities and Christian doctrine societies in every parish of the Archdiocese.

Summary.—Archbishop, 1; parish priests, 49; curates, 58; other clergymen, 6; monasteries, 10; college, 1; convents, 2; nunneries, 4; Christian school, 1.

New Churches, Convents, &c.

IN IRELAND.

CHURCH OF ST. MICHAEL, BALLINASLOE.—The foundation stone laid by the Right Rev. Dr. Derry, 13th of April last (see our Annals). In p. 339 of our last REGISTRY, the architectural details of this elegant Church are given.

THE CHURCH OF BALLYMACWARD, in the same diocess, on the site of the old chapel, will be erected, as likewise the above, from the designs of our talented countryman, Mr. M'Carthy. (See details in our last REGISTRY, p. 340.)

BALLINAMORE CHURCH.—This temple was first commenced by our gifted and lamented friend, the Rev. Thomas Maguire, P.P., and is now being followed up by his excellent successor, the Rev. Mr. Curran. In every sense it is deserving of the warmest support of the clergy and laity at large.

THE NEW CONVENT OF MERCY, KINSALE, just completed, forms a beautiful Grecian structure; to which are attached Church, Presbytery, and most extensive Schools.

THE SPLENDID CATHEDRAL OF KILLARNEY, designed by the late Mr. Pugin, when completed, will be one of the finest edifices in the kingdom.

THE NEW CHURCH OF THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION, CASTLETOWN-ROACH, COUNTY CORK, is proceeding under the zealous and enlightened pastor, the Rev. James Fitzpatrick; but he requires the co-operation of the faithful.

IN CORK.—Father Matthew's splendid Church; the Dominican Church and Priory; the Church of the Holy Trinity; the Parochial Church; the Chapel attached to the Christian Schools: and the Church on the Glanmire Road, when completed, will be an honour to the second city of the kingdom.

THE CATHEDRAL OF LONGFORD will be a stupendous and noble structure.

“That this system of proselytism is in the most active operation wherever the sufferings of the poor are greatest.”

“That the greatest exertions are made to obtain the attendance of Catholic children at Protestant schools, and that this is frequently effected by professions of not interfering with the religion against which in truth the whole system of the school is directed.”

“That this system of proselytism must be encountered, by the establishment and support of good Catholic schools, and other strictly spiritual instruments.”

“That the Catholic clergy of Ireland, deprived by law of the endowments provided by our Catholic ancestors for the spiritual wants of their children, and unable, amid the deep poverty of their flocks, to meet the expense of the efforts required to meet the exertions of the proselytisers, appeal for assistance to the charity of Catholics in Ireland, in the British Islands, and throughout the world; and that the funds raised by this appeal be administered by the Sub-Committee of the Catholic Defence Association appointed upon the subject, and be employed under the sanction of the Ordinances of the respective places.”

with which measures were taken for extinguishing it, little damage was done in comparison to the destructive appearance it first exhibited.

21. At ten o'clock, p.m., her Majesty's steamer, Sprightly, arrived at Kingstown, having on board the remains of the late lamented Rt. Hon. Richard Lalor Sheil. The sad cortege proceeded without delay to Dublin. The remains, on their way to their last resting-place, were deposited in the Church of St. Francis Xavier, Up. Gardiner-st.

23. A High Mass and Requiem for the repose of the soul of Rt. Hon. R. L. Sheil was celebrated with all the solemnity of the Catholic Ritual. The coffin rested on a raised platform, covered with black, in the centre of the choir fronting the great altar. The platform was surrounded by tall gilt candlesticks swathed in black crape and bearing lighted waxen tapers of large size. The thrones for the Archbishop and the other Prelates, occupied the end of the choir facing the altar. To the right were stationed the seat and desks of the choir, and at each side were disposed seats for the numerous body of clergy in attendance. The small side chapel to the right of the body of the church was hung with black for the subsequent reception of the coffin until its final removal. The entire of the spacious and noble edifice was filled with a congregation numbering many distinguished citizens and gentry. Serjeant O'Brien, and S. O'Brien, Esq., brothers-in-law, and J. Power, of Long Orchard, Esq., step-son of the deceased, were present. John O'Connell, Esq.; J. O'Hagan, Esq.; Pierce Mahony, Esq.; M. Barry, Esq.; O. Coppinger, Esq., &c. At eleven o'clock the ceremonial commenced. The Most Rev. Dr. Murray, late Archbishop, presided. His Grace was assisted by the Right Rev. Dr. Whelan, Bishop of Bombay; and the Right Rev. Dr. O'Connor, Bishop of Salda. There were also in attendance Very Rev. Dr. Yore, V.G.; the Ven. Archdeacon Hamilton, Rev. Dr. O'Connell, P.P., Irishtown; Very Rev. Dr. Curtis, President S.J.; Rev. Dr. Laphen, Rev. Henry Rorke, S.J.; Rev. Mr. Pope, Rev. Mr. Mulhall, Rev. Dr. Haly, S.J.; Rev. Mr. Mulally, Rev. J. St. Leger, S.J.; Rev. Mr. Farrell, Rev. Dr. Esmonde, S.J.; Rev. Mr. Fay, Rev. Mr. Harold, Rev. Mr. Smith, Irishtown; Rev. Mr. Ashe, O.S.F.; Rev. Mr. Murphy, and a large number of other clergy. The Solemn Office for the Dead then commenced, Rev. Dr. Laphen, with Rev. Messrs. Harold and Mulally, leading the choir. After the several canticles and offices prescribed by the Church had been intoned, the Solemn High Mass for the Dead was celebrated. The Rev. Dr. Curtis, S.J., officiated as High Priest assisted by the Rev. Mr. Mulhall, Deacon, and Rev. Stephen A. Farrell, Sub-Deacon. Rev. James Fay officiated as Master of the Ceremonies. The sublime music of the High Mass for the Dead was chanted by the choir of priests including the solemn strains of the Dies Iræ; whilst the silent prayers of the vast congregation were offered up in union with the Holy Sacrifice for the eternal rest of our departed countryman. At the conclusion of the High Mass, De Profundis was chanted, and the unusual circuit of the choir around the bier was performed by the Archbishop reciting the concluding prayers, whilst the responses were chanted by the choir. The Pontifical Benediction was then pronounced over the remains, and the ceremonial concluded.

The coffin was fitted with massive iron handles, and perfectly plain, save the lid, which bore a large cross of polished brass, inlaid in the wood, and beneath an oval shield or plate of brass, bearing the following inscription :

“The Right Hon. Richard Lalor Sheil,
Born at Bellevue,
In the County of Kilkenny,
In the year 1791.
Died at Florence, May the 25th 1851.”

This outside coffin enclosed one of lead, within which was one of cedar, in which the remains were deposited. The coffin was moved in the evening to the small Chapel of the Virgin, within the church, preparatory to its removal on Thursday morning, to be conveyed to Templemore for final interment in the family vault. The arrangement of a public funeral from the Church of St. Francis to the King's-bridge Terminus was given up in consequence of the desire expressed by the nearest relative of the illustrious deceased that his repeated wish that he should be laid in the grave, at Long Orchard, in the most private manner, should be strictly attended to. On that account, and no other, the proposals to place the remains of our highly-distinguished countryman in Westminster Abbey, or in Glasnevin, alongside O'Connell's, were declined.

22. The remains of this distinguished Irishman were removed from Gardiner-street Church at five o'clock. The funeral cortege, consisting of a hearse and several mourning coaches, proceeded to the King's-bridge Terminus of the Great Southern and Western Railway, where a special train was in readiness to convey the body for interment at Long Orchard. Preparations were made for its reception in the parish chapel of the late gifted deceased, where a large number of the local clergy were in attendance to celebrate the last sad offices of the Church, previous to the remains being deposited in the family vault.

After Mass the above distinguished members of the diplomatic body and a large party of gentlemen were entertained by the Chevalier de Zulueta.

— The Cardinal's second lecture at St. George's was well attended. The subject was, “The sources of Protestant objections to Catholic doctrine,” which, in the words of his text, his Eminence showed to arise from a misinterpretation of the Scripture, and a want of acknowledgment of the power of the Almighty in the spiritual as in the terrestrial world. “You err, not knowing the Scriptures and the power of God.”

15 to 22. The Cardinal Archbishop administered the Sacrament of Confirmation at St. Mary's, Westminster, on Quinquagesima Sunday, and at Anselem's, Lincoln's Inn-fields, on Sexagesima Sunday. More than 200 Catholics exist in that island, without ever having had priest, altar, or sacrifice there, except on the occasional visit of some missionary clergyman coming from or returning to Europe. Pius IX., with this characteristic benevolence, has given 200 Scudi (£40) for the purpose; while the late English Ministry, through Earl Grey, refused any assistance for the passage or support of even one clergyman. To this provision the Vicar-Capitular of this Archdiocese, Very Rev. Dean Meyler, and the clergy of St. Andrew's, Westland-row, kindly gave the use of that church for a collection and sermons on St. Patrick's Day.

— The secretaries of the Catholic University of Ireland acknowledged having received, through his Grace the Lord Primate, £200 from Anonymous; also £20, collected at SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Rosamond-street, London, per Rev. J. Kyne, £5 of which sum is the contribution of Mr. Sheriff Swift.

Brennan and O'Donnell, of the monastery, deacon and sub-deacon; Rev. Mr. M'Auley, C.C., Clondalkin, master of ceremonies; and six alumni of the seminary attending as acolytes, &c. 27. On the Saturday before Passion Sunday, Rev. Peter Bermingham, of the Dunboyne establishment, Maynooth, and Rev. Michael Kearney, of Maynooth College, were ordained priests in the Catholic parochial Church of Monaghan, by the Bishop of Clogher; the Rev. Mr. Kearney having, on the Wednesday previous (the feast of St. Mac Carten), been ordained deacon in the same church by the Lord Primate of all Ireland.

— The bishops of the province of Connaught, with the exception of those who were absent from ill-health, met in Tuam, for the purpose of recommending to the Holy See, as is usual on these occasions, the names of the venerable dignitaries of the diocese of Achonry, selected by the clergy of that diocese at the election held there on the 15th inst. Their deliberations were presided over by his Grace the Archbishop. The bishops present were, the Most Rev. Dr. Browne, Elphin; the Most Rev. Dr. Feeney, Killala; and the Most Rev. Dr. Derry, Clonfert. Their lordships were entertained during the days they remained in town by his Grace the Archbishop.

13. Rt. Rev. Dr. Derry, Bishop of Clonfert, blessed and laid th first stone of the new Catholic Church of St. Michael the Archangel, in the town of Ballinasloe. The Bishop and attendant Clergy having arrived a procession was formed at the residence of the Parish Priest, the Very Rev. Archdeacon Dillon, in the following order: Thurifer, Sub-Deacon, robed, bearing a beautiful and large processional cross, between two acolytes carrying lights; the Priests in soutans and surplices, two and two; the Archdeacon, in choral dress; the Bishop, wearing a rich cope and plain mitre and holding the pastoral staff in his left hand, accompanied by a Deacon and Sub-Deacon in their proper robes, and followed by a train-bearer. The Bishop and clergy, thus arranged, proceeded through the public streets of the town, chanting the 126th Psalm, "Nisi Dominus ædificaverit," and the canticle of Zachary, "Benedictus Dominus," until they reached the spot at which the water was to be blessed for the occasion by the Bishop. His Lordship having blessed the water sprinkled with it the place on which the cross had been erected, whilst, in the meantime, the Priests recited chorally the antiphon, "Signum Salutis," and the 83rd Psalm, "Quam Dilecta Tabernacula," and then, laying aside the mitre, said the prayer by which the Church beseeches God to visit the place selected as the site of His house on earth, to purify it from all defilement, and to keep it purified—to vouchsafe the fulfilment of the desires of His people, and to banish all wickedness. After which the Bishop proceeded, as Pontifical directs, to bless and lay the first stone. This ceremony being concluded, the Bishop celebrated a solemn Mass, assisted by the Very Rev. Archdeacon Dillon, the Rev. John Larkin, and the Rev. Thomas Pelly, officiating respectively as Deacon and Sub-Deacon. The Rev. Joseph Whelan acted as Master of the Ceremonies. There were twenty-eight Priests in attendance.

19. Meeting of the various Christian Doctrine Confraternities of the city of Dublin, in the Church of the Conception Marlborough-street, to devise the best means of enabling the central committee of the confraternities to maintain in effective operation the schools already established, by their exertions, in the more impoverished districts of the city, where the children of the poor are exposed to the machinations of the proselytisers; also to assist the central committee in founding additional schools throughout the city, in which the children of the Catholic poor should receive a religious as well as a literary education; and, if possible, some small temporal relief, so as to counteract the effect of the temptations of food and clothing held out to the half naked and hungry children in order to induce them to attend the "proselytising schools." The meeting was most numerous and respectably attended; and the nave of the church was occupied by the brothers of the confraternities, and the side aisles were allotted to a large number of the pious and exemplary ladies who devote a considerable portion of their Sundays and evenings to the charitable work of imparting religious instruction to the young and ignorant of their own sex. The Chair was taken by the Ven. Archdeacon Hamilton.

21. Rev. Thomas O'Connor, P. P., of Loughglyn, Roscommon, presented to the Queen at the Levee by Sheriff Swift, of London, as his Chaplain.

— Mr. Thomas Moore, of Nassau-street, Dublin, acknowledged to have received, per the Very Rev. Dr. Spratt, three pounds ten shillings, restitution money.

25 APRIL. A ceremonial, which, from the rarity of its occurrence, is ever held as one of deep interest, was celebrated in the beautiful Church of St. James. The church was crowded in every part with gentry and citizens, not only of that parish, but also of various other parts of the city. In the centre of the nave, and body of the church, a series of stout uprights, with cross beams, formed a temporary frame, from which was suspended the great bell, cast expressly for this church in the foundry of our fellow-citizen, Mr. Murphy, of Thomas-street. The bell's weight is 25 cwt., and is, in the opinion of the best judges, a perfect triumph of the bell-founding art. One side of the bell bears the Latin inscription, "Hoc campanum conflatum fuit pro ecclesia S. Jacobi, A. D. 1852." and on the other side is presented the name of the Pastor of the parish, Rev. Mr. Smith, and underneath a versicle from the psalms of David, together with the symbol of the Irish harp; the name of the maker, being executed in alto rilievo on the surface in burnished brass. Previous to the ceremony the bell sounded for the first time in the sacred building, and although heard to disadvantage, placed as it was, all who were present within and without the building acknowledged the sweetness of its tones. At two o'clock his Grace the Archbishop arrived, costumed in purple rochet, surplice and soutan, accompanied by his chaplain, the Rev. Dr. Ford. His Grace was received at the church by the respected and revered Pastor of the parish, the Rev. Mr. Smith. A procession was formed, headed by the Crucifer, bearing the Archiepiscopal cross, and Acolytes carrying lighted tapers, followed by a numerous body of Clergy, robed in surplices. The Archbishop was attended by Very Rev. Dr. Yore, V.G., Rev. Mr. Smith, P.P., and Rev. Mr. Costigan, P.P., Lusk, and conducted to the covered seat prepared for him on a raised dais facing the platform where the bell was suspended. The principal Catholic gentlemen of the parish were in attendance, and officiated as stewards. The dais and the surrounding portion of the body of the church, the scene of the interesting ceremonies, were richly carpeted; tables and stands covered with flowered muslins and cloth of gold were disposed around this space; some covered with costly draperies and rich vestments of the altar; others with silver vases and ewers of classic shape to be used in the ceremonial. Children, robed in crimson and white, ministered with silver censers and frankincense, whilst the dense body of clergy in surplices formed the exterior of this deeply impressive scene. His Grace, the Archbishop, after being seated, was unrobed, and indued with the usual ceremonies, with a stole and cope of cloth of silver over a white alb and cincture, and the ceremonial commenced with the chanting of the appropriate psalms by the choir of priests, consisting of Rev. Dr. Laphen, P.P., St. Catherine's; Rev. Mr. Harold, Rev. Mr. Wood, and the Rev. Mr. Bell. Amongst the other clergymen present were Very Rev. Dr. Yore, V.G., P.P., St. Paul's; Rev. Mr. Smith, P.P., St. James's; Rev. Dr. O'Farrelly, Rev. P. J. Gilligan, Rev. John Gilligan, Rev. A. Doran, Rev. C. Hogan, Rev. J. Donovan, Rev. Mr. Costigan, P.P., Lusk; Rev. Mr. Moore, Rev. Mr. Lynch, Rev. Mr. Mullally, Rev. Mr. Aylward, Rev. Mr. Mooney, P.P., St. Audeon's; Rev. Mr. O'Connell, Balbriggan; Rev. Mr. Doran, Rev. P. Murphy, (Cork), &c. &c. At the conclusion of the introductory psalms, the Archbishop proceeded to bless, with the usual prayers and invocations, the water and incense used in this holy rite, and then made the round of the bell, marking its surface with the holy chrism; during which ceremonial the appropriate canticles were chanted by the choir.

After the completion of the ceremonial, the Rev. Henry O'Rorke, S.J., preached a most impressive and eloquent discourse, calling the attention of the Faithful to the mystic significance of the church bell, which proclaims at morning, noon, and eve, the memory in every Christian heart of the sublime mystery of the incarnation—which announces the baptism of each new member of the Church, and tells the requiem for the departed. The Rev. preacher's address was heard with deep attention.

At its conclusion, his Grace conferred on the congregation the Archbishop's Benediction, and the ceremonial concluded—one which seemed to impress with religious veneration and pious gladness the vast congregation that assisted in its celebration.

MAY. 1. An important and highly influential meeting of the Catholic inhabitants of Rathmines was held, in the parish church, for the purpose of receiving a report of the operations during the past two years from the committee which had been appointed to superintend the erection of the new church.

— The pious exercises and devotional honours, decreed by the Church to be practised towards the Ever-Blessed Virgin Mary during the Month of May, commenced in the various churches of Manchester and Salford as in Ireland. The altar-shrines and images of the Virgin were decorated with flowers, and illuminated with tapers. At St. John's the devotions commenced at seven o'clock, and were assisted at by a very large concourse of the Faithful. The Very Rev. Dr. Roskell, V.G., attended by the Revds. Denis Byrne and John Wilding and a full choir of young boys dressed in soutan and surplice, assisted at the chanting of the Litany, and spiritual exercises of the evening, immediately after which there was a Benediction of the Most Holy Sacrament, at which the above-named clergymen officiated. At St. Patrick's, St. Mary's, St. Anne's, St. Chad's, and St. Wilfrid's Churches, the May devotions were likewise observed in a spirit of purity and veneration worthy the love entertained by the children of the Church for their Most Holy Patroness and Queen. However, it is only at St. Augustine's, Granby-row—the Lord Bishop's residence—that the evening devotions in honour of the Blessed Virgin Mary are carried out in the plenitude of that magnificent and sacred pomp peculiar to the solemn services of the Church in the continental Cathedrals.

2. The anniversary of the opening of the Chapel of the Blessed Sacrament at St. John's, his Eminence the Cardinal Archbishop assisted at the High Mass, sang on the occasion by the Rev. F. Oakeley. After the Gospel his Eminence preached from the Gospel of the Sunday—"A little while and you shall see me," &c.; and dwelt upon the different sojourns of our Divine Redeemer with His Church, His hidden life, His life after the Resurrection, and His life in the Adorable Sacrament. The Cardinal then beautifully connected the devotion to the Blessed Sacrament with the feast of the day (the patronage of St. Joseph), alluding to St. Joseph as the blessed guardian of the Son of God when on earth, and the especial patron of all who honour Him in His Sacramental presence. On the arrival of the Cardinal at the great door, where his Eminence was received in procession, Mozart's grand motett, Quod quod in orbe, was sung with orchestral accompaniment. The Mass was Haydn's third, the Offertory piece Hummel's beautiful Alma Virgo, most sweetly sung by the boys. After Mass, while the Most Holy Sacrament was exposed, Romberg's Te Deum, was sung as an act of thanksgiving. The Blessed Sacrament remained exposed for the adoration until after vespers in the evening.

10. The Earl of Kenmare gave £300, towards building the New Catholic Church of Hospital; Hon. Mr. Browne, £100; George Gubbins, Esq., £50. The Earl also gave two splendid school-houses and the Countess an ample donation to complete them.

— Lord Chancellor Blackburne appointed to the vacant seat in the Education Board occupied by the late Most Rev. Dr. Murray.

— Ven. Archdeacon Coghlan, P. P., commenced a collection towards the erection of his new Church in Kilmaurice.

— A penny subscription commenced at St. Mary's, Moorfields, towards the expenses incurred by the Very Rev. Dr. Newman in the late trial.

14. Four of the Redemptorist Fathers, Father Lans, Superior; and Fathers Petcherine, Antwerpen, and Leo, arrived in Limerick, and opened their mission at St. Michael's Chapel, after the promulgation of the Jubilee by the clergy of the parish. The sacred proceedings commenced with a procession through the aisle of St. Michael's Chapel to the altar; the Clergy of the parish, headed by Rev. Mr. Synan, proceeded to meet the Fathers, who appeared at the principal entrance to the Church, opened the church doors for them, and invited them to enter. The cross was borne by Rev. Mr. Synan, attended by Acolytes, and accompanied by the Rev. Messrs. Butler, Darrac, and Coghlan, curates of the parish, chanting the Benedictus. Having reached the great altar, the Rev. Mr. Synan, addressing himself to the Father Superior of the Redemptorists, said—Very Rev. Father, in accordance with the directions of our good Bishop, I resign into your holy hands, during your mission, the spiritual care of the Catholic flock of this parish. You will find them Catholics actuated by a love of our holy Faith and of Christian Charity. But what is still more rare, you will find the highest in station humble in heart, and the humble in station you will find pious and dutiful; and high and humble, you will find all, as we find them, obedient to the voice of their Pastors, and eager to gather up the manna that is so plentifully showered upon them during those days of salvation. Priests and people, we therefore pray the blessings of Heaven upon your zealous labours, and the mercy of our offended Father upon a sinful but, I trust, repenting people. Father Lans then ascended the pulpit and preached the sermon of the day, which was brief, and related entirely to the subject matter of the mission and the conditions with which the Jubilee should be properly and successfully performed. High Mass, coram Episcopo, then commenced. Right Rev. Dr. Ryan, presided in Pontificals. Rev. Mr. Darrac, C. C., was Celebrant; Rev. Mr. Butler, C. C., Deacon; Rev. Dr. Coghlan, C. C., Sub-Deacon. In the evening the devotions were resumed by the Fathers, one of whom, Father Von Antwerpen, previous to the Rosary, gave a short introductory exhortation.

Father Lans preached on the following Monday; his theme was the salvation of souls. When he referred to himself and to his brother Missionaries, as having been induced by no other motive than the salvation of souls to abandon father, and mother, and brothers and sisters, and country, and home, and all that made life dear, being possessed of as strong natural affections as any other men, he made a sensible impression on the congregation, and in reference to Father Petcherine in particular the applicability of his observations on this score were irresistible.

15. A remarkable case tried before Gilbert Henderson, Esq., the Recorder of Liverpool. It seems a Protestant Parson, a Mr. Wolstencroft, held forth in one of the most Catholic districts of Liverpool, near Banestre-street; the inhabitants got irritated, and a row took place, in which Mr. Wolstencroft was jostled, and cut on the head by a stone; some policemen also were wounded. The defendants, four in number, were sentenced to a few weeks imprisonment; but the Recorder, in passing sentence, sharply rebuked the meddlesome and imprudent conduct of the Rev. Mr. Wolstencroft.

16. At a meeting, held by the Manchester and Salford Association, it was stated by the Very Rev. Dr. Roskell that a Brief had arrived from the Holy See, raising four churches to the dignity of cathedrals—St. John's, Salford; St. George's, London; St. Chad's, Birmingham; and St. Barnabas, Nottingham. There are 75,000 Catholics in Manchester, and 5,000 in Salford.

18. The annual bazaar of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul held at the Rotundo, Dublin. The display of elegant and useful articles was attractive and brilliant; comprising, embroidery, needle-work, engravings, oil and water-colour paintings, graceful bouquets, and valuable books. The ladies patronesses, and the other ladies who presided at the different stalls, exerted themselves to the utmost in their charitable office, and the number of purchasers appeared to be such as would add a handsome sum to the funds of this noble institution. The visitors on the day previous, did not fall short of two thousand. Lady Eglinton was present, accompanied by the Hon. and Rev. the Dean of Leighlin, and attended by two officers of the household. Her Excellency was received by the hon. secretary and some members of the committee, and spent nearly an hour in inspecting the rich variety of objects of interest displayed on the different stalls. It had indeed, been reported that her Excellency would not attend, but it appears that any scruples her Excellency entertained had been removed on learning the fact that the relief of the St. Vincent de Paul Society is extended to all who need it, without distinction of sect or party.

— Archbishop Hughes preached in the cathedral of Baltimore. So great was the anxiety to hear him that every available space was occupied long before the venerable Prelate ascended the pulpit.

19. The American Bishops held their private sessions to arrange the decrees; the Theologians got notice that their presence would not be required on that day.

20. (Ascension Day.) The Council held its fourth and last public session. There was a procession to the church, as at the preceding public sessions. Each Bishop was attended by two young boys. The Levites, or Ecclesiastical students from the seminary, went first after the Cross-bearer; then the Theologians, heads of Religious Orders, Bishops, Archbishops, and finally, the Archbishop delegate of the Holy See. The High Mass was celebrated by the Archbishop of New Orleans. The sermon was preached by Rt. Rev. Dr. Fitzpatrick, Bishop of Boston.

The decrees of the Council were next read aloud by Dr. Lynch, one of the secretaries, when the Right Rev. Doctor Chance, Bishop of Natchez, asked the consent of the Council to such decrees for the increase of the Catholic Church. The Archbishop then rose, and asked for the sanction of the Prelates according to the usual form, as prescribed in the Rubric, the Bishops answering, "We are willing—we approve—we confirm." The several Archbishops and Bishops proceeded then to sign on the great altar, in the presence of the secretaries, the various decrees. The signatures were received according to seniority as Bishops. When the decrees were signed, it was proposed they should be carried to the feet of the Holy Father by Bishop Vandeveld, of Chicago, to which the Prelates responded, Placet, or "It is our pleasure." The Archbishop having read the concluding prayers, the following acclamations were made in the Latin tongue:

Archdeacon—To the immortal King of Ages, the God Omnipotent, be everlasting honour and eternal glory.

Choir—Our Lord God is worthy to receive glory, and honour, and benediction for ever and ever.

Archdeacon—To Mary Mother of God, the Virgin Most Holy and Immaculate, be reverence, praise, and most pious gratulation.

Choir—May all generations call her blessed, and may she be blessed for ever.

Archdeacon—To our Most Holy Father, Pope Pius, successor of the Prince of the Apostles, Head of the entire Church, and Christ's Vicar on earth, be peace from God and all prosperity.

Choir—May our Lord God pour down upon him the abundant riches of His grace, and preserve well and prosperous so great a Pontiff long for His Church.

Archdeacon—To the Most Reverend Archbishop of Baltimore, Delegate of the Apostolic See, and President of this National Council, abundant graces with many years.

Choir—At present may he receive benediction from the Lord, and hereafter a crown of glory.

Archdeacon—To the Most Rev. Archbishops and Bishops who have come to celebrate this Council be an increase of heavenly gifts and safe return to their churches.

Choir—The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the charity of God, and the communication of the Holy Spirit, be with them all.

Archdeacon—To the Very Rev. Abbots, Superiors of Religious Orders, and Theologians, who by their presence, learning, and labours, have so eminently assisted the Fathers of the Council, be many thanks and good remembrance in Christ.

Choir—Many thanks, good remembrance. May God reward them.

Archdeacon—To all the Faithful of our States (Provinciarum), and to the entire Christian people, be grace and peace from God the Father and our Lord Jesus Christ.

Choir—May the God of peace sanctify them in all things, that they may lead a life happy and peaceful in all piety, chastity, and the exercise of good works.

Archdeacon—May we be assiduous in venerating, and faithful in observing, the decrees of this holy Council.

Choir—Let us always venerate and ever keep them.

Archdeacon—According to the apostolic and prophetic monition, may we be always diligent in flying the corruption of the world, and constant in our adhesion to God, until we all arrive at the measure of the fulness of Christ, and the land of the Saints (vivendum).

Choir—Amen, amen.

The acclamations, the "Te Deum," being chanted, the Archbishop gave the benediction, received by the Prelates in a bending position, by the Priests and people kneeling. The Archbishop Hughes now rose in his place, and addressing himself to the Most Rev. Archbishop Kenrick for about a quarter of an hour in a strain of eloquence fervid and thrilling, he said: "Most Reverend, Right Reverend, and Reverend Fathers, this great National Council, convoked not by the individual wish of each, not by the united will of all, but in accordance with the will, under the authority, and by virtue of the mandate of the vicar of Jesus Christ, Pius the Ninth, has happily come to a close. It had met to discuss, not matters of Faith, for if that had been their object they would simply have had to record a universal and unanimous consent. In the Church Catholic, it is well known, Faith is one and the same, admitting no distinction regarding time, place or circumstance. The deliberations of the Council referred exclusively to discipline, each Prelate coming to relate his own individual experience, and each one in turn enlightened by the wisdom of all.

20. The Bulls translating his Grace the Most Rev. Dr. Cullen, to the Archiepiscopal See of Dublin, were received by his Grace in Dundalk. One of the Bulls makes vacant the Primatical See of Armagh. Another appoints him Archbishop of Dublin; and a third appoints him Apostolic Administrator of the Primatical See, until the vacancy shall be filled up. In the month of March his Grace received a Bull appointing him perpetual delegate Apostolic of the Holy See by means of which, notwithstanding his translation from the primacy he will continue supreme over all other Ecclesiastical authority in Ireland.

20. An imposing ceremony took place at the parochial church of St. Michael, Gorey. After benediction procession of the Most Holy Sacrament proceeded from the high altar, passing round the north transept, side aisle, and arches of this magnificent temple. The Litany of the Holy Name chanted by the celebrant and clergy. The procession advanced slowly into the spacious grounds and plantations in front of the church, at the end of which was erected a temporary altar, decorated with flowers and numerous lights; here the second benediction was given. First appeared the loved emblem of our holy religion, the cross carried by the standard-bearer and exalted above the heads of the people; at either side was an Acolyte with a lighted torch; then followed a number of little boys in scarlet soutans and white surplices, two and two in order; next came the young ladies of the Loretto day school, wearing white dresses, and bonnets to correspond, each holding a lighted wax candle, carrying a banner of the Blessed Sacrament, representing a remonstrance, encircled with a wreath of vine leaves, wheat, and grapes. Next proceeded the pensioners of the convent, arrayed in white, with long lace veils, and white rosettes, each carrying a basket of flowers, strewing them before the Blessed Sacrament. This interesting portion of the procession was headed by a banner-bearer. Beneath a rich canopy of crimson velvet, trimmed with gold fringe, and festooned with white and gold flowers, the Most Blessed Sacrament was carried by the zealous pastor of Gorey, Rev. J. Lacy, P.P., assisted on the right by Rev. E. Doyle as deacon, and on the left by Rev. L. Druhen as sub-deacon. The canopy was borne by four members of the Christian doctrine Confraternity wearing the cinctures of their order. The clergy vested in rich copes, dalmatics, &c., valuable gifts of the munificent benefactor of the church, Right Hon. Sir Thomas Esmonde, Bart. The procession returned by the great door of the south aisle, through the church to the high altar. After the last benediction a solemn Te Deum was entoned. The vast multitudes who thronged the town during the day retired immediately with the utmost order and regularity.

Paul, Archbishop of Dublin, into the dignity conferred on him by the election of the clergy, and approval of the Holy See, the solemnities connected with the occasion were celebrated with unusual splendour in the Cathedral Church of the Conception, Marlborough-street. The church in every part was crowded from an early hour in the morning with an assemblage comprising large numbers of our distinguished Catholic citizens, besides many of the nobility and gentry of all denominations. On the esplanade in front of the church, awaiting the arrival of his Grace the Archbishop, were assembled a numerous body of the leading Catholic gentry and citizens, including the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor of Dublin; John Reynolds, city member; John O'Connell, John Lentaigne, D.L.; Michael Errington, R. Shortly after eleven o'clock a procession of the clergy, headed by the Dean and chapter of the diocese and the other clerical dignitaries, &c., all clad in their richest robes, and preceded by the cross, issued from the main entrance, and stood at the summit of the steps leading to the front portal. A crimson cushion was placed in front of the steps, bearing a gold crucifix, and at either side stood the Acolytes, with lighted tapers. The street in the vicinity of the church was crowded with thousands of people, whose subdued and reverential demeanour evinced their deep sense of the solemn nature of the occasion. At half-past eleven precisely the Archbishop arrived in his carriage, attended by his chaplain, Rev. Dr. Ford. His Grace was robed in soutan and rochet. On issuing from his carriage the Archbishop knelt at the front of the steps, and then ascending he was received by Very Rev. Dr. Meyler, Ven. Archdeacon Hamilton, Very Rev. Dr. Yore, the Rev. Dr. A. O'Connell, Rev. P. Cooper, Rev. Dr. Laffan, and other members of the Chapter. The crucifix was then presented to his Grace, who saluted with reverence the emblem of our salvation. JULY 1. Letter of Right Rev. Dr. Turner to his flock, conjuring them to peace and patience on the occasion of the infamous Stockport riots.

— The most healthy, central, and beautifully-situated establishment, (Mount St. Joseph, Clondalkin), was, on this day of examination and distribution of premiums, the scene of more than ordinary interest and attraction. The weather being peculiarly fine, the splendid gardens and pleasure-grounds were visited from an early hour, and the elegant chapel, monastery, boarding-rooms, seminary, and schoolrooms were thrown open to the numerous relatives of the pupils and the friends of this admirable institution. Amongst the clergymen and other gentlemen present we noticed the Rev. J. O'Hanlon, Rev. Doctor Gargan, of Maynooth College; Rev. P. M'Auley, Rev. Mr. McDonnell, Rev. Mr. Brennan, Rev. Mr. Lynch, Rev. Mr. Brady, Rev. Mr. Murphy, Rev. Mr. Fitzgibbon, Rev. Mr. Lee, Rev. Mr. Clarke, Rev. Mr. Burke, Mr. Battersby, &c.

After a lengthened examination, from twelve till four o'clock, premiums were distributed by the Rev. Dr. O'Hanlon, to Masters, G. Daly, C. Keating, J. M'Carthy, M. Gleeson, W. Sexton, M. Hanlon, Delany, P. and E. Carroll, M. Byrne, M. M'Donough, M. O'Dwyer, J. White, &c., who exhibited great skill and attention in the different branches of education and science. Silver medals were given for classics and good conduct to Master Daly and Master T. M'Carthy, and for science to Master F. O'Hanlon.

— The Carthusian Fathers of Collegno, received orders to quit their large establishment, the Sardinian government giving them a choice of three other localities—the hermitage of Lanzo, the château of Montalto (a country house belonging to the Jesuits), or the basilica della Superga. Thus the statute of Charles Albert, which declares inviolable the properties of the Sardinian Ecclesiastics, is trampled under foot, and this on the pretence of transporting an hospital from Turin to the Carthusian monastery at Collegno.

5. The first Synod of the Province of Westminster. The first preliminary meeting of the Bishops was held, and after that day the regular business of the Synod commenced. The Fathers present were: the Cardinal Archbishop and his Suffragans, with the exception of the Bishops of Liverpool and Nottingham, who were represented by their respective Procurators, Very Rev. Jas. Crooke and Very Rev. Francis Cheadle. Each Bishop had the privilege of bringing a Theologian, chosen from his own diocese or from any other, and they were as follow:

The Religious Orders were presented by Very Rev. Dr. Molyneux, President of the English Benedictines; Very Rev. F. Etheridge, Provincial, S.J.; Very Rev. F. Aylward, Provincial, O.S.D.; Very Rev. F. Eugene, Provincial of the Passionists; Very Rev. Dr. Pagani, Provincial of the Order of Charity.

The newly-erected Chapters sent as their representatives:

Westminster, Very Rev. Dr. Whitty, Provost; Beverley, Very Rev. J. Render; Northampton, Very Rev. Dr. Husenbeth; Birmingham, Very Rev. Dr. Weedall; Hexham, Rev. R. Platt; Southwark, Very Rev. Dr. Cox; Salford, Rev. R. Crookall; Shrewsbury, Very Rev. E. Egan; Clifton, Very Rev. W. Vaughan; Liverpool, Very Rev. John Fisher.

Theologians of the Synod: Very Rev. Monsignor Newsham, Very Rev. Dr. Weathers, Very Rev. Dr. Rooker, Very Rev. Dr. Newman, Rev. R. Cooke, Rev. H. Manning.

Secretaries—Rev. R. Bagnall, Rev. A. Goss, Hon. and Rev. W. Clifford.  Masters of Ceremonies—Rev. J. Wheble, Rev. James Moore, Rev. J. R. Chapman. Cantor—Rev. Dr. Crookall.

The various members of the Synod were divided into committees or particular congregations, over each of which several bishops presided, assisted by a suitable number of theologians, chosen from those already mentioned. Those committees sat regularly, often twice in the day, from nine to half-past one, and again from three to half-past five. After the business to be submitted to the fathers had been maturely examined and discussed in one of the committees, all the members of the Synod assembled in general congregations, which were held in the church in the presence of all the bishops, with the Cardinal Archbishop at their head. The theologians were again invited to state their opinions, and, after they had retired, the bishops remained in deliberation, attended by the secretaries of the Synod. In these general congregations the decrees were arranged, and, after they had been duly prepared, they were copied out for one or other of the three solemn sessions which were held on Wednesday, July 7th; Tuesday, July 13th; and Saturday, July 17th. Before each session, Mass of the Holy Ghost was solemnly celebrated by the Cardinal Archbishop.

Before the first session and at the close of the last, there was a procession of the members of council round the cloisters of the college, and many of the clergy, some of whom had come from the diocese of Westminster and Beverley, as well as respectable members of the laity, were presented.

After the procession on the last day, the acclamations, inviting all present to pray for his Holiness, for the Sacred College, and the Cardinal Archbishop and members of the council, were chanted. The music, composed by the Rev. Dr. Crookall, was generally admired. Eloquent discourses were delivered by the V. Rev. Dr. Newman and the Rev. H. Manning.

It would be impossible to describe adequately the energy, zeal, and learning displayed by the members of the Synod in the discharge of their arduous duties; and the harmony and cheerfulness that reigned everywhere showed how complete and cordial was the greeting of so many brethren, summoned from the labours of their missions to share in the deliberations of this edifying and important assembly.

The venerable Bishop of Beverley is the only surviving bishop of the four Vicars-Apostolic by whom our missions were governed until 1840. He witnessed the division of England into eight vicariates under Gregory XVI., and is consequently the senior Bishop in the newly-restored hierarchy. On Saturday afternoon the Bishops and members of the Synod left Oscott.

July 17 to 24. The session of Wednesday was prorogued to Friday morning, and the remainder of the decrees were passed at that time. On Saturday morning the third session was held for the conclusion of the Synod. The Cardinal Archbishop sang Mass, and made an address, in which he announced the happy termination at which they had arrived in their labours, and the satisfaction generally felt among those who had assisted in the Synod at the harmony and concord with which their deliberations had been conducted, and the success with which, as he trusted, they had been enabled to form regulations for the government of the Church, notwithstanding that not one of the bishops had ever before taken part in the proceedings of a Synod; and he returned thanks in the name of all the bishops, to the theologians who had rendered such material assistance both by their learning and practical experience. After the Mass, the bishops were left to complete and subscribe the decrees, and those proceedings having ended, the clergy were readmitted to the chapel, and the procession was formed, the choir and clergy first, in surplices, the deputies of the chapters in the mozettas, the heads of religious orders in copes, the bishops in their mitres when the Te Deum, Benedicte, and Benedictus, were sung, followed by the usual prayers, on returning to the chapel. The acclamations were then sung by the Very Rev. Dr. Roskell, Canon of Salford, with responses by the choir, and the ceremonies terminated with mental prayer and the benediction of the Cardinal Archbishop.

— The secretary of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, on account of delicate health having resigned his office, received the following highly flattering communication from the committee of the association:

"July 16th, 1852.

"DEAR MR. CLINCH—I am truly happy in being able to tell you that our committee were yesterday unanimous in according to you their approbation of your conduct as our assistant-secretary for the long term of years that you have discharged so faithfully the duties of that important and confidential situation, and that they have recorded on the minutes of their proceedings, by a very flattering resolution, their sense of esteem, and their regret that the state of your health has forced you to retire from amongst us.—Believe me, yours sincerely,

A. O'CONNELL."

15. Rev. Austin Killen commenced a general collection towards erecting an Augustinian convent and church in Galway.

— Circular in favour of funds being raised to defray the necessary expenses incurred by the destruction of Catholic property in Stockport:

"We beg most earnestly to appeal to every friend of civil and religious liberty for aid and assistance under the awful circumstances in which we are at present placed. We have been made the victims of a furious and outrageous mob; our chapels have been invaded and pillaged, our altars desecrated and thrown down, our houses ransacked and demolished, and our most valuable effects committed to the flames. In this our emergency we entreat the sympathy of a generous and enlightened public to alleviate the distress into which we and our poor flock have been thus suddenly cast.

RANDOLPH FRITH, } Catholic

"Stockport, July 13, 1852. ROBERT FORSTER, } Pastors.

21. Annual commemoration for the souls of the faithful departed interred in Prospect, kept in St. Paul's church, Arran-quay; the Archbishop presiding, Very Rev. Dr. Yore, V.G., and others, assisting, and a great number of the faithful attending.

Dr. Cullen, administered Holy Communion to the penitents, and preached a most instructive sermon on the festival of the day, and then gave a Solemn Benediction of the Most Holy Sacrament.

25. The Catholic Church in St. George's Fields was the scene of a ceremony not performed in London for 300 years, the consecration of two Catholic prelates, with English territorial titles. Immediately after the ten o'clock mass the church began to fill, and by the time that the service commenced, a few minutes after eleven o'clock, there was scarcely standing or breathing room. Soon after the arrival of Cardinal Wiseman, the consecrating bishop, a procession emerged from the sacristy, and, passing between a double row of acolytes in white surplices, and with lighted tapers, stood before the high altar, which was decorated with wax lights and flowers. The two bishops elect were robed in the simple sacerdotal vestments—Dr. Burgess, the bishop elect of Shrewsbury, and Dr. Brown, the bishop elect of Clifton, being each supported by two bishops; they were in their pontifical robes, each wearing the mitre. Cardinal Wiseman also was attired in his pontifical robes. Several of the leading Catholic priests were also present, besides ten of the newly-created bishops. The accustomed ceremonies were then performed. After the Pater Noster, and previous to the Ite missa est, or signal for the congregation to depart, the bishops were presented with their mitres and gloves, and acknowledging the Cardinal's authority by three genuflexions, walked twice round the church, accompanied by four bishops and four clergymen, the organ playing a Te Deum.

28. Annual academical exercises at Clongowes Wood College, in the presence of a large assemblage of both clergy and laity. By eleven o'clock the spacious academical hall was filled with the visitors and students, among the former of whom were the Right Rev. Dr. Whelan, Bishop of Bombay; the Rev. Dr. Whitehead, Maynooth College; Rev. Mr. Strickland, S.J.; Rev. J. H. Rorke, S.J.; Rev. E. Conroy, P.P., Clane; Rev. James Tierney, P.P., Caragh; the Rev. John Smith, P.P., St. James's, Dublin; Rev. Mr. O'Reilly, P.P.; Rev. P. J. Gilligan, Rev. Mr. Germain, Rev. Mr. O'Brien, Rev. Mr. Maher, P. P., Rev. Mr. Lynch, Rev. Mr. Sheehan, Rev. Mr. Kean, Rev. Mr. Murphy, Rev. Mr. Kelly, Rev. Mr. Caulfield, &c. Amongst the laity present were the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor of Dublin, Sir Edward M'Donnell, W. F. H. Cogan, Esq., M.P., and O'Connor Henchy, Esq., M.P., the representatives for the county of Kildare, J. M'Cann, Esq., M.P. for Drogheda, &c. &c. The business of the day opened with a Latin oration by Mr. F. Lyons, the subject being an address to the venerable prelate and other visitors present, briefly stating the nature of the academical exercises about to be set forth, apologizing in modest terms for any defects which might arise from youth and inexperience, and craving the indulgence of the learned auditors. This was followed by recitations of English poetry, admirably delivered by Masters Robert M'Donnell and James Hanlon. The examination of various classes in Latin and Greek, beginning with the most elementary, was then proceeded with, and the answering in all was highly satisfactory.

29. The annual exhibition of the College of the Society of Jesus, Great Denmark-street, held in the presence of the Right Rev. Dr. Whelan, Lord Bishop of Bombay, the Very Rev. J. Curtis, S.J., and a large assemblage of the principal clergy and laity of the city. The various recitations and examinations were conducted and sustained in a manner which afforded much interest.

31. Feast of St. Ignatius Loyola, founder of the Society of Jesus. A Pontifical High Mass celebrated, in the church of St. Francis Xavier. The panegyric of the Saint was preached by the Rev. Henry Marshall, late of Oxford College. There was a solemn Benediction of the Most Holy Sacrament after the High Mass.

AUG. 2. Feast of Porciuncula celebrated in the Church of St. Francis, Merchants'-quay. The solemnities commenced with the celebration of High Mass, the Rev. Charles Brown, O.S.F., officiating as high-priest; Rev. Mr. Donovan, O.S.F., deacon; Rev. Mr. Prendergast, O.S.F., sub-deacon; and Rev. Timothy Bannon, O.S.F., master of the ceremonies. After the Mass the Rev. John Murphy, O.S.F. preached; and there was a solemn procession.

4. The festival of St. Dominic, founder of the order of Friars Preachers, celebrated with splendour in the Church of St. Dominick, Denmark-street. According to an ancient custom in the Dominican order, the Franciscan fathers officiated on the occasion, the Rev. Chas. Brown, O.S.F., as high-priest, Rev. Mr. Donovan, deacon, and Rev. Timothy Bannon, sub-deacon. The high altar and side altars were decorated with flowers and numerous lights. During the ceremonies the Dominican Fathers were seated in places appropriated to them within the sanctuary, attired in the characteristic habit of the order, of white flannel with hood, black cape, beads, &c. The church was densely crowded, every available space being thronged. After the Credo the Rev. Father Lockhart, of the order of Charity, preached the panegyric of the Saint with that lofty Catholic eloquence which has so often been the means of the conversion of the sinner, and the reconciliation of wanderers in error to the Church.

5. Trial in reference to the convent of our Lady of Norwood, or Griffith v. De L'Espinasse, and another, in which a verdict was given in favour of the Nuns.

15. The holy exercises and practical devotions of the parish of the Blessed Virgin Mary of the Assumption, Castledermott, terminated by a solemn benediction of the Adorable Sacrament. After an uninterrupted succession of sacred duties, under the direction of the missionaries of St. Vincent de Paul, from Sunday, July the 11th, to Sunday, August 8th, the devotion of a Novena to the Blessed Virgin was continued to the Feast of the Assumption, the fete day of the parish. During the mission the annual day for first communion took place, when, like innocent lambs, the children of both sexes—the females all attired in white—partook from the hands of their pastor for the first time the hidden manna that bringeth to “life everlasting.”

17. Resolution passed at a meeting of the Fingal deanery, archdiocese of Dublin, held at Malahide: “That the clergy of the said deanery subscribe according to their means to purchase a house for their highly respected Archbishop and Metropolitan of this diocese, the Most Rev. Paul Cullen, and to afford an opportunity to the laity to contribute their mite in aid of said subscription.” Subscriptions will be received by the Rev. C. Rooney, P.P., Clontarf, treasurer; by the Rev. C. Boyle, P.P., Skerries; by the Rev. A. Costigan, P.P., Lusk; and by the Rev. J. Walsh, P.P., Rolestown.

23. Solemn dedication of the new Catholic Church of St. James the Apostle, celebrated with all the solemn pomp prescribed by the Roman ritual. The aspect of this magnificent church was highly impressive; so magnificent are the proportions of this noble Gothic temple that, although filled to its entire extent with a crowded congregation, yet there appeared no indication of pressure, and every one in the congregation was enabled to witness the august ceremonies of the altar, and to hear with effect the eloquent words which fell from the preacher. His Grace the Archbishop arrived shortly before eleven o'clock, accompanied by his chaplain, Rev. Dr. Ford. On entering the gates of the church, he was received by the Rev. John Smith, Pastor of St. James's, surrounded by his curates, and accompanied by the Ven. Archdeacon Hamilton, Rev. Dr. Laphen, P.P., St. Catherine's, the Rev. Dr. Marshall, and a numerous body of other clerical dignitaries. The choir of priests consisted of the Rev. Dr. Laphen, P.P.; the Rev. Messrs. Cavanagh, Wood, Mullally, and Harold, with the Rev. Mr. Lyons, Carlow College, as leader. An organ possessing great sweetness of tone was erected in the choir-loft for the occasion, and presided at by Professor Keane, organist of St. Nicholas's. An effective organ-choir was in attendance, comprising soprano, contralto, tenor, and basso voices of known ability. The Archbishop, as presiding and officiating prelate in the dedication ceremonial, having been robed in the appropriate vestments, and wearing above all a cope of purple tissue, and jewelled mitre, and his pastoral crosier, issued from the sanctuary, preceded by the vast body of clergy and dignitaries of the Church, and with the archiepiscopal cross borne in front by the Rev. Dr. Ford, surrounded by the acolytes, bearing lighted tapers, the thurifers, incense-bearers, and other attendants, all formed in their proper order; and thus proceeded to dedicate the church. At the conclusion of the High Mass the Rev. Mr. Manning ascended the pulpit, and amid the most profound silence commenced his discourse, the text of which was taken from St. John, xii. 24, 25:

“Unless the grain of wheat fall into the ground and die, itself remaineth alone.”

“But if it die it bringeth forth much fruit.”

After the sermon, the special plenary indulgence, obtainable by the faithful, was proclaimed, as is usual on the dedication of a church. The Pontifical Benediction was then bestowed by his Grace the Archbishop, and thus concluded one of the most interesting ceremonials ever witnessed by the Catholic faithful of this city.

25 AUG. On the Feast of St. Louis took place the ceremony of the benediction of the new Franciscan convent at Amiens.

— The Loretto Nuns ordered a large cross, to surmount the highest tower of Loughcooter Castle Convent, so as to be seen for miles around; they also directed a great bell to be hung. The altar whereat the late Daniel O'Connell prayed in Richmond prison, Dublin, is erected at the end of the grand saloon in the Castle.

— The clergy of Kilmacduagh and Kilfenora celebrated the months' mind of their late bishop, the Right Rev. Dr. Ffrench, and likewise met their metropolitan, the Most Rev. Dr. M'Hale, for the purpose of giving their suffrages towards the selection of his successor, in the church of Gort. A solemn High Mass was sung; the Rev. Messrs. Shannon, P.P., Grealy and Kenny, of Maynooth, acted as celebrant, deacon, and sub-deacon. Shortly after the High Mass, the Mass of the Holy Ghost was said, as usual, before the Archbishop and clergy proceeded to elect a bishop for the diocese. The first three names (the Rev. Patrick Fallon, P.P., Tuclea, Kilfenora, Very Rev. John Sheehan, V.C. of Kilfenora, P.P. of Ennistymon, and the Very Rev. Michael Nagle, V.C. of Kilmacduagh, and P.P.), were sent to Rome.

SEP. 1. Bishop of Hexham installed in his Cathedral, Newcastle. The whole of the Canons of St. Mary's were present with various clergymen of the diocese. After Mass, the Bishop came forward to the front of the altar, and in a very appropriate address remarked he could not think of allowing the congregation to depart without saying a few words in reference to the ceremony which had just been witnessed, which, in consequence of the laws of this country, had not been on so magnificent a scale, nor attended with those accompaniments which excited so much the devotion of the faithful. Whilst they were willing for peace sake to abstain from that which was merely ceremonial.

10. On this morning, at 8 o'Clock, His Grace the Archbishop celebrated Mass in the above Church, at which 150 Male and Female children received their first Communion, having been prepared by the Christian Doctrine Society of the Church. High Mass at 11 o'Clock, at which His Grace, the Archbishop, presided. The Very Rev. F. W. Faber, the celebrated convert from Protestantism, preached immediately after the Gospel. Solemn benediction, as on the preceding day.

Oct 1. The Devotion of the Forty Hours in honour of the Adorable Sacrament introduced with great splendour into the Archdiocese of Dublin, by his Grace the Archbishop. The spiritual exercises began, very suitably, in every point of view, in the Cathedral Church of the Immaculate Conception, Marlborough-street, and has been, thank God, continued by all the Parishes in Dublin; whose example is being followed by the rural parishes. The blaze of wax tapers, the crowds assembled at the congregations, comprising persons of all ranks, and the gorgeous splendour of the robes of the clergy, headed in almost every instance by the Most Rev. prelate who rules this portion of the Church—have had the most salutary and consoling effects on the minds and hearts of the faithful. This Devotion has not been very usual in Ireland, though it is old and practised on the continent. Considering the horrid blasphemies offered daily and hourly against our Divine Redeemer in this “abridgment of the miracles” of His love for sinful creatures; bearing in mind the overt acts of blasphemy, yet more awful than have ever before manifested themselves in the United Kingdom—we cannot express how warmly we hail the happy advent of an opportunity to the faithful to make atonement, in some degree, to the majesty and mercy of the gracious Being who humbles himself so lowly for our sakes in this miracle of His wisdom and love. The venerable Henry Boudon, Archdeacon of Evreux, who has been compared to the holy bishop of St. Agatha, in his ardour and devotion, has left us “a crown of twenty-four adorations in honour of the most Adorable Sacrament, to atone for the blasphemies committed against our Lord during the twenty-four hours of the day and night, in this Divine Sacrament.” If in the day of that venerable Doctor such a crown were necessary, such atonement imperatively called for—a fortiori, at the present hour, up to which the impiety of sinners gradually increases—and we believe cannot increase much more. To dwell on the enormities that have assailed our ears were a species of blasphemy, per se; and we have only to echo the sentiments of the illustrious prelate sent to rule us, to create a spirit for this glorious exercise of devotion partially active throughout Ireland in visits, and at public Benediction of the Adorable Sacrament, to insure the co-operation of our brethren, here and in distant climes, in united praise and adoration of our Lord in every tabernacle of Jacob. Let us then in the words of an eminent Doctor well known to the Archdeacon of Evreux, thus invite all:

“Que chacun donc humblement vienne,
Adorer ce Saint Sacrement;
En voyant ceder, l'ombre ancienne,
Au jour du nouveau Testament;
Si les sens s'y trouve imbecile,
La foi nous le rendra facile.”

The adorations we allude to above, from the pen of the venerable Archdeacon of Evreux, with a “Perpetual Adoration,” &c., never before published in Ireland, will be found in a new edition of the “Catholic Piety” (to be had of the printer and publisher of this REGISTER), translated by permission of superiors, from eminent Doctors of the Church. The act of Perpetual Adoration is the most comprehensive we have ever read; for those unable to attend the churches it will prove peculiarly useful.

[For His Grace's Pastoral, see Documentary Registry, p. 175].

10. Meeting held for the purpose of establishing a Catholic Ragged School in the Parish of St. Andrew, Westland-row. It was presided over by the Very Rev. W. Meyler, P.P., D.D., and was under the patronage of the Most Rev. Paul, Lord Archbishop of Dublin, The object of these schools is to give the children of poor Catholics suitable literary and religious instruction. By these means the founders hope effectually to counteract the proselytisers who go about offering soup, &c., to poor creatures, to induce them to sell the faith of Jesus Christ, and, by ultimate apostacy, "crucify again and make a mockery" of their Redeemer. Resolutions were adopted which we hope will be fully carried out by all parties.

15. The Ecclesiological Society met in council; the Rev. Dr. Russell, President, presiding. Resolved—"That large-paper copies of the prints of the Dusseldorf Christian Art-Union for this year be presented to members of the Society for 1852." The subjects of the engravings are: The Descent of the Holy Ghost, the Guardian Angel, and SS. Barnabas, Jerome, Gregory, Augustine, Ambrose, Hubert, and Teresa. Specimens of rich brocaded silks for vestments, figured laces, &c., manufactured in Dublin, through the liberal co-operation of Mr. Donegan, of Ormond-quay, were presented to the Council by V. Rev. Dr. Moriarty. Fathers Cahier and Martin, the eminent French Ecclesiologists, and authors of the "Monographie des Vitraux de la Cathedrale Bourges," were elected honorary members. Dr. Lyons was elected treasurer, in the room of the late W. N. Skelly, Esq.

— Ensign Taylor, of the 9th Regiment, interrupted the congregation at Ballinrobe, by withdrawing the soldiers under his authority before the conclusion of the Holy Sacrifice. The Rev. Mr. Conway complained to the Commander of the Forces. The "gallant" officer proved that like everything else, hearing had "two handles." His defence was—firstly, that he was deaf and thought the Holy Sacrifice had concluded; secondly, that when he gave the order he heard some political observations from Dr. Conway. This hero, to whom "the Duke" was but "Corporal Trim," reminds us of the logician who felt heat and cold at the same moment. The logician was a harmless experimentalist: the Ensign was looking for "reputation," which, in time of peace, could not be found in "the cannon's mouth;" if war raged, indeed, this son of Mars might, like a certain Major of our acquaintance, be found at "the rear of the baggage;" he would have been safe there, but at Ballinrobe the case he thought was otherwise.

In the evening, after complin service, the Cardinal delivered a lecture on the "Unity of the Church," and for two hours was heard with delight, so impressive and conclusive was his reasoning, and so sublime and captivating the eloquence with which he described the Divine Unity or oneness of Christ's Church, "the one fold of the one shepherd."

— The Right Rev. Dr. O'Reilly, Bishop of Hartford, U. S., visited All Hallows College, Dublin, from which his Lordship has received several clergymen, and in which he has several students for his diocese.

21. Consecration of the Most Rev. Dr. Dixon, Lord Archbishop of Armagh, and Primate of all Ireland. The history of the Catholic Church in Ireland for the last few years, is full of the deepest interest to her children, not only at home, but in every quarter of the globe. A wretched faction, headed by a third-rate statesman, in a paltry aroused the worst passions of our corrupt nature, jeopardising the peace, prosperity, and, in several instances, the lives and properties of the Queen's subjects, under pretence of guarding from the "aggression of a spiritual sovereign" the Church of which he, the third-rate statesman, was and is a very lukewarm and doubtful member. The "no-popery" cry of old was raised, and Catholicity was to have been rooted out of the land. The religion of hundreds of millions was scoffed, many of its anointed ministers insulted, and (oh, frightful profanation!) the picture of the holy Mother of God was burned in public, and the cross of Christ spit upon and trampled under the feet of an infuriated populace. The mitres were to have been knocked off the heads of our venerable prelates; and statutes were enacted which would do honour to the reign of Elizabeth herself; but the hand of the great Invisible Head of the Church has directed and succoured His Vicar on earth, "behold I am with you," though not heard "speaks to the eye," among the promises of Him, which will exist when heaven and earth shall have passed away. Those recent events are full of deep interest. Campbell, assisted by English jurors, has done his duty, Europe and the world look to the finale of a trial whose particulars, too loathsome to be referred to more minutely, call to mind invisible interposition. Two illustrious prelates, the successors of SS. Patrick and Laurence, depart this life, and two illustrious prelates, Drs. Cullen and Dixon, the latter at Armagh, the former at Dublin, are appointed to succeed them. We know how the enemies of the Catholic Church exerted themselves on the death of the late venerable Archbishop Murray—the enemy of the veto—to obstruct the appointment of a prelate truly Irish by birth and feeling, truly Roman and Catholic by conviction, education, and long residence in the Eternal City; but in vain; the glorious Pontiff who fills the chair of Peter was deaf to all intrigue, and this distinguished son of Ireland succeeds Dr. Murray with powers above all the prelates of his native land, as delegate Apostolic of him whose cathedral is at Rome, and whose diocese is the orb of the universe. Next in importance is the elevation of Dr. Dixon to the primatial dignity, which, coupled with the appointment of the Archbishop of Dublin, is a subject of joy to every sincere Catholic. What a lesson for men in high places! What a warning for future statesmen! properly so called: few if any of which are now to be found within this realm. On the 21st of November, his Grace the Most Rev. Dr. Dixon was consecrated at the College of St. Patrick, Maynooth, Lord Archbishop of Armagh, and Primate of all Ireland. The Prelates assembled were his Grace the Most Rev. Paul, Archb. of Dublin, Apostolical Administrator of Armagh, Primate of Ireland, and Delegate of the Apostolic See: the Most Rev. John, Lord Archb. of Tuam; the Right Rev. Francis Haly, Lord Bishop of Kildare and Leighlin; the Right Rev. Dr. M'Gettigan, Lord Bishop of Raphoe; the Right Rev. Dr. O'Higgins, Lord Bishop of Ardagh; the Right Rev. Dr. Cantwell, Lord Bishop of Meath; the Right Rev. Dr. Denvir, Lord Bishop of Down and Connor; the Right Rev. Dr. M'Nally, Lord Bishop of Clogher; the Right Rev. Dr. Ryan, Lord Bishop of Limerick; the Right Rev. Dr. Delany, Lord Bishop of Cork; the Right Rev. Dr. Murphy, Lord Bishop of Cloyne; the Right Rev. Dr. Walsh, Lord Bishop of Ossory; the Right Rev. Dr. Browne, Lord Bishop of Elphin; the Right Rev. Dr. Derry, Lord Bishop of Clonfert; the Right Rev. Dr. Whelan, Lord Bishop of Bombay; the Right Rev. Dr. Errington; and the Right Rev. Dr. Browne, Lord Bishop of Kilmore. Among the dignitaries were the Very Rev. W. Yore, V.G., Dublin; the Very Rev. Dr. Kieran, V.G., Armagh; with a very numerous body of the clergy, from Dublin, and the surrounding country. The officiating prelates were his Grace the Archbishop of Dublin, assisted by the Right Rev. Dr. Browne, Bishop of Kilmore, and the Right Rev. Dr. Errington; the Rev. Dr. Ford and the Rev. Matthew Keogh acted as masters of the ceremonies. The ceremonial opened with a grand High Mass proper to the occasion. After the Introit and the Gloria, the Archbishop elect was led forth, robed in a new vestment, &c. He knelt before the Archbishop of Dublin, who sat in front of the altar. The authorization documents from the Holy See were then read, commanding the consecration of the Most Rev. Dr. Dixon. The form of postulation was then gone through. The solemn interrogatories were put, and replied to by the Archbishop elect, who knelt prostrate at the foot of the altar, and at the feet of the Lord Archbishop of Dublin. Nothing could be more impressive or sublime than this portion of the ceremonial, invoking the rites of consecration over the Archbishop elect. The ceremonies of the Church, grand and imposing in every department, are pre-eminently so in the elevation of priests to the sublime dignity of the prelacy. At the Offertory, the elect, with the prelates assisting, returned to the great altar, and there presented his offering to the consecrating Prelate, namely—two lighted wax-torches; two loaves, one gilt, the other silvered; and two small casks of wine, one cask of silver, the other of gold;—making reverence to the Most Reverend Prelate, who sat, mitred, while receiving them. This was one of the most interesting of spectacles, particularly to the antiquarian. The pledges given as to purity of heart, holiness of purpose, the impression of the sacred volume—the Bible—upon the shoulders of the prostrate prelate elect; the imposition of hands; the solemn invocation to Almighty God, to send His holy spirit upon him; the invocation of the saints, to aid the prayers of the faithful on earth in communion, on behalf of the new pastor of God's people; the peculiar prayers and observances of the Mass; the moving supplication in the Preface to our Divine Redeemer—the High Priest and Victim, and whose great sacrifice was about to be offered—appealed to, to ratify, sanctify, and accept the sacrifice offered to the Eternal Father, in the name of His adorable Son; the anointing of the head and hands of the prelate elect with holy chrism; the blessing and imposition of the mitre; that of the crosier or pastoral staff, placed within his right hand, thus constituting the prelate elect a ruler of the people of the Lord, and a High Priest for ever;—all those sublime ceremonies must have had and have indeed had great influence on the minds and hearts of those who had the happiness of beholding them. The Very Rev. the Dean, and the principal dignitaries of the College, assisted at the splendid ceremonial. The choir, composed of a select body of the students, chanted the hymns and canticles proper to the occasion with great power and effect, and the responses were sung by the entire body of the students, numbering upwards of 500, with a correctness, scientific judgment, pathos, and beauty, far exceeding in point of elevating the soul to God, all the splendour and grandeur of the organ. At the conclusion his Grace the Most Rev. the Primate and Lord Archbishop of Armagh, was conducted round the chapel, and conferred his benediction on the multitude kneeling, and subsequently from the altar his Grace bestowed on all the faithful present his first pontifical benediction. There were present at the ceremonial the Most Noble the Marquis and Marchioness of Kildare, Lord Bellew, A. S. Hussey and W. H. Wilberforce, Esqrs., and a numerous body of the gentry and citizens of the metropolis.

"Party race, Jostling by dark intrigue for place,"

22. The solemnities of the Jubilee opened in the new church of St. James, James's-street. The Church blazed with wax-lights, and everything was conducted with the greatest splendour. High Mass was celebrated at eleven o'clock by the Right Rev. Dr. O'Connor, Lord Bishop of Saldes; deacon, Rev. J. Gilligan; sub-deacon, Rev. A. Doran; master of the ceremonies, Rev. J. Fay; surrounded by numerous youths trained for service at the altar. There was a considerable number of the clergy present, including the pastor, Rev. J. Smyth, and the Rev. Dr. Laphen. Haydn's grand High Mass was magnificently performed by the choir. Sermon by V. Rev. Dr. Moriarty. The Adorable Sacrament was borne in procession by the Lord Bishop of Saldes.

22. Contributions pouring in to the fund for the defence of the Very Rev. Dr. Newman. In England alone—we do not speak of France or Ireland—about £7000 has already been subscribed. A new trial has been granted by Mr. Justice Campbell, upon the ground that judgment was contrary to the weight of evidence. Sir G. Cockburn's speech attacking the partiality of the jury, was powerful, and

24. The Misses Agnes and Anna M. Kenyon, sisters of the Rev. J. Kenyon, made their solemn profession as nuns of the Presentation Convent, at Sexton-street, Limerick.

27. The devotion of the Forty Hours' Adoration of the Most Holy Sacrament concluded in St. Peter's Church, Phibsborough, in the presence of a vast congregation. His Grace the newly-consecrated Lord Archbishop of Armagh, and Primate of all Ireland. The ceremonies began with a solemn High Mass. His Grace bore the remonstrance under a gorgeous canopy, provided for the occasion. There was a numerous assemblage of priests, who chanted the "Pange lingua," accompanied by the organ. The ceremonies concluded with Benediction of the Adorable Sacrament, and a recital of the Litanies. His Grace gave the Pontifical blessing, after which the congregation retired. When the Church of Phibsborough shall have been completed, it will present the first spire erected on a Catholic church in this city, since what is called the Reformation. The whole building reflects honour on Mr. Burke, the architect.

— Devotion of the Forty Hours' Adoration concluded at Clontarf.

— The Treasurer of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul received £4 from Anonymous, to the funds of the Society.

— Father de Helde, Superior of the order of Redemptorists, arrived in Limerick, for the purpose of forming a permanent establishment of the order there.

— The Oratorians, in King William-street, London, completed the purchase of a property on the Brompton-road, near Trinity Church. They will build a house on the site, which is  $3\frac{3}{4}$  acres in extent, and cost £16,000, of which £10,000 was given by one lady!

— Our distinguished countryman, the Rev. D. W. Cahill, D.D., delivered a magnificent farewell address to the people of Preston.

— The Right Rev. Dr. Hendren, who (alone in obedience to the Holy Father) accepted the onerous charge of the diocese of Nottingham, has tendered his resignation. We regret that the delicate health of his Lordship has caused this step.

— The clergy of Tuam, "indifferent to the political warfare of mere parliamentary factions," have resolved to oppose "any party" who will not consent to the abolishment of the Protestant Church Establishment, and secure justice to the tiller of the soil.

— The Count de Montalembert published a powerful pamphlet "Des Intérêts Catholiques au XIX. Siècle," contrasting the situation of Catholicism in 1800 and 1852. It speaks in the highest terms of the fidelity of Belgium to the chair of Peter. Her sons have won liberty for themselves and their children, and on the pedestal of their conquests they have founded again, firmly, the Church, "the Pillar and the ground of Truth." Holland is equally entitled to praise. Persecution against Catholics has long subsisted there. The blasts of winter, destroying vegetation, are succeeded by the soft zephyrs of returning spring producing vernal verdure. Jansenism is disappearing and true Christianity, "gravity of manners, fervour, and pious munificence," secure the interests of the Church of God. France, glorious France! whose doctors of old have left to succeeding generations the most powerful and eloquent proofs of their attachment to the Faith once delivered to the saints — France, which for a time fell away from her pristine glory, seems in progress of regeneration, and daily and hourly becomes a richer jewel in the tiara of the Sovereign Pontiff. The Emperor Napoleon, who, whatever may have been his faults, after having suffered for them, it is to be hoped, died and with his last breath confessed the faith ordering his venerable chaplain to celebrate the Divine Mysteries for his soul frequently. Napoleon who declared, surrounded by his eagles in the mid-day splendour of his glory, that the happiest day of his life was that of his first-communion, is succeeded in his power by a member of his family whose whole conduct particularly his noble "rush to the rescue" of the Vicar of Jesus Christ and his Church, endears him to France and to the whole world which seems in motion towards the One-fold in submission to the voice of the One true Shepherd. The Count, in brilliant terms, alludes to Ireland and to the Liberator of Ireland as to his triumph over the conqueror of the "Conqueror and Captive of the Earth," enters into a general review of ecclesiastical affairs in those countries, and en passant alludes to the Immaculate Conception of the Holy Mother of God, concluding with these beautiful remarks on the French troops kneeling to receive the Benediction of our Glorious Pontiff—which he pronounces the noblest of all spectacles, and which called forth the repetition, in grateful admiration, of the words engraven by Sixtus V. on the obelisk of Nero "Vicit leo de tribu Juda : fugite, partes adversæ. Christus vicit, Christus regnat, Christus ab omni malo plebem suam defendat"—words which remind us of those of Julian the apostate, who, with his last breath, when struck down on the field of slaughter, cried out, blasphemously addressing Christ, "Tu as vaincu Galilæen !"

27. The report of a reprimand from the Holy See to the Archbishop of Tuam contradicted on authority; also as to the Holy Father's entertaining a notion of concession on the subject of the infidel Colleges. These reports proving "weak inventions of the enemy."

— A branch of the Christian Brothers, and one of the Sisters of Charity are about to be established in Kilkenny, by desire of the Catholic clergy. We congratulate the citizens on the happy event.

— Miss Maria O'Connell received the white veil at the Presentation Convent, Limerick, from the hands of the Right Rev. Dr. Ryan, the Lord Bishop.

— The Rev. Dr. Cahill, the highly accomplished divine and brilliant orator, delivered a course of nine lectures on Astronomy, the proceeds of which are to be given to the erection of St. Walburgh's church, Preston. His audiences were very numerous.

— The following gentlemen have left All Hallows College, for their respective missions: Rev. Messrs. B. Murphy and C. Tuomy, in charge of the Right Rev. Dr. Grant, for Sydney; and the Rev. J. M'Grane, for Agra.

27. The Mayor of Limerick is in treaty with Hogan, the celebrated artist, for a design of a monument to the illustrious Liberator of Ireland, to be erected in that city. At the time of the general collection throughout the country for a national monument, £150 was collected in Limerick, which sum has since remained in the treasurers' hands. This sum will, no doubt, be augmented by the many who cherish the memory, and do not forget the services of Ireland's purest patriot, and most gifted champion.

28. The following splendid Pastoral of our Archbishop, as read in the various Churches in Dublin;

PASTORAL OF HIS GRACE THE MOST REV. DR. CULLEN, ON THE FEAST OF THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION.

Paul, by the Grace of God and of the Apostolic See, Archbishop of Dublin, Primate of Ireland, &c. &c., to the Catholic Clergy and laity of the diocese of Dublin, &c.

During these days of grace and benediction, when the fountain of the divine clemency has been poured forth for us in all its fulness in the indulgence and favours of the Jubilee, and the treasures of the divine goodness contained in the Sacrament of the Altar have been placed before us in the most attractive form in the solemn ceremony of Exposition, we should not be unmindful of the debt of gratitude which we owe to our glorious Patroness the Mother of Mercy and the cause of our joy, to whose intercession we stand so much indebted for these Heavenly benefits and consolations. Let us, then, dearly-beloved, prepare to discharge the gratifying duty of paying this tribute of love and veneration to our Blessed Lady for the continual exercise of her maternal care and protection over us on the approach of the festival which is to commemorate one of the most exalted of all her privileges—her Immaculate Conception. Identified as Mary is with the ineffable mystery of the Incarnation—inseparably linked with all that is sublime in its sanctity, boundless in its love, sweet and tender in its condescension, the very privilege we are about to commemorate furnishes us with a most appropriate lesson on the sanctity which should adorn the Christian character. For, if such is the horror of sin entertained by Almighty God, that he would not suffer the shadow of original guilt to sully the spirit of the human agent, whom he employed in the work of redemption, we have reason to ponder deeply the words of St. Peter addressed to Christians of every grade and condition of life: “According to him who hath called you, who is holy, be you also, in all manner of conversation holy. Because it is written, you shall be holy, for I am holy”—1. Peter, i. 15, 16. Again he reminds us: “You are a chosen generation, a kingly priesthood, a holy nation, a purchased people, that you may declare his virtues who hath called you out of darkness into his marvellous light”—ibid., ii. 9.

Yes, dearly-beloved, such is the holiness of that Being whom we serve, and such the sanctity he requires of every member of the Christian religion, that he calls upon all to be perfect according to their respective states of life; and as he would not tolerate for a moment the shadow of sin in the soul of Mary, which, as the mirror of justice, was destined to reflect his purity in all its unshaded brightness; so neither will he suffer us to appear in the kingdom of his glory until every stain of sin and every defilement of earth shall have been washed away by the waters of Penance, and we stand immaculate in his presence.

Hence, as only a few weeks remain of the time prescribed in this diocese, for gaining the indulgence of the Jubilee, we earnestly entreat all those who have not profited as yet of those days of grace and salvation, and who have been for any considerable time without approaching the sacraments, not to despise the riches of the mercy and goodness of God, nor to treasure up “wrath for themselves against the day of wrath,” by hardening their hearts against the appeal he now makes to them through the ministers of his gospel. They should reflect that they stand on the brink of eternity, an eternity of unspeakable misery or happiness, and that they cannot calculate with certainty on a single day or hour of the future, for the Son of Man will come like a thief in the night when least expected; and that, if found unprepared, they will be condemned to a penance the most terrible the divine justice can inflict—a penance without hope, without merit, without end, where the worm never dieth, and the fire is never extinguished.

Amongst the first acts of preparation, we admonish them to have recourse to an advocate, who combines in a pre-eminent degree, all the qualities which can render an intercessor most efficient—extraordinary power and clemency, with an ardent desire to grant their petitions. For this purpose, let them join the rest of the Faithful of this diocese, in the spiritual exercises of a novena previous to the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, which will be celebrated on the 8th of the ensuing month.

These exercises, in which we exhort all committed to our charge without exception, to unite, either in the churches or in their own houses, according as their circumstances may permit, will consist in the Rosary and Litany of the Blessed Virgin, with the prayers of the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, for the Pope, and Deus Refugium nostrum. It is most desirable that a short instruction on the great mysteries of religion should be given each day with the benediction of the Most Holy Sacrament. The novena will commence on the 29th November.

An indulgence of seven years may be gained each time any person attends the novena. All persons who attend it three times and receive the sacraments of Penance and the Eucharist during the novena or octave, may gain a plenary indulgence.

And as during the trials and visitations of the present day, we cannot cease to exhort you without intermission on the subject of fraternal charity, it may not be unnecessary to remind you, that we shall render one of the most grateful tributes to our Blessed Lady by imitating her example in the practice of this virtue. When she fled from the persecution of Herod, sheltering the Divine Infant in her breast, she foreshadowed the office of Christian charity under a persecution more cruel than that which tore the children from their mothers' arms, and consigned them to the sword of the executioner. The young, the innocent, and the helpless appeal to us, to save them not from martyrdom; but from that second everlasting death, which consigns soul and body to the abyss of hopeless ruin. The agents of proselytism still endeavour to tear from the bosom of the Church those little ones whom she loves so dearly, and her voice is heard like that of Rachel, bewailing their unhappy fate in accents of the bitterest anguish.

Woe to the unnatural parents who consent to sell back again to Satan, for the wretched dross of the world, the souls that have been purchased by the precious blood of Christ. No mind can conceive, no tongue can express, the enormity of their guilt, or the rigours of the judgment with which it shall be visited. For your parts, dearly-beloved, be vigilant, zealous, and persevering in counteracting this demoralizing system of proselytism by all the lawful means in your power, particularly by assisting, according to your circumstances the efforts of those who are employed in the meritorious work of establishing schools for religious education, and giving missions amongst the poor. Experience teaches us that those who have been well instructed in the principles of our holy religion, and who have been taught its practices by its zealous and devoted ministers, never become the prey of the proselytiser; while those who have been brought up in ignorance, without any knowledge of the mysteries of our faith, without approaching the holy sacraments, those who have spent their days in immorality and vice, easily lose their faith, and, abandoned to their iniquities, fall into the abyss of heresy and infidelity.

The appearance of godliness assumed by the false prophets engaged in this insidious but most cruel species of persecution, might deceive some, did not our divine Redeemer forewarn us that they would be known by their fruits, and did not the glaring contradiction they exhibit in their conduct prove that they are the seducers denounced in the gospel, whose mission is from the father of lies. The advocates of all that is intolerant and persecuting amongst us, they appear in foreign countries as the ardent apostles of liberty: whilst endeavouring to forge new chains for their Catholic countrymen at home, they proclaim themselves in distant lands as the friends of the captive, anxious to burst his fetters, and to throw open his prison doors: denouncing our constitutional efforts to obtain redress of grievances as seditious and disloyal, they seem linked in purpose and companionship with all the troubled and disaffected spirits of the Continent, sapping the security of government, and scattering on all sides the fires of revolution. Pretending that they appeal to the impartial decision of reason alone on the subject of religion, they go around with the mammon of iniquity amidst the victims of physical and moral destitution; and the famine-stricken, the infant, the orphan, the deaf mute, the helpless and unfortunate of every grade, in a word, all those who are incapable of forming an opinion for themselves, are the favourite objects of the zeal of those preachers of private judgment.

Such being their characteristic mode of action, we should not be surprised that they have selected as the types and exponents of their system—as the heroes whom they venerate—degraded and profligate apostates from distant countries—men who have astonished and shocked the moral world by the prodigy of their crimes, the recklessness of their calumnies, or the daring excess of their blasphemies.

But the Church of God will continue to pursue her triumphant course—deriving but new energy and speed from the troubled waters that surround, and the fury of the tempest that assails her. Divinely commissioned to teach the truth, she trusts not to the sword, the temporal power, or the mammon of iniquity, but to its own native force to bring conviction to the mind. The friend of rational liberty in every age and country, she has been at all times the determined enemy of licentiousness—the uniform patroness of the oppressed, she has never ceased to inculcate the love of peace and order, submission and obedience to just laws, and respect for legitimate authority. Her sentiments on this matter have always been in accordance with the exhortation addressed by his present Holiness to the universal Church, in his encyclical of the 19th November, 1846: “Take care,” he says, addressing the bishops of the world, “that you inculcate upon Christian people due obedience and subjection to sovereigns and authorities; teaching them to conform to the doctrine of the Apostle, that there is no power which cometh not from God, and that they who resist the power, resist the ordinance of God, and expose themselves to condemnation; and that they cannot, without sin, violate the precept of obedience to authority, unless something be commanded contrary to the laws of God or of the Church."

There is another practice of charity of a very meritorious kind, of which our Blessed Lady has given the example, and the opportunity of exercising which is frequently presented in the bosom of your own families. In the promptitude and affection with which Mary visited St. Elizabeth, you have a noble example of the zeal and charity with which you ought to procure the aids and consolation of religion for the members of your own family, when in a sick or dying state. Your faithful and devoted clergy are ready to visit such when called upon, not only once, but frequently, as often as you may require, and their services may be necessary or useful. It is their ardent desire to give continual consolation, to assist the dying in their last moments, and to secure for them a happy eternity. They only require of you to call on them at a seasonable stage of the disease, before it has prostrated the mental powers of the sufferer, and at an early hour in the day; before they are impeded by the pressure of their other numerous and engrossing duties.

It is thus, dearly-beloved, by fervently invoking the intercession, and faithfully imitating the virtues of Mary, we shall render her a most acceptable tribute of honour and devotion, and that when we shall have thus sanctified the season of Advent, and shall kneel in thanksgiving before the mystic Bethlehem on that great festival, which shall cause the heart of the Universal Church to throb with joy, the poor tribute of our praises and gratitude may be found worthy to mingle with the rapturous homage of her whose sinless life and immaculate heart make atonement for the neglect and ingratitude of a guilty world—in the cold and gloomy cave which witnessed the first transports of a mother's love and adoration. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen.

Dublin, November 23rd, 1852.

30. Right Rev. Patrick Durcan consecrated Lord Bishop of Achonry. His Grace the Most Rev. John, Lord Archbishop of Tuam, as Metropolitan, was the consecrating prelate, assisted by the other suffragan bishops.

Biographical Register.

"If a man live many years, and have rejoiced in them all, he must remember the darksome time, and the many days; which, when they shall come, the things passed shall be accused of vanity. Rejoice, therefore, O young man in thy youth, and let thy heart be in that which is good in the days of thy youth, and walk in the ways of thy heart, in the sight of thy eyes; and know that for all these God will bring thee into judgment. Remove anger from thy heart, and put away evil from thy flesh, for youth and pleasure are vain."

REV. JOHN KIRK, D.D., LICHFIELD.

This venerable divine died at Lichfield, on the 21st of December, 1851, in the ninety-first year of his age, and sixty-seventh anniversary of his first Mass, celebrated at Rome, on the festival of St. Thomas the Apostle. The venerable priest was truly patriarchal in age and simplicity of manners, and was identified in his sphere with the Catholic affairs of nearly a century! He was a living chronicle of persons, places, and historical facts connected with the English Church, of which he was an Apostle. He was born at Acton Burnell, near Shrewsbury, on the 13th of April, 1760, and was educated at Sedgby Park School, about that period established by the Rev. W. Errington, the friend of the celebrated Dr. Challoner, patron of the establishment. Dr. Kirk left for Rome in 1773, and was received into College just six months before the suppression of the Jesuits. The College, after many vicissitudes, was finally suppressed by the French under Berthier, in 1798, and restored, twenty years after, by Pius VII. After many perils from sickness, &c., Dr. Kirk left Rome for England in 1785. After a long and honourable career on the Mission, and in connexion with schools and colleges, in the discharge of the duties connected with which he received the warm eulogiums of eminent prelates, and other superiors, he, in obedience, set out for Lichfield, where he entered upon the work of building a temple to the honour of God, and a residence for the pastor of the district, "with spirits higher than his prospects," to borrow the language of one of his eulogists. The church was opened for divine service in 1803. By the aid of the Catholic nobility and gentry it was refronted and enlarged, and in 1834 was completed the elegant Norman church of St. Cross, Lichfield, to which Thomas Weld, Esq., contributed "the Crucifixion," a masterpiece from the pencil of the celebrated De Bruyn, a Flemish painter. His zeal for religion prompted him in 1829 to purchase a plot of land from old Sir Robert Peel, near Tamworth, on which a commodious church now stands, much to the interests of Catholicity, under the pastoral charge of the Rev. James Kelly, ordained and highly recommended to Dr. Kirk by the celebrated Dr. Doyle, whose recommendations of the Rev. Mr. Kelly, the prosperity of the Mission more than fully substantiates. "Dr. Kirk's soul," to borrow again from his eulogist, "was always in and upon the Church. He formed a perfect specimen of the olden times, a type of the fine old English priest, methodical, dignified, devout, adorning religion, and inculcating it by precept and by practice . . . . . His mission seemed conservative rather than diffusive, and he laboured to consolidate and to perfect what he found where no great facilities existed to extend the faith. His labours were in the cabinet rather than in the field, in the study rather than in the pulpit." The talents as well as the literary attainments of Dr. Kirk were of a high order. He devoted himself to private tuitions, and had some distinguished pupils; but his darling pursuit was a continuation of Dodd's "Church History of England," for which during his residence at Rome, and for upwards of forty years of his long life he was preparing materials. To give the reader an idea of the labours of our patriarch in this respect, he collected letters, tracts, annals, records, diaries, &c., which he transcribed with his own hands, to the amount of fifty volumes in folio and quarto. Finding publication out of his power, he returned to the respective owners the pamphlets, &c., and assigned what was properly his to the Rev. M. A. Tierney, F.R.S., F.S.A., whose fitness for the trust has been admirably proved by the five volumes of "Dodd" already published, and whose continuation will be hailed by Catholics generally. Dr. Kirk at the request of his friend, Sir Thomas Constable, about 1794, undertook the laborious decyphering, copying, and preparation (for publication) of the interesting State-papers of Sir Ralph Sadler, "the right trusty and well-beloved counsellor" of Queen Elizabeth, and one of the royal gaolers of the unfortunate Mary, Queen of Scots, during her confinement in Tutbury Castle. Those papers were published in 1809, by Arthur Clifford, Esq., three volumes quarto, with a biographical sketch by Sir Walter Scott. To the honour of Dr. Kirk we transcribe Mr. Clifford's acknowledgments: "In particular I have to acknowledge the infinite obligation which I owe to my amiable and learned friend, the Rev. John Kirk, of Lichfield, without whose kindness, zeal, and ability in copying the original papers, this work would most probably never have seen the light." Dr. Kirk, quite in character, undertook with the Rev. Joseph Berrington, to supply a deficiency in religious controversy, entitled "the Faith of Catholics confirmed by Scripture, and attested by the Fathers of the five first centuries." This work is now well known, and does good service by the side of Milner's "End of Religious Controversy;" but its value has been greatly enhanced by the additions and revisions of the Rev. Dr. Walbrworth. Some exceptions had been taken against the accuracy of the "Propositions" forming the heads of the work. Dr. Kirk published in 1815 a very interesting pamphlet of one hundred pages, entitled "Roman Catholic principles in reference to God and the King, first published in 1680," &c. This is a very masterly production, and proves the author of the "Principles" to have been the Rev. James Croker, Abbot of Lamspring, a fellow-prisoner of Archbishop Plunkett and Lord Stafford, the innocent victims of the fanatic perjuries of that awful period. Dr. Kirk's contributions to the periodicals of his day are numerous and highly valued by the section of the Church of which he was an ornament. The highest authority on earth did not omit to acknowledge his sense of the great powers and efficiency of this venerable ecclesiastic. By diploma, dated the 9th of November, 1841, his Holiness Pope Gregory XVI. created the learned gentleman a Doctor in divinity. In compliance with the desire of his relations, and, indeed, in accordance with his own, the remains of the learned Doctor were deposited in his own little church, St. Cross, Lichfield. A solemn Requiem Mass having been offered by his friend, the Rev. Dr. Weedall, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Moore, and the clergy and choir of St. Mary's College, Oscott.—Peace to the ashes, and eternal rest to the soul of the Rev. John Kirk, D.D. Amen.

MRS. MARY JOHN BAPTIST PRAYNE.

The Presentation Convent, Wexford, has suffered a severe loss in Mrs. Teresa Frayne, who died on the 31st of January last, to the inexpressible grief of her attached community, and a wide circle of friends. At the early age of twenty-one this lamented lady consecrated herself to God, and for thirty-three years devoted herself to the education of the children of the poor, many of whom have been snatched from the paths of vice, and rendered good and prosperous members of society. She was unanimously chosen superioress for her piety, holy zeal, and high endowments. Her name in religion was Mary John Baptist. Never did a purer spirit wing its flight to the presence of the Saviour! May she rest in peace. Amen.

MEMOIR OF THE LATE MOST REV. DANIEL MURRAY, D.D.,

LORD ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN AND PRIMATE OF IRELAND.

“Nam cum liber essem ex omnibus, omnium me servum feci, ut plures lucrifacerem.”

“For whereas I was free to all, I made myself the servant of all, that I might gain the more.”—1 COR., ix. 19.

That locality and early collateral associations have influence on the minds of youth, is as true as that climate tends, in an eminent degree, to form the moral character of nations. Not in crowded cities and towns do we find themes to elevate the mind above this world.—Far otherwise, as regards the wild grandeur of hills and mountains, intersected by the torrent rushing to find its level in the vale, “lending enchantment” and sublimity to the tout ensemble of rural beauty. A moralist of great power tells us that “pure and peaceful souls feel an ineffable impression of the presence of the Divinity among vast cataracts and lofty mountains.” In allusion to the same subject we have those beautiful expressions from the inimitable Gray, speaking of the Chartreuse, near Grenoble, the happy retreat of so many celebrated Doctors of the Church:

“*Præsentiores conspicimus Deum
Rupes per altos, per juga devia;
Clivos præruptos, Sonantes
Inter aquas, nemorumque noctem!*”

Born amid the sublime scenery of Wicklow, on which the pen, the pencil, and the press have exhausted their powers of description and delineation. Nurtured on the very land where the mitred and beatified patriot St. Laurence first saw the day, and afterwards lent the influence of illustrious birth and exalted station in defence of the loved land of his fathers, we need little wonder, if we judge only from these premises, that the late Archbishop of Dublin should have imbibed those fine sentiments of religion, for which, through life, he was so eminently distinguished, and which have entitled him to be ranked, in death, with St. Charles Borromeo, successor of the great St. Ambrose, Archbishop of Milan. Daniel Murray was not less a patriot than St. Laurence—both held the sword of the Lord. St. Laurence drew it to aid the tottering independence of his beloved country Dr.

Murray, not less sensible of the duty of love, sheathed the same sword in the scabbard of conciliation. Each lived in ages very dissimilar. St. Laurence, viewed through the horoscope of time, shines in colossal proportions. Posterity alone can fully do justice to the memory of "that angel of a man"*—Daniel, Archbishop of Dublin.

To enable our readers in every quarter of the globe, now and in futurity, to form an opinion of the character of Dr. Murray, is the object of the following brief account of his life :

Daniel Murray was born of respectable parents, at Sheepwalk, near Arklow, in the County of Wicklow, on the 18th of April, 1768. Destined from childhood for the sacred profession, he received the rudiments of education, and at an early age was placed at the school of the pious and learned Rev. Dr. Betagh. The master was, no doubt, worthy a pupil who has been compared amongst others to St. Francis de Sales, Bishop and Prince of Geneva. We are told that Genebrard, Archbishop of Aix, one of the greatest of modern scholars, was tutor of St. Francis de Sales, who "gloried in his preceptor;" and there is no reason to doubt that the preceptor gloried in his pupil. What the then Mr. Murray thought of Dr. Betagh, we know little; but certain it is, that the Doctor must have felt proud of a pupil over whose early education he had presided, in whose subsequent literary career he must have felt deep interest, and whose consecration-sermon he had the pleasure of preaching on Mr. Murray's elevation to the high dignity of Archbishop of Dublin and Primate of Ireland.

At the close of Mr. Murray's academic education, he proceeded to the College of Salamanca, where, after a course in which he was distinguished for great piety, he received the holy order of the priesthood and returned to Ireland in 1790.

His first mission was the parish of Arklow, in his native county, where he continued until 1798. In the unfortunate affairs of that period Mr. Murray took no part, yet he had nearly fallen a victim to military violence. The parish priest of Arklow was murdered in his bed; and while Mr. Murray stood upon the altar surrounded by his horror-stricken flock, the bullet of the soldier was aimed at his person. Having providentially suffered no violence, he fled to Dublin, and by permission entered on his mission there in St. Paul's parish. He subsequently declined the office of parish priest of Clontarf, and laboured as an humble curate. He soon attracted the notice of his brethren in the sacred ministry, and we are told that his subsequent elevation was predicted by many competent to give an opinion. Dr. Troy, the then Archbishop, finding himself unable to discharge his sacred duties, applied to the Holy See for the appointment of Mr. Murray as his coadjutor and successor after his death. It may be observed, that Dr. Troy made the application without having, as is now the rule, consulted his clergy, who when subsequently made acquainted with the fact, unanimously approved of the wise selection made by their venerable chief.

All this time Mr. Murray was ignorant of the application in his favor to the Holy See. The first intimation he had had was on the very day the mandate for his consecration arrived, from Rome. On learning the fact, he was overwhelmed with surprise: with terror he fled to his old and venerated preceptor, Dr. Betagh, Vicar-general of the diocese, and in tears begged he would, by his influence, protect him from what he deemed a judgment from God for his sins. The venerable Betagh restored his friend to composure, and succeeded in convincing him that he should submit to the will of heaven. On the Festival of St. Andrew, 30th November, 1809, he was elevated to the Pontifical dignity, under the title of Archbishop of Hierapolis, and was consecrated in the old chapel, Liffey-street. The consecration having been the first in Ireland for many years, created considerable interest, equalled only by the joy of the clergy and laity at his elevation. The consecrating prelates were the Most Rev. J. T. Troy, D.D., the Right Rev. Dr. Ryan, Bishop of Ferns, and the Right Rev. Dr. Delany, the universally beloved Bishop of Kildare and Leighlin. Dr. Troy, himself, was consecrated on the Continent, and his predecessor, Dr. Carpenter, a fact not generally known, was consecrated in a temporary chapel at the residence of a Mr. Malone, Capel-street, Dublin.

At the instance of the Catholic prelates, Dr. Murray proceeded to Paris in 1800, to solicit from the French government the restoration of the property of religious establishments connected with Ireland. His Grace obtained all that the prelates demanded; and the Very Rev. Dr. Long, afterwards P.P. of St. Catherine's, Dublin, was appointed administrator-general of all the Irish establishments in France.

From 1812 to 1813, Dr. Murray, at the request of the Catholic Bishops of Ireland, discharged the duties of President of the College of Maynooth. His Grace appointed the Rev. P. Kenny, S.J., vice-president. The archbishop's administration is spoken of in the highest terms—he was mild and exact in government, enforcing submission by example rather than by precept. The testimony of the president and vice-president mutually reflected honor on both, and proved the warmth of the friendship that existed between them. Dr. Murray became one of the trustees of the College in 1820, and retained the honor till his death.

From 1810 to 1816, a period memorable for the discussion of what was called the Veto, the Most Rev. Prelate proved himself true to his religion and his country. We are told that the ballads of a nation are expressive of the principles of its people—moral, political and religious. In an old one we find these lines, which, though not very elegant, are at least expressive of the feelings of that period:

“If the Veto we would sign, they would grant us our petitions,
But we see thro’ their designs, and scorn their conditions.”

For the information of general readers, we need only say, that by the Veto we understand a right to government interference in the appointment of Catholic Bishops in Ireland. Against this, Dr. Murray protested, and his name appears to all the resolutions of the prelacy denouncing any attempt at a compromise, on the subject, with the English government. So conspicuous was Dr. Murray on this occasion, so high a position did he hold in the confidence of the hierarchy of Ireland, that at a meeting held in Dublin in June, 1814, the prelates deemed him eminently worthy to accompany the Rt. Rev. Dr. Milner to Rome, to protest against all compromise on the Veto—to express the unalterable determination of the bishops, priests, and people of Ireland, against a state pension for the Catholic clergy, and finally, to congratulate the Sovereign Pontiff on his liberation from captivity.

In July, 1814, Drs. Murray and Milner arrived in Rome. They were received by the Pope with marked attention; and notwithstanding the intrigues of the English government, to whom his Holiness certainly owed much, for some previous acts with respect to Napoleon, the Veto was formally condemned, and peace restored to the threatened Church of Ireland. While at Rome, Dr. Murray did not forget his beloved Ireland. He wrote several important letters, conveying an account of his mission. On his arrival in Dublin, in 1815, he gave a detailed account of all; and at a meeting of the Catholics of Ireland on the 23rd and 24th of August in that year, the Most Rev. Dr. Kelly, Archbishop of Tuam, presiding, it was resolved—"That their most grateful thanks were due and thereby given to the Most Rev. Dr. Murray and the Right Rev. Dr. Milner, their deputies to Rome, for their able and zealous discharge of the trust reposed in them." But this was not all. The friends of the veto and the intrigues of the government were still in motion; and at the above-named meeting it was resolved, that an address be presented to his Holiness, expressive of the determination of the Catholics of Ireland not to concede any influence in Catholic affairs to a Protestant government. Dr. Murray, Dr. Murphy, Bishop of Cork, and Dr. Blake (then P.P. SS. Michael and John's), now Bishop of Dromore, were named as the deputation—the last as secretary. The deputation returned early in 1816, having most effectually performed the duties of their mission, and were received with unbounded applause. Finding the vetoists still at their work, his Grace the Archbishop, on Good Friday, 1816, in the presence of a numerous auditory, spoke with great power and eloquence, imploring the misguided advocates of vetoism not to impose new and disgraceful bonds on the mystical body of the Redeemer. This put an end to the Veto in Ireland! On this subject, Dr. Murray's price is immortality. We all know the reported intrigues against the elevation of his illustrious successor. They are too recent to require commentary here; but if we had not had Daniel, Archbishop of Dublin, perchance we might not have as his successor, Paul, late Archbishop of Armagh! We revere the memory of the former—we bless God and thank the vicar of Christ who has sent us the latter.

We do not enter on the numerous public acts of his Grace, from the downfall of the veto to the period when he stood solus in the administration of this important diocese. His wisdom, prudence, mildness, and charity were themes of universal admiration.

On the 11th of May, 1823, the venerable J. T. Troy, Archbishop of Dublin, having departed this life, in the 84th year of his age, his mitre devolved on our late lamented prelate, who received the Pallium from Rome on the 19th of October, 1824, almost the anniversary of the reception of the same distinguished robe by Dr. Cullen, in 1852. [See our Essay on the Pallium, p. 183.*]

One of the first public acts of Dr. Murray, after his elevation, was the authentication of the miraculous cure of Mrs. Mary Stewart (sister of the Rev. C. Stewart, O.S.A.), of the Convent, Ranelagh; on which subject he published a pastoral, to which were appended the sworn attestations of all who witnessed the miracle. The Pastoral gave ample evidence of the faith, piety, and universally acknowledged judgment of the Most Rev. Prelate.

In 1824 Dr. Murray joined the prelates in their able petition to parliament, praying for means of educating the children of their flocks in every department of art, science, and literature, without interference with their faith and the discipline of their religion. He was one of the prelates who, in 1825, drew up the celebrated Pastoral Instructions to the Clergy and Laity of Ireland, exhorting them to the performance of their sacred duties. In that year his Grace, Dr. Murray, Most Rev. Dr. Curtis, Drs. Kelly, Magauran, and Doyle, were examined before a parliamentary committee on the real principles of Catholics. Although the evidence of Dr. Murray fell short of the grandeur and power of that of the immortal Bishop of Kildare and Leighlin, yet from the great virtues of the Archbishop of Dublin, it gave much satisfaction, and had vast influence in the conversion of many bigots who had been opposed to Catholic Emancipation.

In 1826, his Grace, with other prelates, was much occupied with the still pending question of education. Dr. Murray was the chief in communicating with government commissioners, of whom a professing Catholic, A. R. Blake, was a member. The commissioners, including Mr. Blake, of course, a loyal Catholic, "declined to give the bishops any expression of their opinion on the subject (of education), as it was their duty to report their views only to his Majesty."

We need not dwell upon Dr. Murray's exertions to promote the great measure of 1829 – Catholic emancipation.

In 1831, when cholera raged, his Grace, like the Good Shepherd, was ready to lay down his life for his flock. The singular contrast between the pastoral of Dr. Murray and that of Dr. Whately, the Protestant Archbishop, produced an impression on all classes and creeds which can never be obliterated. In this year Dr. Murray and his suffragans met in Synod, with all their clergy, and published their celebrated Provincial Statutes. The other Irish prelates followed their example, and thus the tout ensemble formed the groundwork of the statutes of the National Synod of Thurles in 1851. In the same year his Grace was appointed a Commissioner of Education, with Dr. Whately, Dr. Sadlier, subsequently Provost of Trinity College, Rev. Mr. Carlisle, a Presbyterian minister, Mr. Holmes (barrister), a Unitarian; and the loyal Catholic, R. A. Blake, who gave such extraordinary evidence in 1825. We may also add the name of the Duke of Leinster.

From 1834 to 1837, his Grace was assailed by letters, speeches, and tracts, on the publication of Den's Theology, which the celebrated R. J. M'Ghee proclaimed he "had just discovered by the interposition of Divine Providence!" This Mr. M'Ghee has proved himself one of the ablest discoverers of modern times; by a similar "interposition" he discovered an obnoxious bull of the Pope which never had existence, save in the mind of a gentleman named Todd, after whom it has been called the Todd forgery; and in order to immortalise Mr. M'Ghee, it has been also called an "ingenious device;" two beautiful little words taken from the apology of the latter gentleman confessing the cleverness of the forgery, although he had impressed upon the minds of the Protestants of Ireland that this very forgery was all but Gospel!! On the subject of Den's Theology, published twenty-three years before Mr. M'Ghee's miraculous discovery, Dr. Murray wrote letters which carried confusion into the camp of which Mr. M'Ghee was the trumpeter, and thus terminated the "miraculous discovery," like the "ingenious device" to which we have just alluded.

In 1835 Dr. Murray visited Rome, and after having had a most gracious reception from the Holy Father, returned to Ireland in 1836.

His Grace was named a Commissioner under the Bequest Act of 1844. On the subject of this, and his connexion with the Queen's Colleges, there were protracted, and we may add, most painful discussions, on which we do not wish to enter more fully. On mature consideration, we are persuaded that the illustrious Prelate acted all through according to what he felt to have been his duty to his country, his religion, and his Divine Master. Although assailed and injured—at least as to his peace of mind, he rendered evil for evil to no man.

Neminem læsit etiam læsus:
Respuit plausus hominum, mercedem
Quam dare solent homines,
Vani vanam!”

In 1851 his Grace attended the Synod of Thurles, in the proceedings of which he took a prominent part. In 1852, when the acts of this Synod, which he had subscribed, were fully sanctioned and confirmed by the Holy See, whatever might have been his former opinions with respect to the Queen's Colleges while an open question, he resigned his seat as a visitor, bowing to the decision of the Sovereign Pontiff, like the “Doctor of Doctors” in the fourth century, who exclaimed “Causa finita est.”

This act of obedience, with explanations which his Grace found it necessary to send to Rome, called forth a letter which his Holiness Pius IX. wrote with his own hand to the illustrious Prelate; which letter he received only a few weeks before his death. In this letter his Holiness expresses his full conviction, that notwithstanding the previous views of Dr. Murray on the question of Education, his great piety to God, his great labours for religion, and his sincere devotion to the Holy See, were never doubted.

This letter seemed to have had great influence on the health and spirits of the venerable Prelate. For three weeks he appeared to have grown young in the performance of his sacred duties; but though full of health on Monday, he was attacked suddenly on Tuesday, and on the morning of Thursday, the 26th of February, 1852, in the 84th year of his age, he was translated from the see of Dublin to a glorious crown in heaven, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

The government of Dr. Murray was remarkable for gentleness and moderation, mixed with great prudence, zeal, and energy.

Among his intimate friends and acquaintances Dr. Murray was most amiable in his manners; he seemed to forget for the moment his exalted dignity; he was affable as a child. Among strangers, however, in precisely similar circumstances, he was full of dignity; and though perhaps he was humble enough tacitly to feel that he was Daniel Murray—a mere man—yet by his demeanour he certainly did impress on others that he was Archbishop of Dublin, and Primate of Ireland. It is said that he was most penetrating in point of knowledge of the human character; too holy, we hope, for prejudice, he was seldom or ever found wrong in his estimation of those upon whom he had occasion to offer an opinion. He did everything coolly, orderly, and without hurry or embarrassment; his punctuality in point of time was edifying; his deportment, private and professional, was truly majestic. The least error of a celebrant, even in Latin quantity, he would discover and check, if in his power. He was most exact in the celebration of the adorable sacrifice of the Mass every morning. Late in life, when once remonstrated with by an intimate friend, on the fatigue of the previous day, he said in effect that—the loss of his omitting to celebrate the Holy Sacrifice would be great to the souls in Purgatory; he could not neglect to celebrate!

His Grace was by nature a gentleman; association with some of the highest in the land, who justly courted his acquaintance and friendship, tended considerably to adorn the gifts of nature. It is said that her Majesty, on her visit to Ireland, paid him the most marked attention. Like a pious pope of the early ages, he wished to be a second Melchisedech; for we believe, so far as the state was concerned, notwithstanding his powerful influence, no man could tell who were his relatives.

The reported speeches in Parliament assure us that he was offered a seat in the Privy Council of his Sovereign, which would have entitled him to the appellation of “The Right Hon. and Most Rev. Daniel Murray,” but he modestly declined the honor. This fact, with many others, ranks Dr. Murray in the list of illustrious men.

Notwithstanding the proverbial mildness of Dr. Murray, he was fully competent to defend himself against an assailant. In his private communications, his look, and the manner in which he would reply to a long argument not strictly ad rem, tended very much to embarrass his opponent. We have read some of his letters, which for style and cogency are admirable. We never can forget his remarks on the Rev. Mortimer O’Sullivan’s false charges against the Catholic religion. This Mr. O’Sullivan is an apostate, and report makes him a candidate for a mitre. Be that as it may, he is a member of the Exeter Hall fraternity. Dr. Murray challenged him to name a single individual who taught him (Mr. O’Sullivan) while a Catholic, the persecuting dogmas which he attributed to the Church which he had abandoned. Mr. O’Sullivan never attempted to reply. Dr. Murray’s rank as a pulpit orator must have been comparatively high; his language was that of the heart, and full of unction; he felt what he uttered, and he had the art and the grace to make others feel.

Oratory may be defined, the power of enlisting the hearts of men in the cause we advocate; that power the illustrious prelate possessed in an eminent degree. But, yes—his Grace was a great orator; his words “speak to the eyes,” his “example thunders in our ears.” Dr. Murray’s epistolary and general composition is very remarkable. We have examined his composition frequently, and seldom have we found a single word which could with propriety be omitted, or indeed substituted; this fact evidently proves close study as to retrenchment and, perhaps, we may add, a deficiency in the powers of nature. We do not insinuate that he studied or wrote his sermons; far from it, if such were the case, they would have lacked that pathos for which they were so eminently distinguished. A writer of sermons has, we fear, seldom made an impression on an audience—rarely made a convert to the faith. The poorest judge of composition can, we think, discover a consumption of “the midnight oil” in a written or prepared sermon—simply because at the close he can feel little impression to have been made on his own heart. The cause is obvious. The illustrious Prelate was not highly indebted to nature, but by industry and perseverance, he was a master in everything. Of his wisdom we need say little; indeed the spirit of wisdom, and understanding, and counsel, and fortitude, and piety, and the fear of the Lord, seems to have descended upon this great bishop. The renowned and ever-to-be-lamented Dr. Doyle, Bishop of Kildare and Leighlin, a prelate whose sincerity was as pure as his genius was indisputable, has pronounced the highest eulogy on the great wisdom of Dr. Murray.

Of the numerous splendid churches founded by his Grace we might speak at great length; independently of the Colleges, Seminaries, Convents, Monasteries, Religious Societies, and Charitable Institutions with which his name will be for ever associated. A Holy Father, in the fourth century, alluding to the extension of the church says, "If you ask the cities, towns, villages, mountains, and deserts have they raised up their hearts, Sursum Corda, do not all answer in the words of the Holy Mass, we have raised them up to the Lord, Habemus ad Dominum?" The very same language may be applied to the Archdiocese of Dublin, throughout the wide extent of which the Kingdom of Christ has been so gloriously propagated under the administration of our ever-to-be lamented Prelate. A modern writer speaks of "Sermons in stones;" the idea is found expressed in Habacuc; Dr. Murray has left after him sermons of this class—some truly magnificent. We cannot dissent from the general opinion as to the grandeur of the Church of the Conception, Marlborough-street. We point with pride and pleasure to the Church of St. Laurence O'Toole, which, when finished, will be a beautiful piece of architecture. To those we may add the Churches of St. Andrew, Westland-row; St. Paul, Arran-quay; St. Francis, Merchant's-quay; St. Audeon, High-st.; St. Nicholas, Francis-st.; Grand Carmelite, York-st.; SS. Mary and Peter, Rathmines; Parochial, James's-street; Haddington-road, &c.; in the rural districts the beautiful Church of St. John the Baptist, Blackrock, those of Booterstown, Kingstown, the Abbey Church, Rathfarnham, a splendid piece of architecture; those of Clontarf, Howth, Irishtown, Donnybrook, Ballymun, Chapelizod, Phibsborough, and that erected on the site of the Seven Churches at Glendalough, with numerous others throughout the remote parts of this diocese, all those pronounce a brilliant funeral oration on the late Archbishop of Dublin.

Of the private charities of Dr. Murray, we may truly say, they were far more extensive than the world supposes. He dreaded the appearance of ostentation or display so much, that he frequently enjoined secrecy so strongly as to make it a sine qua non in the bestowal of his charity. A member of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, in which the Archbishop took so deep an interest, says, "He supported it by his purse in public; and he never took the chair at any of our meetings without placing a five-pound note in our hand, with a strict injunction that no human being should be made aware of his having done so." He honored the society with his approval; of which the following is an extract:

"BELOVED BRETHREN—Blessed be that gracious God, from whom is every best and every perfect gift (James i. 17.), the Faith once delivered to the Saints (Jude i. 3.), that life-giving faith, which worketh by charity (Gal. v. 6.) is still preserved in all its vigour among us, and is now about to introduce into this diocese a new and efficient agency to extend more widely the reign of Christ over the hearts of his children and animate them to the assiduous practice of that favorite virtue of which he said, "this is my commandment, that you love one another" (John xv. 12.).

"The name of St. Vincent de Paul, whom you have selected as your Patron, is dear to charity, dear to us. Already have his spiritual daughters, those angels of mercy, the religious Sisters of Charity spread innumerable blessings among our poor. . . . I approve most warmly of your holy project.

"Now to him who is able to do all things more abundantly than we desire or understand according to the power that worketh in us, to Him be glory in the Church and in Christ Jesus unto all generations, world without end. Amen. (Eph. iii. 14.)

"February 1st, 1845."

✠ D. MURRAY.

We now close, with a brief account of his death—which deprived Ireland and the Church of one of its greatest ornaments, his devoted clergy of a Prelate whom they loved beyond expression, his flock of a Shepherd whose duty and delight it was to "instruct them unto justice" as having to "render account of their souls." His Grace was struck with paralysis, and from the moment of the attack until just a few minutes before his departure he was unconscious of everything. The physicians pronounced ab initio his case hopeless. For three days every spiritual consolation that his loving clergy of the Church of the Conception could afford was administered to the illustrious sufferer. The Rev. Mr. Burke was the first to perceive the fatal moment arrive. The Reverend gentleman opened the Gospel of Saint John and proceeded to read "the Passion of our Lord," all around fell prostrate in supplication, when the Priest had proceeded a little—to the surprise of every one—the venerable Patriarch moved his hand (which throughout had been dead to all appearance) as if to bestow his benediction on those about him, he then placed that hand upon his heart; and as the priest pronounced the last words of the Redeemer on the cross "Into thy hands, I commend my spirit" the soul of the great and good, Daniel, Archbishop of Dublin was summoned into the presence of an all-merciful Creator!

Such the life—such the death of Dr. Murray after a long and eventful course of eighty-four years, sixty-four of which he spent as Priest, and nearly half a century as a member of the prelacy. "Eternal rest give to him, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon him."—Amen.

RIGHT REV. DR. M'NICHOLAS LORD BISHOP OF ACHONRY.

The funeral obsequies of the lamented Prelate were attended by his Grace the Lord Archbishop of Tuam, Lord Bishop of Elphin, Lord Bishop of Killala, Very Rev. Owen Feeny, Very Rev. J. M'Tucker, Very Rev. T. O'Connor, Rev. M. M'Donough, Very Rev. P. Durcan, Dean of Achonry; Very Rev. P. Brennan, Very Rev. J. Coghlan, Ad. of Achonry; Very Rev. B. Durcan, Rev. W. Strickland, S.J.; Rev. J. Morris, Rev. C. Cosgrave, &c. An eloquent funeral sermon was preached by the Rev. Mr. Finn, C.C., Kilcolman; the following extracts will give some knowledge of the career and estimable qualities of the lamented Prelate: "His views, from his earliest youth, were turned towards the Priesthood, and he was carrying with him to that holy state hereditary claims upon talent and zeal, and virtue, so that his good parents felt happy in giving to his education a suitable direction. He was admitted into the Royal College of Maynooth in 1798—that memorable year during which many sacrificed their liberties and their lives on the altar of Ireland, meriting thereby a participation in the sad but glorious testimony paid to Emmet, ‘who loved his country not wisely but too well.’ In 1803, when only 22 years of age, he was appointed professor of logic, and in that capacity he gave the benefit of his talents and learning to many admiring pupils. The College of Maynooth was then in its infancy. The continental colleges established for the Irish were still attracting by their literary character and other advantages the persons in this country who were aspiring to the Priesthood. A high character for learning must be then stamped upon Maynooth, or else the principal object of its founders be frustrated. Hence it is that the French refugees Delahogue, and Anglade and Dares—men whose talents would have shed lustre upon any university—were invited as professors to Maynooth, and it was determined that none but persons of superior talents and great capabilities for instructing should be appointed to fill any of the professorships. These very high and rare qualifications were found in the lamented subject of these remarks, and well did he correspond with the high opinion formed of his merits. Behold him in his professor’s chair, seasoning his lectures in logic, now by lessons of moral rectitude, and again by aspirations after the freedom of our Faith—aspirations which easily found their way into the hearts of his youthful hearers, and were cherished there until, bursting forth under the magic guidance of the Liberator, they continued unsatisfied and uncontrolled until Parliament proclaimed our Faith to be free. On the death of Dr. Long, in 1812, he was promoted to the presidency of the lay college of Maynooth. Dr. M’Nicholas ruled his diocese for about thirty-three years; and has transmitted his Episcopal staff to his successor, without spot, or stain. His charity knew no bounds, and out of his slender revenues he gave much, whilst only a little could be expected. The famine years undermined his constitution, the voice of woe constantly rung in his ears, and his heart was too good not to feel a corresponding sympathy. During these years he gave extensive charities, not alone to the poor, but to his Priests also, who were sharing deeply in the calamities of their flocks. But, ‘Si argumentum queras circumspice’—if you require a proof of his charity to the poor, look to the poor on every side—see how they lament him—how they weep for him. And his charity has not ended with his life—it still continues. After making a very inconsiderable provision for a few relatives, he bequeathed whatever else he was worth towards the erection of chapels and the purchasing of chalices and sacred vestments—these, and the new aspect he has given to our diocese, remain after him, to remind us of him, and to stimulate others to follow his example. All who knew our beloved Bishop mourn for him; all who heard of him regret him. As he lived so he died—holily. Up to his last moments he possessed his judgment vigorous and clear. He joined with the most edifying piety in the prayers for a departing soul. He blessed his Priests—he blessed his people; he recommended his soul to Jesus and Mary. He exhibited very little sign of pain. He is gone to render an account of his stewardship. Let us submit to the stroke with resignation and reverence; and, as the most acceptable proof of respect for his memory, let us in our prayers recommend his soul to God, and practise the lessons of virtue which he taught." Amen.—16th February.

REV. JAMES COLUMBAN MURPHY,

Missionary Apostolic of the Gambier Islands, died at Dundalk, on Ash Wednesday, February 25th, 1852, in the forty-sixth year of his age, and twentieth of his ministry, ten years of which he spent among the savage tribes of the Pacific Ocean; thousands of whom were the slaves of every vice, cannibalism not excepted. Mr. Murphy, prompted by religious motives, set out for Paris in 1825, when he entered a monastic institution of the Sacred Hearts of Jesus and Mary, at Picpus. Having completed his studies, he was, with others, selected for the Gambier Islands, where he was ordained by the late Right Rev. S. Rouchouse, Bishop of Nilopolis, who, returning with his missionaries, was lost, with twenty-five of them, when doubling Cape Horn. Those missionaries who escaped the wreck suffered incredible hardships and trials from the people of the Sandwich Islands, who were prompted by one Bingham, a Calvinist minister. After imprisonment for fifty-one days, they were liberated at Sandwich, and cast on a desert island, Santa Catalina, Upper California, exposed to famine and death. Father Caret, one of the missionaries, was rescued by Mr. Murphy from the hands of the savages, and from instant death—for which intrepid acting he was visited with imprisonment. At the Marquessas Islands, new trials awaited the Missioners, whose converts were threatened with death. After various persecutions, Father Caret was inhumanly murdered while reading his office at Gambier. Mr. Murphy returned to Ireland in 1843, and entered on the home mission, respected and beloved by all who knew him. Change of climate brought on disease; foreseeing his dissolution, he retired to Mount Melleray, County Waterford, having had the consolation of knowing that his missionary labours in distant regions were crowned with success by the conversion of many thousands.

REV. DR. ARCHER, P.P. BLESSINGTON.

The above named gentleman departed this life on the 22nd of February, in the 54th year of his age, after a long and painful illness, which he bore with Christian fortitude and patience. He was sincerely regretted by his parishioners, and a wide circle of friends, to whom he had been long endeared by his inestimable qualities.

REV. JAMES DALY, P.P., KILWORTH,

Died on the 26th of March, in the 54th year of his age. He spent the last twenty-six years of his life in the sacred ministry. His benevolence, urbanity, hospitality, and charity, endeared him to all classes of his parishioners, who attended in vast numbers to pay the last sad tribute of respect at his funeral. May he rest in peace. Amen.

VERY REV. IGNATIUS BROCARD.

This reverend gentleman, Provincial of the Georgetown (U.S.) province of Jesuits, was a native of Switzerland, and was, we believe, one of the earliest postulants of the Society, after its formation by Pius VII. He was universally respected. Only six months before, the Society met another severe loss in the death of the Very Rev. Father Elet, Pro-Provincial of the district of St. Louis. The Rev. Mr. Brocard died at Georgetown College, D.C., on the 1st of April, aged 60, Requiescat in pace. Amen.

VERY REV. J. MALONE, P.P., V.G., KILLALOE.

We deplore the sudden death of this respected pastor, which occurred at Killaloe, on the 21st of April. The Rev. gentleman was about to proceed on parochial duty, when his horse, a spirited animal, reared, threw, and fell over the rider, instantly depriving him of life. The Rev. Mr. Malone was highly respected by all who knew him. He was an excellent priest, a sound and learned theologian; and though he mixed very little in political affairs, he loved his country. May he rest in peace. Amen.

REV. J. J. MORRELL.

This venerable Father was a native of France, and founded a mission at Hampstead, where he departed this life in the eighty-seventh year of his age, and fifty-sixth of his apostolic labours, on the 1st of May last. May he rest in peace. Amen.

MOST REV. RICHARD PATRICK SMITH, D.D.,

ARCHBISHOP OF PORT-OF-SPAIN.

His Grace on returning from a visitation to St. Lucia and other islands in his diocese was seized by dropsy, from which he had previously suffered, and died on the 6th of May, in the 53rd year of his age. This distinguished prelate was a native of the county Cavan, and arrived in Trinidad as Abbé Smith, in the year 1828. His strong, natural talents, aided by an excellent education, mild and kind manners, neither too forward in obtruding his abilities nor backward in manifesting them when necessary, soon pointed him out to the late Bishop M'Donnell, as one worthy to succeed him in the Episcopal office. He was accordingly, with the general applause of the Catholic community, appointed Bishop of St. Agna, in partibus, and Coadjutor of the Vicariate Apostolic of Trinidad; and on the death of Bishop M'Donnell, in 1844, succeeded that prelate as Vicar-Apostolic. In 1851 the Holy See, having elevated the Vicariate Apostolic of Trinidad to the Hierarchical system, and created Port-of-Spain and Roseau Archiepiscopal and Episcopal Sees respectively, Dr. Smith was appointed Archbishop of Port-of-Spain, and Dr. Monaghan Bishop of Roseau. During the last few years his Grace had consecrated no less than fourteen large and handsome churches, and established five new missions. He maintained at various seminaries in Europe, at Amiens, Orleans, Paris, and All-Hallows, Dublin, no fewer than thirty-one students in training for his mission. The Right Rev. Dr. M'Nally, Bishop of Clogher, attended a Solemn High Mass and Office which were offered up for the repose of his soul, in the College of All-Hallows. Requiescat in pace.—Amen.

LATE MR. W. N. SKELLY,

Was born at Drogheda, in the year 1809, allied (maternally) to the ancient family of Nugent, a member of which was Field Marshal Count Nugent. He was educated at Clongowes; where he was, as a boy, remarkable for amiability. He visited, in after life, Berlin, Austria, Hungary, &c., and afterwards went to Rome. Returning home, he devoted himself to acts of charity, of which, the records of every Catholic Charitable Institution, in Dublin, bear testimony. To this excellent man the Catholic Deaf and Dumb Institution, owes everlasting gratitude whose inmates have been rescued, principally, by Mr. Skelly, from proselytising influence. The Mendicity Institution, in his attendance on which he caught the fever which deprived society of such an ornament, also owes him the deepest gratitude. Mr. Skelly wrote several interesting works—amongst others, a volume of Hymns set to music, several miscellaneous poems, mostly of a religious nature, and a little prayer-book for the use of his favourite Institution of the Catholic Deaf and Dumb. He lived respected, and died on the 30th June, aged 40, universally lamented; having received the last rites and consolations of the Church.—May he rest in eternal peace. Amen.

RIGHT REV. DR. FRENCH, BISHOP OF KILMACDUAGH AND KILFENORA.

This venerable prelate was the son of the Rev. Dr. French, the Protestant Warden of Galway. He had been educated a Protestant, and remained in communion with the Established Church until he was of mature years, having, we believe, together with his brother, passed through his studies at Trinity College; Dublin, before, the grace of being called within the fold of the true Church was extended to him. Having become a convert to the Catholic Church, together with his brother (a Catholic clergyman on the foreign mission, who died some months since), he soon after prepared himself for the sacred ministry, into which he entered, and in which he spent a long and exemplary career. For many years Dr. French and his brother officiated in the old Catholic chapel of St. Michan's, Mary's-lane, Dublin. In due time Dr. French was appointed to the Catholic Wardenship of Galway, and was the last who filled that ancient office, for in 1831 the Most Rev. Dr. M'Hale, commissioned by Rome, negotiated the abolition of that singular privilege of "the Tribes of Galway; and Dr. French became Bishop of Kilmacduagh, in which holy office he died full of years, and venerated by all as one of the mildest of prelates and of men, on the 20th July, 1852, after a lingering illness. On the 23rd July, the last solemn rites were performed over the mortal remains of this venerable Prelate in the ancient abbey of Kilmacduagh. His Grace the Archbishop of Tuam, the Bishop of Clonfert, and a numerous body of the clergy of the deceased Bishop's diocese were present at the celebration of the obsequies in the chapel of Gort, whence they attended the remains to the place of interment, accompanied by a vast multitude of people. At the abbey, the Office of the Dead was intoned by the Very Rev. Mr. Roche, P.P., and V.G., Galway, and the Rev. Mr. Corcoran. C.C., and more than fifty clergymen chanted the responses to the sad service. The funeral sermon was preached in the Irish tongue by the Archbishop of Tuam, with all his Grace's accustomed eloquence and pathos.

REV. JOSEPH MANTICA, EDINBURGH.

After seven hours of a most painful agony, the Rev. Joseph Mantica yielded up his soul to God. His last moments were impressively calm. His eye undisturbed in its usually candid expression, and fixed, as with enlarged attention, on the crucifix within his hand, he looked the words of the Psalmist, "Thou hast settled me in hope," and seemed to breathe the same resolve, "In pace, in idipsum dormiam et requiescam" (Psalm iv. 9, 10). Thus has closed, after several months of severe and patient suffering, the brief, but blameless and fruitful career of this edifying young priest. His last and earnestly repeated request was, that the scene of his missionary labours would not be forgotten, and that a few pounds, which he had saved for the purpose, be allowed to form the beginning of a fund for building a church at Haddington—a place in which he had been subjected to many public insults in the discharge of his duty. His obsequies took place at St. John's Church, Portobello, on the 6th of August, at eleven o'clock, after which his remains were interred in the New Calton Burial Ground, Edinburgh. May he rest in peace. Amen.

REV. LAURENCE J. DEASE.

The diocese of Ardagh has sustained a grievous loss by the death, at the comparatively early age of forty-five, of the universally-respected and beloved Pastor of Newtownforbes, the Rev. Laurence Joseph Dease. The melancholy event took place on the 28th August, at Bray, whither the Rev. deceased had gone for the benefit of his health, somewhat previously impaired. Father Dease was a member of one of the most respectable and ancient Catholic families in Ireland. At a very early age he proceeded to Spain, and having completed his studies in the principal college of the Franciscans, became a Friar of that distinguished Order of Regulars. On his return to Ireland, he successively filled the office of Guardian in the Limerick and Ennis establishment of the Franciscans. While acting in this capacity, his kindness of disposition, never-failing benevolence, zeal for the advancement of religion and the honour and glory of God, gained for him the most affectionate regards of his Brotherhood, the love and respect of the people, the friendship of the Secular Clergy, and the warm esteem and confidence of the revered Prelate of the diocese. Having subsequently resided in Dublin, Kilkenny, and other towns in Ireland, in the convents of his Order, he became a Missionary in Halifax, where he continued for some years actively, zealously, and successfully engaged in the duties of the Ministry. On Father Dease's second return to Ireland, he was appointed to a most distinguished mission in the Mauritius, but with that disinterestedness which was a grand trait in his character, he resigned the mission, and volunteered his services to the present Lord Bishop of Ardagh as a collector of funds in the United States for the erection of the cathedral of St. Mel, the first Bishop of Ardagh and nephew of the glorious St. Patrick. His mission was eminently successful having realized £6000 for the Cathedral. He remained three years in America and on his return to Ireland his illustrious Prelate, Dr. O'Higgins, did not forget his faithful friend and servant. Dr. Dease, having been secularized, was appointed to the parish of Clonlish, Newtownforbes, where he was universally esteemed and beloved by all. As a gentleman, a scholar, a patriot, and a Priest, Rev. Laurence Dease was distinguished. He had improved a naturally powerful intellect not only by those studies which appertain to his sacred profession, but by the cultivation of English, American, Spanish, and ancient literature. He was an earnest and efficient preacher, and an excellent public speaker. It is to be apprehended that to his exertions in the latter capacity at the late election for Longford, his constitution having suffered from missionary labours, the melancholy event, which has deprived the diocese of Ardagh of a good Priest and Ireland of a sterling Patriot, may be attributed. When the intelligence of the sad event reached Longford, the gloom of sincere and bitter regret overspread the entire community; every Catholic family seemed as though it had lost a dear relative; and when the people of the town heard that the remains were on the road to Newtownforbes, on an hour's notice they formed a funeral procession half-a-mile in length, all the Catholic gentry, traders, and farmers, walking two-and-two, with several of the Clergy, headed by the Vicar-General of the diocese, V. Rev. Dr. Dawson, all wearing scarfs and hat-bands. The shops in Longford were entirely closed, and the sad procession passed through to Newtownforbes, the parish of the Rev. deceased. May his soul rest in peace.—Amen.

REV. JAMES LENNAN, P.P., STEWARTSTOWN, CO. TYRONE.

The above-named clergyman died on the 10th September, in the forty-second year of his age, and the eighteenth of his sacred ministry, after an illness of four weeks, caused by a fall from his horse. His funeral was attended by a large concourse of persons, who felt the loss of a friend, and lamented the demise of a venerated pastor. A solemn requiem Mass was celebrated in the new chapel, Stewartstown, for the repose of the soul of the respected gentleman, nearly all the clergymen of the Tyrone and Armagh conferences, as well as several from the surrounding districts, attended. The Rev. Mr. Harbison, of Dungarvan, delivered a most impressive funeral oration, after which the remains were deposited on the gospel-side of the altar, within the chapel, amidst the regrets of his devoted parishioners.

A. W. N. PUGIN, ESQ.

Amongst the remarkable men whose demise we have this year a melancholy duty to record, the name of Augustus Welby Northmore Pugin, stands (as a layman) most pre-eminent as the first ecclesiastical architect of the age, who has done more to restore Catholic taste, judgment, and feeling in his sublime art, than any other man in modern days. As a virtue, a principle, and a passion, Pugin seemed to have had a species of religious enthusiasm to make architecture tributary to the glory of God, the services of religion, and the edification of man. Augustus Welby Northmore Pugin was the son of Augustus Pugin, who, at an early age, settled in England, and married the daughter of Mr. Welby of Lincolnshire. From his father he learned much, and soon felt an instinctive desire to excel in those beautiful conceptions and all-inspiring thoughts to which he afterwards, as it were, gave an imperishable existence in the churches which he erected within the last twenty years in England, Ireland, and Scotland. In 1836, he published his famous "Contrasts" between the architecture of the middle ages and that of subsequent times; in which he fully dwelt upon the barbarous taste introduced with the monstrous errors of Protestantism—from which he had become a convert.

His subsequent works on architecture are too well known to be dwelt on here, more especially as they have been noticed in detail

Mr. Pugin's illustrations of Christian architecture, in the Exhibition of 1851, in the mediæval court excited peculiar interest.

From intense thought and deep application of his singular powers, for several months preceding his demise, Mr. Pugin was seriously indisposed. On Sunday, 12th September, 1852, he was seized with epilepsy and died on the following day, surrounded by his sorrowing family and friends. Although not old, Mr. Pugin has left a name that will ever live in the annals of his country. Even in Ireland the churches of Gory, Enniscorthy, and Killarney exhibit his transcendent taste; whilst the additions to the College of Maynooth prove what a building it would have been if designed and finished under the superintendence of his Catholic spirit and towering intellect.

It must afford sincere gratification to the heart of every Catholic, to know that for a brief space before his death, it pleased God to grant him the restoration of his intellect, and that the exertions and good deeds of a well-spent life were rewarded by his reception of the last rites of that Church, to the truth of which his whole career had borne so brilliant a testimony.—R. I. P.

THE EARL OF SHREWSBURY.

The demise of this great Catholic nobleman comes upon us with painful surprise. It took place, after receiving all the sacraments, at Naples, on the 9th of November, 1852, after an illness of thirteen hours, whilst on his way back to Palermo, with Lady Shrewsbury and Mr. Behan Talbot. John Talbot, F.S.A., Earl of Shrewsbury, in the peerage of England, and Earl of Waterford and Wexford, and Baron of Dungarvan, in the peerage of Ireland, was born on the 18th of March, 1791, and was therefore at his death in the sixty-second year of his age. He succeeded his uncle, as seventeenth earl, in April, 1827. In 1814, he married Maria Theresa, eldest daughter of William Talbot, Esq., of Talbot Castle, County Wexford. His issue being a son, who died at the age of one year, and two daughters, Maria Alatheia Beatrice, the present Princess Doria Pamphili, and Gwendaline Borghese, the lamented and sainted Princess Borghese, who died in 1840, whose remarkable piety and charity astonished all Rome, and whose life, written in beautiful French, and now translated, we would wish to see published, as a model. The three sons of this Princess died a few weeks after their exemplary mother; but the Princess Doria has a son and daughter living, who are the only descendants, in the direct line, to the late illustrious Earl. The Earl of Shrewsbury was a most noble benefactor to the churches and chapels of England, having contributed large sums to the erection of the former and to the maintenance of the latter. From time to time he also contributed to works of religion and benevolence in Ireland. Although for some few years he had, under very mistaken notions, not acted towards some of the bishops and clergy in Ireland as they deserved, owing to his strong bias against their taking any part in the political amelioration of their country; and had, like others under erroneous impressions, taken adverse views upon the questions of Education, Queen's Colleges, and the Catholic University; yet about twelve months before his death, his Lordship made a species of public retraction, and joined the united bishops in their important statutes and decisions in reference to the other mixed questions. Although his Lordship had rather a fierce controversy with the late Mr. O'Connell, with the Archbishop of Tuam, Mr. Lucas, and others, let us hope that his mistakes were more from the head than the heart, and that his many virtues and unbounded charity will render him, through the merits of our Divine Redeemer, acceptable to the Almighty, and worthy to be admitted to the eternal tabernacle.

RIGHT REV. BERNARD PALMER.

This melancholy event took place at the Cistercian Abbey of Mount St. Bernard, Lullworth, Leicestershire, on Wednesday, 10th November, 1852. The venerated Abbot's disease was dropsy and disease of the heart, under which he lingered for twelve months. In the Month of May last his demise was daily apprehended, but it pleased God to prolong his existence till the above-named day. His departure was like his life, calm and full of composure, so much so that his beloved brethren could perceive nothing symptomatic of an event which deprived them of their best friend, and the Church of a bright ornament. His remains were deposited in the chapter room of the Abbey on Saturday the 13th November.

The Lord Abbot was in his 71st year. He was converted from Protestantism to the Catholic faith so far back as 1806. He joined the Order, of which he died the chief, at Lullworth, and made his profession as a choir-monk on the Feast of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin, A. D. 1810. When the Lullworth community was driven from England by Lord Sidmouth, in 1817, he fled with his pious brethren to France, and took refuge in the Cistercian Abbey near Nantz, where, having purchased a site, Louis XVIII. permitted them to settle.

The Abbey of Lullworth was a small priory in 1835, Brother Bernard came from France in December, 1836, and presided over the community, then numbering only nine members. He was ordained priest on the Feast of the Assumption of the most Holy Virgin, 1838.

The ever-to-be lamented Dr. Gentilli foretold his elevation to the priesthood and that he would be ordained on some Festival of the Blessed Virgin. In 1841, Father Bernard was elected Priest; in 1848, the Priory was raised by our Holy Father the Pope to the dignity of an abbey, of which Father Bernard was elected Lord Abbot; the first elevated to that dignity in England since the Reformation. By Brief of the 9th May, 1848, the Pope confirmed the election. On the 18th Feb., 1849, Dr. Palmer was consecrated Lord Abbot of Mount St. Bernard, being then in his 66th year, and in the 39th of his religious profession. The Right Reverend Dr. Ullathorne was the officiating Prelate assisted by three mitred Abbots, namely, our honored countryman the pious, learned, Rt. Rev. Dr. B. Fitzpatrick, Lord Abbot of Mount Melleray, County Waterford; the Rt. Rev. Pere Maxime, Lord Abbot of Meleray, in France, and the Right Rev. Pere Augustine, Lord Abbot of Bellefontaine.

The late Right Rev. Dr. Palmer ruled his community with such prudence and dignity and discharged his high official duties so admirably that he was beloved by all who had the honor and pleasure of knowing him, and eminently so by a community who deplore his death.—May he rest in eternal peace. Amen.

REV. MR. M'CORMACK.

This much-esteemed clergyman had the happiness to enjoy the fond regard of his bishop, the Right Rev. Dr. Vaughan, and the esteem and affection of his brother clergymen, no less than of the attached flock who loved him in life, and now mourn him in death. He died, after a long and painful illness, which he bore with that patience and resignation which characterize the true Christian priest. May he rest peace.

REV. THOMAS TIERNEY, P.P., CLONTIBRET.

This venerated pastor, who with the Rev. Mr. Tyrrell, shared the fortunes of O'Connell in 1843, is no more. He died at the advanced age of seventy-two, at the house of his friend, F. Reilly, Esq., Fairfield House, Sandymount. The reverend gentleman was closely allied to T. B. M'Manus, another equally stern patriot. The social, religious, and patriotic virtues of the Rev. Thomas Tierney were of the highest order. Every effort was made by the Government to induce him to retract the speech which caused the Attorney General to include him in the monster indictment in the State Trials in 1843, but all effort was vain, and when the jury ignored the bill against him, he only lamented that he could not have the honour of sharing the glories of the martyrdom of his friend the Liberator. His name will be handed down to posterity as a patriot priest. His patriotism was equalled only by his hospitality, and his beloved flock, whom he governed for years, will long lament the demise of a revered pastor and ardent friend. May he rest in peace. Amen.

RIGHT REV. J. CHANCHE, D.D.

It is our melancholy duty to record the death of the learned and devoted Bishop of Natchez, the Right Rev. J. Chanche, D.D. To the ten thousand Catholics of Mississippi, its clergy, and to the professors of St. Mary's College, and the Sisters of Charity with their thirty orphans in St. Mary's Asylum, we offer our condolence in the loss of so excellent a father and protector. With the thousands of Catholics in the archdiocese of New Orleans and the millions in America we deplore the loss of the eminent Bishop of Natchez. His Lordship was born in Baltimore in 1796, and entered St. Mary's Seminary at the age of eleven; his diligence and virtue obtained for him the holy tonsure at the early age of fifteen. In 1819 he was ordained priest. He became a professor in St. Mary's College, and in 1834 succeeded the Rev. Mr. Eccleston as president: he continued to discharge his onerous duties until raised to the episcopacy in 1841, by the fourth council of Baltimore. There was no Church or priest in the immense state which formed his diocese, and the labours and anxiety of the worthy prelate were sorely tried in forming congregations, erecting churches, preparing priests, founding schools and in every way promoting the growth of religion there. He laboured efficiently, and was blessed with the consolation of the rapid growth of Catholicity under his direction. On the 22nd he breathed his last prayer on earth for their welfare, and passed, we trust, to the enjoyment of everlasting happiness.

It will be observed, however, that there are three Archbishops of Leopoli—one for the Latins, one for the Armenians, and one for the Orthodox Greeks, who follow the Ruthenian Rite.

II.—BADEN.

This Grand Duchy has one Archbishop, and by a Concordat entered into some years ago with the Holy See, has four suffragans in parts of Germany, viz., one in Hesse-Cassel, one in Nassau, one in Hesse-Darmstadt, and one in the kingdom of Wurtemberg.

In this Country, which surpasses England in religious bigotry and unchristian intolerance, there are no Bishops or Vicars-Apostolic; at Copenhagen there is one Chapel, under the protection of the Austrian embassy, and the towns of Fredericia, Frederickstadt, Altona, and Kiel, each possess one.

VI.—FRANCE.

The following Bishops in France have the privilege of the Archiepiscopal Pallium attached to their Sees. The Bishops of Autun, Marseilles, Le Puy, and Valence.

Monseigneur Parisi, the Bishop of Arras, was decorated personally last year with the Pallium, by our Holy Father Pope Pius IX., but the privilege does not belong to the See of Arras, while in the four named Bishoprics, the Pallium is attached to the See and not to the individual Bishop. [Gibraltar, see p. 416.]

VICARIATE APOSTOLIC OF HYDERABAD.

Bounded on the North by the river Godavery, which separates it from the Vicariate Apostolic of Vizagapatam; on the South by the river Kistna, which separates it from the Vicariate Apostolic of Madras; on the East by the bay of Bengal; and on the West by the Vicariate Apostolic of Bombay. Total Catholics, 4,000.

There are five schools pretty well attended. Six Churches, three of which are modern. The Cathedral, dedicated to the B. V. Mary of the Assumption, is a splendid structure in the decorated style of Gothic Architecture, and is now nearly completed. It is built almost entirely by the contributions of Irish soldiers, and was opened for Divine Service about a year ago. It is 135 feet long by 54 wide, and consists of a chancel with a nave (40 feet high) and two side-aisles, together with a tower which Brigadier James has prohibited from rising to more than one-half of its intended height.

Convenient to the Cathedral is a large handsome presbytery, with a reading room and Temperance Hall. During the year 1850 thirty-five adults from Paganism and Protestantism were baptised, and 1,348 Catholics made their Paschal communion. In 1851 there were 1,160 annual communicants.

There are two Schismatical chapels served by two Goa priests, and attended by about 250 native Christians.

This newly established mission has suffered, and continues to suffer much, from the intolerance of the Madras government. By virtue of its order in September, 1848, the Bishop was obliged to quit Secunderabad, where he had fixed his residence and commenced the erection of his cathedral, because he had prohibited one of his priests from giving possession of a Catholic Chapel in the Cantonment to a Schismatical priest, when arbitrarily ordered to do so by the Brigadier commanding the Station. At the same time, two Catholic priests and a student were expelled for charges, of which they declared themselves innocent, and which it was attempted in vain to prove against them at a public Court of Inquiry. Only two Catholic priests are permitted to reside in the Cantonment, whilst four Protestant Clergymen (two Chaplains and two Missionaries), with flocks not equal to one-half those of the Catholic priests, reside there unmolested. The native Catholics of the station were deprived of their burial ground, which was handed over to the Schismatical priest, and they were compelled in many instances to bury their dead in the open plain. The bishop was obliged to seek from the Nizam's government a suitable piece of ground for a cemetery, outside the limits of the Cantonment, and he obtained from Mahomedans what Protestants with all their professions of liberality refused to grant. Although the bishop has made several appeals to the Supreme as well as to the Madras government, justice has not been done as yet, and he is still virtually excluded from his cathedral and from visiting his flock; for he is placed under restrictions, which it would be derogatory to his office and dignity to submit to.

The Jesuit mission of the Carnatic was succeeded by the seminary of foreign missions, in virtue of pontifical briefs dated the 30th September, 1776. Mongr. Brigot, bishop of Tabraca, and V. Apostolic of Siam, was nominated superior of the mission, and arrived at Pondicherry on the 18th of September, 1777. The old Jesuits joined these missionaries and continued their labours.

Mongr. de Tabraca consecrated Rev. Nicholas Champenois, priest of the diocese of Rheims, as Bishop of Dolicha at Pondicherry, in January, 1787. The good old bishop died at Pondicherry on the 16th June, 1791, and was succeeded by Mgr. de Dolicha.

Mgr. de Dolicha died at Pondicherry on the 28th of October, 1810. Rev. Louis Charles Augustus Herbert, who was bishop-elect for three years before the death of his predecessor, was consecrated bishop of Halicarnassus at Verapoly, by Mgr. de Surens, a discalced carmelite, Vicar Apost. of the Malabar Christians of the Syrian rite. His consecration took place on the 3rd of March, 1811.

During the French revolution the Italian Capuchins replaced the French Capuchins, and remained at Pondicherry until the year 1829, when the French government sent out a missionary from the Seminary of St. Esprit, under the title of Prefect Apostolic. The jurisdiction of the Prefect Apostolic extends to all the French settlements of the East, viz., Pondicherry, Karical, Mahe, Chandernagore, and Yanam. In Pondicherry, however, his jurisdiction (like that of his predecessors the Capuchins) is restricted to Europeans and all that wear hats. He has a convent of the sisters of St. Joseph under his care, and supported by government, and another convent of the sisters of the Visitation not recognised by government. The latter keeps one orphanage, and is devoted to the education of the poor; the former keeps a boarding school for the benefit and accommodation of the wealthy and respectable classes. Total population at Pondicherry, under the jurisdiction of the Prefect Apostolic, 1,500.

The Rev. Clement Bonnard was consecrated at Pondicherry (with the title of Bishop of Drusipare) in 1833.

Mgr. De Halicarnasse died at Pondicherry on 5th October, 1836, and Mgr. De Drusipare succeeded him.

VICARIATE APOSTOLIC OF MYSORE.

Comprising the territories of his Highness the Rajah of Mysore, and the British provinces of Coorg and Wynaad. It is bounded on the north (from Hurryhur eastward) by the Vicariate Apostolic of Madras, and from Hurryhur westward by the Vicariate Apostolic of Bombay, the boundary line being the borders of the Mysore territory; on the west by the pro-vicariate apostolic of Mangalore, the southern Ghaut being the boundary; on the south by the vicariate apostolic of Coimbatore, the boundary line being the northern border of the province of Coimbatore; and on the east partly by the vicariate apostolic of Madras, and partly by the vicariate apostolic of Pondicherry. ### VICARIATE APOSTOLIC OF VERAPOLY.

This Vicariate Apostolic is divided into parishes and affiliated chapels, with a proper number of native clergy, under the direction of European Missionaries, so that it little differs from an Italian bishopric. The residence of Verapoly is an immense building erected gradually in the space of nearly two centuries, in the form of a convent, for missionaries and native priests employed there.

Adjoining is the episcopal house, with its apartments for officers, and two great seminaries, one for Latin, and the other for Syrian native clergy. Houses for Catechumens and hospitals are also situated there.

All these buildings, as well as the Cathedral Church, are situated in an island called Verapoly, surrounded by the waters of a considerable and frequented river, which after forming several other small isles in its course, juts into the sea at Cochin. This pleasant and extremely cultivated Island is less than a league in circumference.

The Vicariate Apostolic as above described, extends as far as Porakawdoo to the South, Ponany to North West, and the corresponding mountains ghauts to the eastward. Although the extent is comparatively small, it is, however, the largest in Roman Catholic population and native Clergy of all the Vicariates Apostolic now existing in India.

REV. FR. LUDOVICO, of St. Theresa, Archbishop of Chyrra, Vicar-Apostolic. Residence, Verapoly, near Cochin.

REV. FR. ELIAS, of St. Joseph, Apostolic Missionary.

CHURCHES OF THE LATIN RITE.—Churches, 25; Affiliated Chapels, 29; Native Priests, 41; Catholics, 69,180.

CHURCHES OF THE SYRAIN RITE.—Churches, 111; Affiliated Chapels, 76; Native Priests, 397; Catholics, 158,826.

Grand Total of the Catholics, 228,006, of which 69,180 are of the Latin Rite, and 158,826 are of the Syrian Rite.

Except a few parishes which are in the territories, subject immediately to the Honorable Company, all the rest are situated in the territories of the Rajahs of Travancore and Cochin.

There is in this Vicariate a great seminary for Latin Native Clergy, and fourteen for Syrian Malabar. Two convents for Syrian Malabar Clergy, were, a few years ago, established, and another is in contemplation.

It is four years since the Mission has established, with due permission both of the Holy See and government, a press, in which are printed, in the Malayalam language, useful books adapted to the devotion and instruction of Roman Catholics.

From the two houses of Catechumens, more than one thousand heathens are being baptized yearly, besides many Nestorians and some native Protestants. Heathens desirous of being christened, are admitted in the two hospitals, and maintained while under instruction. In all the parishes there are many charity schools for the instruction of youth.

The Syro-Nestorians who are in Malabar, amount to about thirty thousand. They have their own churches and clergy.

VICARIATE APOSTOLIC OF WESTERN BENGAL.

By a decre of the Sacred Congregation De Propaganda Fide, the 15th February, 1850, the Vicariate Apostolic of Western Bengal, comprising fifteen districts, viz., Calcutta, the twenty-four Purgunnahs, Cuttack, Hidgelee, Midnapoor, Sunderbunds, Jessoor, Barasety, Hoogly, Nuddya, Burdawn, Moorshedabad, Rajeshaye, Bogra, and Malda.

The city of Calcutta is divided into three districts or parishes, viz., the parish attached to the Cathedral, that attached to the Church of the Sacred Heart in Durrumtollah, and the parish annexed to the Church of St. Thomas in Chowringhee.

To the cathedral church are attached two Succursal churches or chapels, viz., that of St. John, situated in the Cemetery, Circular-road, and that adjoining the convent schools of St. Francis Xavier, Bow-Bazaar. In the compound of the cathedral and its vicinity are three schools, viz., two for males and one for females. The infant school is conducted by a mistress, and the adult male school by the Christian Brothers. An orphanage, containing about 40 boys, is attached to the cathedral male school.

There are two free schools in Bow-Bazaar, one for boys, the other for girls. The male school is conducted by one of the Christian Brothers. The female school is conducted by the ladies of the convent. Besides the female free school, a pay-school for young ladies under the direction of the Nuns has been established at Bow-Bazaar.

The public offices of religion and the spiritual wants of the faithful in the Cathedral district, are attended to by the Archbishop, Vicar Apostolic of Bengal, and his Grace's curates, assisted by other clergymen.

The parish attached to the Church of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, Durumtollah, is under the care of the vicar of that church, the Rev. J. X. Mascarenhas. The privilege of presenting a priest canonically qualified for such preferment, to be approved of by the Vicar Apostolic of Bengal, is vested in Madame D'Souza, by whom the Durumtollah Church has been founded and endowed. In other respects this Church is subject to the received discipline of the Catholic Church.

St. Thomas's Parish Church, and the Chaplaincy of Fort William in the same parish, are under the care of the Archbishop, Vicar Apostolic, and of his Grace's curates residing in St. John's College, No. 4, Park-street, Middleton-row, Chowringhee.

In this parish the Loretto House and St. John's College are situated. In the Loretto Institution young ladies enjoy all those educational advantages, for which the convent schools in Europe are so justly celebrated. In St. John's College the pupils have the benefit of a liberal and classical education.

In the years 1848 and 1849 there were thirty-two conversions in this vicariate, viz., twenty-nine from Protestantism, one from Heathenism, one from Mahometanism, and one from the heretico-schismatic Armenians.

In the year 1850 there were twenty conversions, viz., seventeen from Protestantism and three from Heathenism. In the same year 179 persons received confirmation.

VICARIATE APOSTOLIC OF SIAM.

MISSION OF ASSAM.—Rev. Julian Rabin, Rev. Nicholas Michael Krick, Rev. Ludovicus Natalis Bernard, of the congregation of foreign missions. They propose to carry the light of the Gospel from Assam into Thibet and Bootan.

The city of Bangkok has eight Catholic churches and upwards of 3,000 Christians, Portuguese.

The cathedral is not considered a parochial church, and the labours of the clergymen attached to it are principally directed to the conversion of the natives.

The church of the Conception was built in 1836, by the Vicar Apostolic, for the accommodation of 700 Cambogian christians.

The church of St. Francis Xavier has a congregation of 1,500 Cochin-Chinese Christians, who were made prisoners of war by the Siamese in their hostile encounters with Cochin-China.

The free Chinese attend the Chinese chapel built for their accommodation in 1838.

The church of the Assumption is the College church, where there are upwards of twenty ecclesiastical students.

Juthia, the ancient capital of Siam, was ruined by the Burmese in 1766. It is memorable for a synodical meeting of the first Vicars Apostolic of China, Cochin-China and Siam. Eight Vicars Apostolic and upwards of forty French missionaries are buried there. The ruins of a fine church and college, and other ecclesiastical buildings, are yet to be seen.

The Rev. J. E. Dupeyron, S.J. is also chaplain to the troops, and twice each year goes on a missionary excursion throughout the Island, visiting any estate on which there are any Catholics, English, Irish, Scotch, Spanish, Portuguese or French.

The means for supporting and extending this mission are wholly inadequate, and the mission of Jamaica peculiarly recommends itself to the charity of devout Catholics, as the dissensions now generally prevailing between the preachers of all denominations of dissent, and the coloured population of this Island, who have found that they have been mulcted for the aggrandisement of their teachers and their families, has prepared them either to receive the true faith or to relapse into Pish Idolatry.

Subscriptions for the mission of Jamaica will be received by his grace the Archbishop of Dublin; the President of All-Hallow's College, and M. W. O'Reilly, Esq. Knock Abbey, County Louth.

VANDIEMAN'S LAND AND HOBART TOWN, NEW SOUTH WALES.

Rt. Rev. Robert William Willson, bishop.

Hobartown—Rev. William Hall, V.G., St. Joseph's Church. Revs. John Murphy; Alfred Maguire, chaplain to the Female House of Correction, Infirmary, and Female Hospital; Hugh Magorian, chaplain to the Female Hiring Depot and Orphan School; George Hunter, chaplain to the Penitentiary and Male Hospital.

Circular Head—Rev. M. Burke.
Oatlands—Rev. M. Keshan.
Westburg—Rev. J. Hogan.

These three last named missions are very extensive, and most laborious. They receive no aid from government. There is a church in each—a beautiful one in Oatlands (Pugin's school)—and schools.

Convent of the Sisters of Charity, Hobartown—Superioress, Mrs. Cahill; two sisters and a novice. These good ladies are indefatigable; they teach a large school, visit the sick, the female houses of correction, the gaol, the orphan school, &c.

There is reason to rejoice at the powerful and progressing state of the faith in this island. A few years back, when the good and zealous bishop arrived here, he found but three clergymen; there are now sixteen actively engaged on the mission, and one (the respected Mr. Cotham), is on leave of absence. A young gentleman (the Rev. Mr. Murphy), recently ordained at "All Hallows," is hourly expected. The priceless labors of the worthy "Sisters" have also been procured by his lordship. Students, too, are pursuing their studies for the mission in All-Hallows, Carlow, Oscot, Louvain, and Rome. Such the works of a few years, and in the face of difficulties of a most trying and discouraging nature. There remains still, however, something to be done; but, if exertions the most zealous and high-minded meet only a due co-operation, even this shall soon and effectually be accomplished.

IRISH BELL FOUNDRY,

COPPER AND BRASS WORKS.

No. 15, THOMAS-STREET,

Late of 140, JAMES' STREET, DUBLIN.

JOHN MURPHY

Begs to direct the attention of the clergy and those requiring Bells, to the adjudication of the Royal Dublin Society, of the first class medal for superior Bell-founding. This, along with the following testimonials, all direct to himself, he hopes will be a sufficient guarantee for his capabilities in producing Bells, without the assistance of any English operative, superior to any imported into this kingdom.

St. Jarlath's, Tuam, May 5th, 1843.

"DEAR SIR—I would not be doing you justice, were I not in my own name, as well as in that of the people, to convey to you the satisfaction that has been felt in the magnificent Bell which you have made for our Cathedral. It is not only in its power, which diffuses the sound to a vast distance, but chiefly in the mellowed solemnity of its tone, so much in accordance with religious worship that it has excited general admiration.

"It is creditable to your skill and enterprise—it is a proof of what our countrymen can achieve in arts and manufacture, if they were to receive due encouragement. Mere professions in favour of the repeal of the union will not do, without the more unequivocal proofs of forwarding its prosperity by promoting native manufacture.—Wishing you that success which you have well merited, by your laudable outlay of capital in bringing this growing branch of trade to a perfection which I trust will ever keep it in Ireland.

"I am dear sir, your faithful servant

✠ JOHN, Archbishop of Tuam."

[This Bell weighed 20 cwt.]

Mullingar, September, 22, 1842.

"MY DEAR SIR—The Bell you have cast for our Cathedral is now in full play: I am greatly pleased with it for its sweetness of tone, power, and effect. We may safely challenge competition with any Bell imported of the same weight. I also feel great pleasure in bearing testimony to the very punctual and satisfactory manner in which you have fulfilled all the terms of your contract.

"I have the honour to be, dear sir,

"Your most obedient, humble servant,

✠ JOHN CANTWELL."

Mount Melleray Abbey, Oct. 31, 1844.

"DEAR SIR—Since the period when the Bell which you cast for this Abbey, reached its destination, I have been prevented by illness from the discharge of a duty which I owe to your establishment.

I avail myself, therefore of the present more improved state of my health to say that the Bell manufactured by you, and now suspended here, for beauty of form, solidity of construction, power and sweetness of tone, continues to give universal satisfaction. It is the object of admiration to our numerous visitors, all of whom, without any exception, declare it cannot be excelled by any bell of its size or weight in the kingdom.

"In this opinion I perfectly agree; and therefore wishing you the most happy success, and trusting you may obtain that widely extended patronage which your talent deserves.

"I remain, dear sir, your most obedient servant,

"M. V. RYAN, Abbot and Prior.

"Mr. J. Murphy."

[This Bell weighed 20 cwt.]

Edgely, Stockport. August, 30, 1845.

"MY DEAR SIR—I am most happy to inform you that the Bell you have sent us continues to give the greatest satisfaction; persons of every religious denomination congratulate me, when they meet me on the richness of its tone; and all pronounce it a most excellent Bell. I congratulate you on your success in producing such an instrument, and hope you will meet with that encouragement which real merit seldom fails to insure.

"I am, my dear sir, your's truly,

"RANDOLPH FRITH.

"To Mr. John Murphy."

Great Hayward, Staffordshire, October 9th 1844.

"DEAR SIR—I am greatly delighted to have to inform you that the Bell which you have executed for the new Catholic Chapel of Great Hayward, has given great satisfaction to the subscribers. Although of Irish manufacture, it is exceedingly admired both for the exquisite finish of the workmanship and the silvery sweetness of the sound. No manufacturer, not even the great Meares himself, could be more successful; and I am sure no one else would, for the money, finish such an article. I am quite proud of you: and I have sanguine hopes that the day is not far distant when your establishment will rival the great Bell-founders of this country. The English Catholics can have no prejudice against Irish manufacturers; on the contrary, they must be in favour of reciprocity with Ireland; who knows, then, but they might give you a chance of competing with the Bell-founders of this country, in return for the many advantages which they derive from their intercourse with Ireland. If they could all hear the silvery sound of the sweet Irish Bell of Great Hayward, they would feel the force of a far more powerful motive to encourage you than international justice, viz., self-interest.

"With best wishes for your prosperity, I am, my dear sir, yours truly.

"JOHN LEVY.

"Mr. John Murphy."

The great Bell of Adam and Eve, in this city, and of Loretto Abbey, Rathfarnham, were cast at this Foundry. These Bells, each 25 cwt., are allowed to be the best in Ireland or England, for their weight.

"Glasnevin House, near Dublin, Dec. 20th, 1845.

"SIR—The Dean and Chapter of Christ Church Cathedral, in this city, were not aware when they employed you at different times to re-cast two of their Church Bells, and to adapt them to the tones of Eight in the Diatonic Scale, that such an attempt had ever before been made in Ireland. I am happy to say that in both cases you have thoroughly succeeded; and I remain your obedient servant,

"CHARLES KILDARE,

"Dean of the Cathedral, Christ Church, Dublin,

"Mr. John Murphy, Bell-Founder."

Monasterevan, Dec. 2nd, 1849.

"DEAR SIR—You have expressed a very natural wish to know my opinion of the Ten weight Bell you lately manufactured for the new Catholic Church of Monasterevan, and it gives me unfeigned pleasure to assure you that your work has not only realised—but surpassed the most sanguine expectation which my good Parishioners and myself could have entertained.

"I cannot command, nor shall I look for that imaginative language in which a more gifted person might express his notions of a fine Church Bell, as an instrument of divine worship. It will be enough to say, that your bell is clearly heard in every part of a circuit of five miles from the place it hangs, and that its tones are delightfully soft, solemn and musical.

"It were needless to say, that our religious people are greatly pleased with their purchase; they who know the faith and feelings of a Catholic can conceive his emotions when he hears what he believes to be the echo of the voice of God summoning him to 'come and adore.'

"'We are not like others,' says the Apostle, 'who have not hope.' The link of hope and charity which binds a Catholic to his fellow-Christian is not severed by death. How sacred and solemn, then must not that sound be in his ear, which tells him that a brother or sister has gone to account, and that it is 'a holy and wholesome thought to pray for the dead?'

"I am gratified, sir, to think that you stand in no need of my poor testimonial to assist a reputation for Bell-founding, already well established. Would that Irish tradesmen generally could submit, like you, to spend years in struggling to bring to perfection an article of constant use, and then be prepared to dispose of it on reasonable terms; did they but do so, they would soon gently shoulder foreigners out of the market, and (what would be no small benefit) they might dispense with that cheap patriotism of the lips, which often reminds one of the Roman saying,

'Virtus laudatur et alget.'

"Which translated in an Irish way, can mean—'Home manufacture is eloquently extolled, but allowed to get cold.'

"That you may give as much satisfaction to all your customers, as you have given to me is, dear sir, the sincere wish of

"Your obedient servant,

"P. HEALY.

"Mr. John Murphy."

St. Mary's Dominican Priory, Cork, 30th March, 1849.

"MY DEAR SIR—I beg you will excuse me for not having sent, long before now some acknowledgement of the satisfaction given by your famous Bell to the Clergymen of St. Mary's Community and to the citizens of Cork in general. Some testimonial of the kind was due to you, as an encouragement to persevere in your praiseworthy exertions for the improvement of Irish Bell-founding, as an important branch of our national manufactures. From the experience we have had, for the last year, of the tone and compass of the sweet, solemn sounds issuing from our temporary belfry, we can fairly judge how well entitled you were to the first class Medal, and Certificate, which was awarded to you for the casting of this Bell, by the Royal Dublin Society, at its exhibition of works of native art and industry. I cannot give you a more strongly-worded certificate to the merits of this excellent specimen of Irish workmanship, than by reporting to you the public opinion and approbation of this city. The praise of St. Mary's Bell is in every mouth. The only regret generally felt respecting it is, that the poverty of our Community and the present depression of trade, will not permit us to continue the erection of St. Mary's Tower, in the highest story of which the 'Angelus Bell,' as we have christened it, will have its lofty, lone chamber, with fair play and full swing. As yet its sounds, though sufficiently loud and mellow, are somewhat stifled by being confined in a narrow block of building considerably overtopped by the roofs of the adjoining Priory. The tenor in the chime of the famous 'Bells of Shandon,' in our immediate neighbourhood, which corresponds in weight with our Angelus Bell, does not (that I may speak moderately of what belongs to ourselves,) surpass it in clear, full richness of tone. If I were to tell you, that many say, that the iron voice from Shandon Steeple is a little harsher than the sweet summons to Mass, from our rising tower in the same locality—such musical criticism may be attributed to our religious partialities; yet, if I were to give it to you as my own opinion, be assured that I would not be substituting prejudice for truth. On the whole, I consider the Dominicans and Catholics of Cork, in general, very fortunate in securing this excellent Bell for our city. The tradesmen are proud of it, as a proof of what native skill and enterprise may effect in the manufactures of our country and with our patriotic population a mournful interest cannot fail to be attached to a Bell, whose first notes were heard in public, while it tolled from the unfinished tower of St. James's, in Dublin, during the funeral procession which accompanied the remains of O'Connell to the tomb, to which a grateful country will yet pay due honour. Wishing you every success, believe me, yours very truly,

"B. T. RUSSELL.

Maynooth, June 14.

"DEAR SIR—The Bell you cast for our new Church, about nine months ago, has given universal satisfaction. The Rev. Mr. Cainen, our respected Parish Priest, is much pleased with it. The parishioners and the Reverend Gentlemen of the College all agree that you have admirably succeeded in your work. In fact, every one who has heard its mellow notes has admired it as an instrument most suited to the high and sacred uses to which it is dedicated. Amongst many other superior testimonies, we have Mr. Pugin, who calls it worthy of 'the good old Catholic times,'

"I am your obedient servant,

"JAMES WHITTLE.

St. Andrew's Catholic Church, Dumfries, Scotland, Jan. 2, 1850.

"DEAR SIR—We have great pleasure in informing you that the Peal of Bells you manufactured for St. Andrew's Church, Dumfries, has given ample satisfaction. The sweetness and correctness of their tones are very much admired.

"Wishing you every success in your trade, we hope that this Peal of Bells you have cast for Scotland will not be the last.

"We are, sir, yours truly,

"HENRY SMALL.

"PATRICK M'ANUS.

"9, Winter-terrace, Borough, London, 21st Oct. 1851.

"MY DEAR SIR—I congratulate you sincerely upon your great success, in being awarded the First-class Prize Medal at the Great Exhibition. Well might Mr. Dent, her Majesty's Clockmaker, select your Bell, in preference to all others, for his Monster Clock as it is allowed by all practical Englishmen, as well as Foreigners, that yours were the best toned Bells at the World's Exhibition.

"It would be most desirable that Irishmen, in general would persevere, like you, in their industrial callings. Well-directed energy would not fail soon to regenerate the languishing trade of Ireland. Here are you showing that Ireland can excel even in a branch of Art which had been for ages excluded from your shores; and I trust the orders you have received from Coventry, Secunderabad, and the Peal written for by Dr. Goold, of Melbourne, Australia, will both repay you for your labours, and prove that Irish industry, perseveringly and experiencedly pursued, can invade with success every quarter of the globe, even England and Scotland. You have, I am happy to state, established the character of your Irish Bells not only here, but over the civilized world.

"I am delighted that the Northern Railway Company have purchased the large Bell for the King's Cross Station, where they are now erecting their stupendous and almost unequalled terminus under the contract with Jay and Co. I can inform you that very competent judges were asked their opinion on the merits of this Bell, and their unanimous decision, together with the favourable dictum of Mr. Dent, was given in your behalf, before the Company made a selection of yours, amongst such a variety of Bells from all quarters of Europe.

"As an Irishman I feel great pride in your success. Many were surprised to see such a production of Irish art; and it must be cheering, I repeat, to those true friends of Ireland who are now struggling to raise the then fallen trade of their country, to know that your efforts in casting Bells to any note—a branch of business wholly unknown in Ireland until you established it—have been crowned with such signal success.

"I was about to conclude, but cannot without mentioning that I have just heard the last of your bells has been purchased for the Atherstone Convent, Warwickshire. Many of my acquaintances ask, 'Are all Murphy's bells sold?' as the whole talk of this great industrial neighbourhood is of the Irish Bells.

"Trusting you may obtain a patronage as extensive as your spirit and talent deserve, and which real merit seldom fails to secure—I am your obedient servant,

"T. R. MEADE.

"Mr. John Murphy, Bell-founder,
15, Thomas-street, Dublin."

"The following letter from Mr. Lentaigne announces the award of the Jury in this department:

"Queen's Hotel, Cork-street, Bond-street, London, Wednesday.

"DEAR SIR—I write in haste to tell you that your Bells have got a Prize medal for merit,

"Yours truly,

"JOHN LENTAIGNE.

"The Irish have carried off much more than their share of prizes.

"To Mr. John Murphy, 15, Thomas-street, Dublin."

LIBRARY OF TRANSLATIONS FROM SELECT FOREIGN LITERATURE.

Of late years, there have appeared on the Continent a number of Works, historical and general, which, from their intrinsic merits, have acquired the just reputation of Standard Authorities. To the great mass of readers in this country these are, necessarily, unknown: not merely from their being composed in a foreign language, but from the fact that their very titles, beyond being recorded in "Publishers' Lists," have seldom been heard of except by the select few who devote themselves to the study of Continental literature. The consequence is, that the public are deprived of much that tends to elevate and instruct; while the land is deluged with a flood of books and pamphlets that, so far from benefiting, directly injure and retard the welfare and progress of society. To remedy in some degree this great political evil, it has occurred to the publisher to issue a series of Works by the most distinguished Foreign Authors, on History, Religion, Philosophy and Morals, Biography and Literary Criticism, to be translated and edited by competent individuals.

The Symbolism of Moëhler, the works of De Maistre, Audin, Balmez and Leibnitz, already published, afford specimens of the nature and value of that literature which it is the wish and object of the Publisher to introduce to the attention of the English Public.

To effect this, it is intended to publish, at intervals, a series of translations from the most approved Continental Authors, well printed, in a form and size likely to be acceptable to the community. Each work being translated directly from the original.

In order, however, to enable this design to be effectively carried out, it becomes requisite that the Publisher should be assured of the support of 1000 Subscribers, at £1 per annum.

In the event of that number of Subscribers being obtained, the Publisher engages to furnish annually Four Volumes Octavo, averaging from four to five hundred pages each, to every Subscriber.

The works published will be supplied to Non-Subscribers at an advanced price of not less than one-fourth.

Individuals desirous of subscribing are respectfully requested to send their names to the Publisher, Mr. CHARLES DOLMAN, No. 61, New Bond Street, London, or through their own Booksellers, on or before the 1st of January, 1853.

* * Subscriptions should be paid in advance, at the time of subscribing, and may be remitted through the Post, by an order payable to the Publisher, at Old Cavendish-street.

The subscriptions already received, and those that may be sent in previous to the 1st of January next, will be considered as for the Year 1853, and for which Four Volumes will be furnished to the Subscribers.

 Any Clergyman or Individual who shall obtain ten Subscribers, shall be entitled to receive the series of volumes for that Subscription gratis.

With the view of affording to the Subscribers sufficient guarantee that the Works selected for translation shall be worthy of admission into the Series, the Publisher pledges himself that no book shall be introduced therein, without being first submitted to the consideration of a Literary Council, consisting of the following Gentlemen, who have kindly consented to assist the undertaking with their advice:

It will be understood that the members of the Council are not individually responsible for the opinions of the authors selected for translation.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"We heartily recommend these volumes to general attention, as one of the most valuable contributions ever offered to British literature by a foreign hand."—Quarterly Review.

"We never saw a more carefully edited book. More patient exactness, a more praiseworthy elaborate fidelity we could not possibly have desired. We heartily recommend this valuable collection to the best attention of the students of history."—Examiner.

"We must in justice say that we have never seen a mass of historical documents more faithfully edited, lucidly arranged, and impartially illustrated than the collection before us."—Athenæum.

Lingard, Rev. Dr., the History and Antiquities of the Anglo-Saxon Church; containing an account of its Origin, Government, Doctrines, Worship, Revenues, and Clerical and Monastic Institutions. In 2 vols., 8vo, price £1 4s., cloth lettered.

"If we were asked from what source one could obtain the greatest insight into the national mind and ways of thought of the Christian Anglo-Saxons, we should have no hesitation in referring the inquirer to these pages. As a narrator of facts, and expounder of the inferences more immediately to be drawn from them, there is no writer of the present day who exceeds the diligent, accurate, and eloquent historian of England."—Morning Chronicle.

"Of the monastic institutions among the Anglo-Saxons, Dr. Lingard has written in a spirit of candour and fairness; he points out the abuses to which such communities are liable, and does not conceal the fact that such abuses frequently prevail."—Athenæum.

Lingard's History of England, from the First Invasion of the Romans to the reign of William and Mary, in the year 1688. New edition, revised and much enlarged. This library edition is handsomely printed in ten large octavo volumes, price £6, or 12s. per volume, cloth lettered, and enriched with a likeness of the author, engraved in the best style, from a portrait by Mr. Skaife.

"From all comments on the work, as a history, we abstain; but we may say it has achieved such a success, and obtained in the eye of the public such a position that the possession of this new and revised edition is essential to the completion of every library. The typography is beautiful, and the work, independently of all intrinsic merit, will ornament any shelves where it may find a place."—Morning Chronicle.

"The labour expended by Dr. Lingard upon his subject has been enormous. He has again and again gone over it with a profound and scrutinising investigation, and although he is now, we believe, in his eightieth year, he has prosecuted his task with undiminished zeal, until he could give, in the edition before us, the finishing stroke of emendation to the great occupation of his life. This edition may, therefore, be considered far superior to those which have preceded it, and in this respect will remain as a mountain of unexampled perseverance to the latest period of time."—Bell's Weekly Messenger.

"It contains food for all minds. The wisest will find in it a strain of a high, clear, pure, and (in these days) a new philosophy. The historian and the antiquarian will find light thrown upon the manners of many times and many people. The poet will be charmed with the strains of lofty eloquence, and the many touching and beautiful stories it contains. J. M'BERNEY, BOOT AND SHOEMAKER,

25, PARLIAMENT STREET,

For many years Shoemaker to the Irish College of Paris, Picpus, &c.

Begs to apprise his kind Friends and the Public, that from long experience he has mastered the whole science of providing for the foot a covering, at once, elegant and easy.

His Boot, in particular, cannot be surpassed in style, fit, and durability of material; it preserves the foot of the wearer from the pain and deformity consequent upon an ill-fitting Boot, while at the same time, it displays all the symmetry of a beautiful foot, and conceals natural defects and blemishes resulting from the habitual use of badly shaped, and ill-constructed coverings.

His prices are very reasonable, and all who value comfort and economy, will do well to give him a trial. Observe No. 25 Parliament street.

MESSRS. BEVINGTON AND SONS.

ORGAN BUILDERS,

Beg most respectfully to return their sincere thanks to the Catholic clergy, nobility, gentry, and the public, for their kind patronage, trusting, by their strict attention to the quality of tone necessary for the proper accompaniment of the Catholic service, the quality of metal and other material used in the manufacture of their instruments, to insure a continuance of it.

In the mechanical arrangements of the organ, Messrs. BEVINGTON have made some essential improvements, whereby simplicity of action, quietness in the key movements, feet and composition pedals, so necessary where the soft stops are used, are attained. This simplicity of arrangement, with a large stock of seasoned material, enables them to build on the most reasonable terms. They can give the most unexceptionable references to the principal clergy and gentry in the Catholic connexion; and beg to refer to the following list of Organs erected and built expressly for the Catholic service;

Clifton & Bristol Catholic Boarding School,

Prospect House, Horfield Road, Kingsdown,

CONDUCTED BY MR. DUNN AND COMPETENT ASSISTANTS.

Kingsdown, though municipally a part of Bristol, is locally in Clifton, on the same delightful eminence and enjoying the same pure and salubrious air. Prospect House contains every convenience for a Boarding School, a lofty school-room 30 feet by 20, airy dormitories, and a convenient bath-room, with a good enclosed play-ground, and a separate play-ground and play-room for the younger children.

At this School, young gentlemen are carefully instructed in their religion, and thoroughly prepared for business, and for the learned and scientific professions. The course comprises the Greek, Latin, and French languages, and the higher branches of the Mathematics. But to those whose time at school will not admit of such a course, instruction is given chiefly in the departments more immediately preparative to their intended avocations. A Drilling Master attends twice a week, and Professors of Music, Drawing, &c. when required, French is taught by a resident Master, who qualified himself for his office by a residence of several years in France.

The health and happiness of the pupils are objects of constant attention and solicitude; every boy has a separate bed, and the number being limited to thirty, they have, under Mrs. Dunn's maternal care, all the comforts of home. The age of admission is from six to fourteen.

The bath-room contains warm, cold and shower baths, with an unlimited supply of water. Each young gentleman has a warm bath once a week, Mrs. Dunn herself attending the junior boys.

IMPORTANT CAUTION.

ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL

In the GROWTH and RESTORATION of the HUMAN HAIR, has caused imitators to spring up in every possible variety; who so far copy the Label as frequently to deceive the unwary. A. R. and Sons have complaints repeatedly from parties who have materially suffered from the uses of these trashy compounds; and to frustrate to some extent such impositions, they here add a small copy in outline of their genuine Label from the burine of MESSRS. PERKINS, BACON, and PETCH, the eminent engravers of London, on which will be seen the names and address of the Proprietors in full (these are in red ink on the label) any deviation from which will always prove a spurious article.

A COPY IN OUTLINE OF THE GENUINE LABEL.

The prices are 3s. 6d.; 7s.; family bottles (equal to four small) 10s. 6d. and double that size. 21s.

This universally admired OIL is acknowledged to possess pre-eminently nourishing qualities, superior to all other preparations, for improving the growth, and restoring the Hair on bald parts, prevents it from falling off or turning grey, to the latest period of existence—strengthens weak Hair—produces a thick and luxuriant growth—and makes it BEAUTIFULLY SOFT, CURLY and GLOSSY. In the growth of WHISKERS, EYEBROWS and MUSTACHIOS, it is also unfailing in its stimulative operation. For Children it is especially recommended as forming the basis of a beautiful head of hair.

BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION.

ROWLANDS' KALYDOR,

An Oriental Botanical Preparation, of unfailing efficacy in effectually dissipating all Redness, Tan, Pimples, Spots, Freckles, and other cutaneous visitations so inimical to FEMALE BEAUTY. Its constant use will transform the bilious and clouded COMPLEXION to one of a Healthy and Juvenile Bloom, rendering the Skin delicately clear and soft, and irradiating with transparent whiteness the Neck, Hands and Arms.

Gentlemen, after shaving, will find it allay all irritation and tenderness of the skin and render it soft, smooth and pleasant.

SOUND AND WHITE TEETH

Are not only indispensably requisite to a pleasing exterior in both sexes, but they are peculiarly appreciated through life as a blessing highly conducive to the purposes of health and longevity. Among the various preparations offered for the purpose,

ROWLANDS' ODONTO,

stands unrivalled in its capability of embellishing, purifying, and preserving the Teeth to the latest period of life. It will be found to eradicate all tartar and concretions, and impart a pearl-like whiteness to the enamelled surface, remove spots of incipient decay, render the gums firm and red, fix the Teeth firmly in their sockets; and from its aromatic influence impart sweetness and purity to the breath. Price 2s. 9d. per Box.

** The words "ROWLANDS' ODONTO," are on the Label, and "A. Rowland & Sons, 20, Hatton Garden," engraved on the Government Stamp affixed on each box.
